Ike's Health Reinsurance Plan Is Derailed By House

Bill Sent Back To Committee

WASHINGTON, June 13 (AP) — The House balked suddenly at President Eisenhower's health reinsurance program today, sending it back to the Interstate Commerce Committee on a rollcall vote of 238-134.

Majority Leader Halleck (R-Ind) acknowledged that the unexpected move just about killed the chances of getting any action on the legislation during this session of Congress.

With a personal introduction by President Eisenhower, Welfare Secretary Oveta Culp Hobby went on the air last Friday to urge enactment of the bill, which would have set up a government reinsurance system to encourage expansion of the health insurance offered by private companies.

Sudden Storm Blowsup

The bill had cleared the Interstate Committee without a record vote, and as late as this afternoon Republican leaders told newsmen they knew of no major opposition.

A storm blew up during three hours of debate, however.

The main complaint against the measure was that it was rushed to a vote too soon, that members didn't have time to digest the provisions in its 40 printed pages, and that it would not accomplish anything for the masses of people who don't have health insurance.

Mrs. Hobby, in her televised talk for the bill, said it was neither socialized medicine nor a handout to the insurance companies.

Provided Revolving Fund

During today's debate supporters of the measure acknowledged it wouldn't make health insurance available to people now unable to afford it and wouldn't make it cheaper for those who already have it.

In general, the bill was designed to encourage private health insurance companies to insure persons now eligible, lengthen the period of hospitalization, etc. The companies would have paid a premium into a revolving fund, with the government putting up 25 million dollars to get the fund started and underwriting up to 75 per cent of the losses incurred through expanded activities of the private companies.

U. S. Recognizes Guatemala Regime

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The State Department announced tonight that the United States has recognized the new government of Guatemala, headed by Col. Carlos Castillo Armas.

Castillo heads a three-man military junta which now rules the Central American country. He helped to overthrow a regime which was strongly influenced by Communists.

The department's announcement was brief, merely stating:

"The United States ambassador, John E. Puerifoy, in Guatemala City today informed the foreign minister of Guatemala, his Excellency Carlos Salazar, that the United States government has recognized the new government in Guatemala."

Governors Hike Estimated Cost Of Ike Road Plan

BOLTON LANDING, N. Y., July 13 (AP)—Governors pouring praise and protest on a huge new presidential highway building program upped the cost estimate today to a possible 90 billion dollars.

Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado, chairman of the annual Governors' Conference in session here, mentioned that figure at a news conference.

It appeared likely the conference might act tomorrow on setting up a special committee to consult President Eisenhower on his 10-year "grand plan" for a national road network capable of meeting defense needs in any atomic war and transport problems of 200 million people.

Nixon Outlined Program

In outlining the program to the governors, through notes read to the conference last night by Vice President Nixon, Eisenhower spoke of a 50 billion dollar program—in addition to "current normal expenses."

Thornton said he and other governors figured these normal expenses, by the states and federal governments, would amount to another 40 billions. He said Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York thought the total might be even more.

Thornton said, too, that President Eisenhower is anxious to talk over the projected program with the governors. Some of the state executives were equally anxious for a huddle.

Fine Starts Ball Rolling

Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania started the ball rolling in that direction "so we can determine once and for all what is meant" by the plan. Dewey and Govs. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan and Goodwin J. Knight of California quickly backed the idea of a Washington conference.

Thornton and Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio viewed the program as probably part of an administration plan to use road construction for pump priming purposes in event of a serious business recession.

Governors were fairly well agreed that the country needs an extra 50 billion of road building in the next decade, slump or no slump. But they were split over who should carry it out and how.

Judge Clark, Former Mo. Senator, Dead

GLOUCESTER, Mass., July 13 (AP)—U. S. Circuit Court Judge Bennett Champ Clark, former Democratic senator from Missouri, died today in Addison Gilbert Hospital. He was 64.

The jurist and his wife arrived in this resort city last month to spend the summer.

He was stricken at his summer home this morning and taken unconscious to the hospital. He died late this afternoon. The attending physician, Dr. Ever Curtis, said Judge Clark suffered a heart attack.

60 Believed Killed As Slides Bury Buses

At least 80 persons were injured.

Tribunal Rules U. N. Must Pay 11 Fired Americans

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, July 13 (AP)—The World Court rejected U.S. arguments and ruled today the United Nations must pay $179,000 in compensation to 11 Americans fired by the world organization in connection with U.S. loyalty checks.

This issue was the center of a bitter controversy in the 60-member U.N. General Assembly last fall, as a result of strenuous U.S. objections to paying the awards. It now goes back to the Assembly for another round of debate.

American Position

The United States took the position the Assembly could—and should—set aside the awards which had been made by the U.N. Administrative Tribunal, an appeals body set up to review staff personnel problems. After a long debate, the Assembly decided to ask the international court for an advisory opinion.

By a vote of 9-3 the court held that the Assembly "has no rights on any ground to refuse to give effects to awards of compensation" made by the Administrative Tribunal.

The court rejected the U.S. view that the tribunal was created by the Assembly and, therefore, was subordinate to it. Sir Arnold D. McNair of Britain, president of the court, held the tribunal is a judicial body and that its decisions are binding.

Appeal Views Collide

McNair said the statute, which created the tribunal, contained no provisions for review or appeal.

The U.S. Judge on the World Court, Green H. Hackworth, said in his minority opinion the Assembly could lawfully review the awards when they showed manifest deficiency in the administration of justice and were contrary to the U.N. Charter, the tribunal's own statute, and U.N. staff rules and regulations.

Senate Passes Jobless Aid Bill

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The Senate tonight passed 78-3 an unemployment compensation financing bill which will bring bigger federal grants to the states. It acted after rejecting an amendment to boost the jobless aid benefits to individuals.

The measure now goes to conference with the House, which passed it in virtually the same form last year.

The proposal of 16 Democrats and Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) to raise the nationwide scale of unemployment compensation payments by an estimated 40 per cent was voted down 56-30 after several hours of debate.

Backers of the amendment contended that the benefits, which are under control of the states, were set in the 1930's and are inadequate by present standards.

Heir's Body Removed From Grave For Second Autopsy

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP)—The body of Montgomery Ward Thorne was taken from a grave in the family plot today for a second autopsy.

The new examination, by seven pathologists, was set for late tomorrow morning. It will cap a series of dramatic turns in an investigation—so far fruitless—to determine what brought about Thorne's death in his tiny, locked apartment June 19.

Thorne, a 20-year-old Fordham University student, was heir to half of the $2,600,000 estate of his father, Gordon C. Thorne, who died in 1938. For several months before his death, young Thorne had refused to live with his mother, Mrs. Marion Thorne, in her luxurious Lake Shore Drive apartment.

Bizarre angles of the youth's life, many of them conflicting, have multiplied during the lengthy investigation of his death. But the actual factors which snuffed out his life have eluded experts as the bulky inquest record grew.

Dr. Harry Leon, physician for the coroner, expressed the opinion last week that Thorne died of paralysis of his breathing apparatus resulting from morphine, a sleeping powder, wood alcohol and grain alcohol. This theory was criticized by pathologists who saw the medical report on the post mortem examination.

A commission of four medical experts appointed by Coroner Walter E. McCarron checked the tissue specimens taken from Thorne's body and reported yesterday that "Poisons were not present in quantity sufficient to cause death." The panel also ruled out some natural ills, including pancreatitis and kidney disease, and recommended that the body be exhumed for further examination.

Oath "Mixup" May Prevent Perjury Move

Witnesses May Not Have Been Sworn At Housing Inquiry

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The Senate Banking Committee, which sent to the Justice Department a transcript of what it said was conflicting secret testimony by two New Jersey builders, found tonight that the witnesses may not have been sworn.

Committee Counsel William Simon, questioned by newsmen, conceded that "You have no perjury case if the witness was not under oath."

Heard In Secret Session

The witnesses, heard in secret session June 22, were Sidney Sarner of Tenafly, N.J., and Ralph J. Solow of Englewood, N.J. They were partners in construction of the Linwood Park, Inc., apartment project at Fort Lee, N. J., financed through an FHA-insured loan.

Sarner, appearing in public session yesterday, refused to answer any questions, claiming protection of the Fifth Amendment against self incrimination.

The transcript of the June 22 testimony released tonight quoted Sarner that FHA officials ordered them to construct a shopping and business center in connection with the project. Solow was quoted as saying the housing agency had not given such an order.

But the question of whether the witnesses were sworn outweighed the apparent conflict in their testimony, so far as any possible action against them is concerned.

Oath Missing From Record

The transcript of testimony handed to newsmen by Sen. Capehart (R - Ind), committee chairman, failed to show that either witness had been sworn, and the official reporting firm which prepared the transcripts said it is customary always to show the swearing of witnesses in the record.

On the other hand Sen. Bennett (R-Utah), who presided at both morning and afternoon sessions of the secret hearing, told newsmen he was "99 per cent certain" that the witnesses took the customary oath to tell the whole truth. It would have been Bennett's job to administer the oath. He said he remembered distinctly the only reason he attended the hearing was to administer the oath.

U. S. Production Reached Record High Last Year

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The Commerce Department said today the nation produced nearly 365 billion dollars worth of goods and services last year, a new record.

It figured out at about a billion dollars a day and it was the fourth year in a row that the nation's production had climbed to a new peak.

The department's report also showed that total production fell off sharply in the first quarter of this year, but not as much as in the final quarter of last year.

Personal income in the first five months of this year, it said, ran slightly higher than a year before despite the drop in total production. The department estimated that during the first five months of this year, personal income was at an annual rate of 285 billion dollars, approximately 600 million dollars higher than the annual rate in the first five months of 1953.

The report was on the basis of a complete revision, the first in seven years, of the department's records of total production and the various segments of it, such as national income and personal income.

A spokesman for the department's Office of Business Economics said the revision was based on more and newer information than had previously been available.

He said that for the first time the annual report on the nation's economic activity was based on an analysis of statistics on business and income gathered in the 1950 census.

Committee Says:

U.S. A-Arms Would Doom Russian Thrust

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—A congressional committee said today that "America's preponderance in atomic weapons" could foredoom a Russian thrust into Europe or elsewhere, but that "our partners" need more information about the weapons.

The Senate-House Committee on Atomic Energy made the declaration in asking Congress to revise the 8-year-old atomic energy law.

It asked, as President Eisenhower has asked, that some exchange of atomic secrets be allowed with friendly nations and that private industry be let into the atomic power field.

Red Numbers Offset

The report discussed, among other things:

Atomic Arsenal — "America's preponderance in atomic weapons can offset the numerical superiority of the Communist forces and serve emphatic notice on the Soviet dictators that any attempt to occupy free Europe, or to push further anywhere into the free world, would be foredoomed to failure.

"Yet, so long as our law prohibits us from giving our partners in these joint efforts for common defense such atomic information as is required for realistic military planning, our own national security suffers."

Sub Engine Successful

Atomic Submarine — "The land-based prototype of the atomic engine propelling the USS Nautilus has already produced more than enough power to send an atomic submarine around the world, fully submerged and at high speed."

Atomic Power — "The atomic-reactor art has already reached the point where atomic power at prices competitive with electricity derived from conventional fuels is on the horizon, though not within our immediate reach.

"The goal of atomic power at competitive prices will be reached more quickly if private enterprise, using private funds, is now encouraged to play a far larger role in the development of atomic power than is permitted under existing legislation."

Robertson And Webb Win In Va. Primary

RICHMOND, Va., July 13 (AP)—Virginia Democrats picked two young state legislators in primary elections today to try to redeem congressional districts captured by Republicans in the 1952 Eisenhower landslide.

In the western 6th District Ernest Robertson, a 39-year-old Roanoke county salesman who has been a member of the Virginia House of Delegates for six years, won the party nomination over Powell Glass Jr. of Lynchburg, grandson of the late U. S. Carter Glass, and Dr. J. Carl Poindexter, Salem College professor. Poindexter was never a threat.

Across the river from Washington in the northern Virginia 10th, Del. John Webb, 38, a Fairfax County attorney, swept a field of four candidates and won the task of trying to unseat Rep. Joel T. Broyhill (R - Va) in November.

Non-Compulsory Social Security Extension Voted

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee voted today to make social security coverage voluntary for 3,600,000 farm operators and 500,000 professional people instead of compulsory as President Eisenhower asked.

The committee did not announce the votes, which were the first taken in its consideration of the administration's bill liberalizing and extending the social security system.

But it was learned that there were not enough votes in the committee in favor of compulsory coverage of the 4,100,000 persons, as the administration requested.

Instead, the question became whether to eliminate the farm operators and professional people entirely. One member reported privately that at one point the committee voted to eliminate both groups from the bill.

However, these decisions were reconsidered and the optional coverage was voted. It was learned that the vote on the professional people was close but that a substantial majority of the committee favored bringing the farm operators in on a voluntary basis rather than eliminating them entirely.

The House passed the bill in about the form requested by the president. It provided for compulsory coverage of the farm operators and all of the professional people except about 150,000 doctors.

Flanders Says Vote On M'Carthy Ouster Pledged

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) said today he has a promise from the Senate Republican Policy Committee that he can have a showdown vote on his move to oust Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) as chairman of the Senate Investigations subcommittee.

Flanders met with the committee behind closed doors this afternoon.

He told reporters later that he got the leaders' pledge that he could have "a straight vote" on his anti-McCarthy move.

No "Artificial Barriers"

The senator added with a grin: "I had a slight feeling that the party leadership wasn't enthusiastic and 100 per cent behind me.

"But I left with this gain—that they would not put any artificial barriers in my way."

Sen. Ferguson of Michigan, the policy committee chairman, Sen. Knowland of California, the Senn ate GOP leader, both declined to discuss what had occurred behind the closed doors and so did other members.

Speech On Thursday

Flanders told a news conference that he had advised the policy committee he would announce in a Senate speech Thursday what form his move against McCarthy will take, and was assured he would be given an opportunity to make his speech.

Flanders is the author of a resolution the Senate sent to its Rules Committee proposing to strip McCarthy of all committee chairmanships. The rules committee has taken no action on the resolution.

The Vermont senator said his "probable" move will be to ask the Senate to take the resolution away from the committee and bring it to a vote.

Wife Testifies At Husband's Trial For Slaying Of Suitor

ALLEGAN, Mich., July 13 (AP)—"I told him there was another man," pretty, Mrs. Edith Small, 30, today told a jury trying her dentist-husband for first-degree murder in the slaying of her industrialist-playboy suitor.

The defendant is Dr. Kenneth Small, 31, whose defense is that theft of his wife's love drove him temporarily insane and led to the shooting of New Yorker Jules H. Lack, 45, last May 29.

Mrs. Small, who saw Lack killed in a swanky Lake Michigan cottage where they were visiting friends, was called as a prosecution witness. But the defense refused to let her stop with a recital of what she saw there.

The slender brunette waived a right to refuse to testify against her husband. She previously told reporters she wanted to "help him any way I can," but didn't know whether she would return to him.

Shortly after Defense Atty. Leo Hoffman started to lead her through her associations with Lack, Mrs. Small saw nearby the gun with which Lack had been killed. She became flustered and requested: "Please take away that gun." It was.

Hoffman led Mrs. Small through a recital of her "infatuation" with Lack, which she admitted happened on a solo Florida spring vacation she took with the three Small children. The attorney brought her through her request of Dr. Small for a divorce and on to the fatal rendevouz.

U. S. Reported As Agreeable To Separation

Development Aired As Dulles, France's Premier, Eden Meet

PARIS, Wednesday, July 14 (AP)—The United States has "pretty well agreed" to a partition of Viet Nam, it was reported, as Secretary of State Dulles conferred through yesterday evening and until early this morning with British and French diplomatic chiefs on an Indochina peace.

The report that the United States at length has agreed to the partition came from an authoritative British informant in London yesterday who said the dividing line would be between the 16th and 18th Parallels. He said the line would be "demonstrably defensive—one that the Communists will understand is defensible."

The secretary of state himself had no comment on this report.

Discussion To Continue

He flew in from Washington yesterday and soon sat down for an hour's talk with French Premier Pierre Mendes-France who has pledged to his people to get a peace in Indochina within the next eight days or give up his job.

The two then went to the Hotel Matignon, official residence of the Premier, where British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden was waiting.

Eden and Mendes-France had returned from Geneva conference negotiations especially to confer with Dulles on Indochina strategy.

The three foreign ministers, each attended by three of his closest aides, conferred at the dinner table all evening and until early this morning.

Joint Statement Promised

Clearly, the British and French were eager to persuade Dulles that he should return to the Geneva conference as head of the American delegation in order to present a united front to the Communists. But when he left the dinner the secretary of state declined to say whether he would go. He has clearly been dissassociating the United States from any peace that might look like a surrender.

Mendes-France said a joint statement on the Big Three talks would be issued soon after the second session today.

Dulles made it clear he was still thinking in the broad terms of collective security for Southeast Asia. In a brief statement on arrival, he recalled that he had come here three months ago to discuss a collective defense for that area.

"That was prior to the Geneva conference, and I felt that such a collective defense organization would help France to secure just and honorable terms at Geneva," he said. "I still feel the same way."

Yanks, Reds Join In Fighting Flood

VIENNA, Austria, July 13 (AP)—Russian and American troops worked side by side today shoveling sand from the same trucks, to stop the raging Danube River flooding an Austrian village and threatening a U. S. Air Force base.

Attempts to aid 70,000 Austrians and Germans, forced to flee their homes in central Europe's worst floods in centuries, brought the unusual East-West cooperation.

It occurred near the U. S. Air Force Base at Tulln, 22 miles northeast of Vienna. The base is isolated in the Russian zone of Austria, with only a lonely country road connecting it with the U. S. sector in the four-power occupied Austrian capital.

Thirty U. S. Air Force volunteers, led by the base commander, Maj. Karol Rybos of New York City, worked with about the same number of Soviet infantrymen.

Together, they shoveled sand and rocks into a leading breach in a sodden dike holding back the Danube at the village of Langenlebarn. Their aim was to keep the already inundated village from worse damage, save the airfield from flood waters, and keep open the road connecting the base with Vienna.

Oath "Mixup" May Prevent Perjury Move

Witnesses May Not Have Been Sworn At Housing Inquiry

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The Senate Banking Committee, which sent to the Justice Department a transcript of what it said was conflicting secret testimony by two New Jersey builders, found tonight that the witnesses may not have been sworn.

Committee Counsel William Simon, questioned by newsmen, conceded that "You have no perjury case if the witness was not under oath."

Heard In Secret Session

The witnesses, heard in secret session June 22, were Sidney Sarner of Tenafly, N.J., and Ralph J. Solow of Englewood, N.J. They were partners in construction of the Linwood Park, Inc., apartment project at Fort Lee, N. J., financed through an FHA-insured loan.

Sarner, appearing in public session yesterday, refused to answer any questions, claiming protection of the Fifth Amendment against self incrimination.

The transcript of the June 22 testimony released tonight quoted Sarner that FHA officials ordered them to construct a shopping and business center in connection with the project. Solow was quoted as saying the housing agency had not given such an order.

But the question of whether the witnesses were sworn outweighed the apparent conflict in their testimony, so far as any possible action against them is concerned.

Oath Missing From Record

The transcript of testimony handed to newsmen by Sen. Capehart (R - Ind), committee chairman, failed to show that either witness had been sworn, and the official reporting firm which prepared the transcripts said it is customary always to show the swearing of witnesses in the record.

On the other hand Sen. Bennett (R-Utah), who presided at both morning and afternoon sessions of the secret hearing, told newsmen he was "99 per cent certain" that the witnesses took the customary oath to tell the whole truth. It would have been Bennett's job to administer the oath. He said he remembered distinctly the only reason he attended the hearing was to administer the oath.

U. S. Production Reached Record High Last Year

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The Commerce Department said today the nation produced nearly 365 billion dollars worth of goods and services last year, a new record.

It figured out at about a billion dollars a day and it was the fourth year in a row that the nation's production had climbed to a new peak.

The department's report also showed that total production fell off sharply in the first quarter of this year, but not as much as in the final quarter of last year.

Personal income in the first five months of this year, it said, ran slightly higher than a year before despite the drop in total production. The department estimated that during the first five months of this year, personal income was at an annual rate of 285 billion dollars, approximately 600 million dollars higher than the annual rate in the first five months of 1953.

The report was on the basis of a complete revision, the first in seven years, of the department's records of total production and the various segments of it, such as national income and personal income.

A spokesman for the department's Office of Business Economics said the revision was based on more and newer information than had previously been available.

He said that for the first time the annual report on the nation's economic activity was based on an analysis of statistics on business and income gathered in the 1950 census.

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—A 25-year-old passenger died of polio today aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth a few hours before she docked.

The U.S. Public Health Service at once notified home town health departments to keep an eye on passengers who might have come in contact with the victim, Robert Arone of Ardsley, N.Y.

Committee Says:

U.S. A-Arms Would Doom Russian Thrust

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—A congressional committee said today that "America's preponderance in atomic weapons" could foredoom a Russian thrust into Europe or elsewhere, but that "our partners" need more information about the weapons.

The Senate-House Committee on Atomic Energy made the declaration in asking Congress to revise the 8-year-old atomic energy law.

It asked, as President Eisenhower has asked, that some exchange of atomic secrets be allowed with friendly nations and that private industry be let into the atomic power field.

Red Numbers Offset

The report discussed, among other things:

Atomic Arsenal — "America's preponderance in atomic weapons can offset the numerical superiority of the Communist forces and serve emphatic notice on the Soviet dictators that any attempt to occupy free Europe, or to push further anywhere into the free world, would be foredoomed to failure.

"Yet, so long as our law prohibits us from giving our partners in these joint efforts for common defense such atomic information as is required for realistic military planning, our own national security suffers."

Sub Engine Successful

Atomic Submarine — "The land-based prototype of the atomic engine propelling the USS Nautilus has already produced more than enough power to send an atomic submarine around the world, fully submerged and at high speed."

Atomic Power — "The atomic-reactor art has already reached the point where atomic power at prices competitive with electricity derived from conventional fuels is on the horizon, though not within our immediate reach.

"The goal of atomic power at competitive prices will be reached more quickly if private enterprise, using private funds, is now encouraged to play a far larger role in the development of atomic power than is permitted under existing legislation."

Robertson And Webb Win In Va. Primary

RICHMOND, Va., July 13 (AP)—Virginia Democrats picked two young state legislators in primary elections today to try to redeem congressional districts captured by Republicans in the 1952 Eisenhower landslide.

In the western 6th District Ernest Robertson, a 39-year-old Roanoke county salesman who has been a member of the Virginia House of Delegates for six years, won the party nomination over Powell Glass Jr. of Lynchburg, grandson of the late U. S. Carter Glass, and Dr. J. Carl Poindexter, Salem College professor. Poindexter was never a threat.

Across the river from Washington in the northern Virginia 10th, Del. John Webb, 38, a Fairfax County attorney, swept a field of four candidates and won the task of trying to unseat Rep. Joel T. Broyhill (R-Va) in November.

Non-Compulsory Social Security Extension Voted

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee voted today to make social security coverage voluntary for 3,600,000 farm operators and 500,000 professional people instead of compulsory as President Eisenhower asked.

The committee did not announce the votes, which were the first taken in its consideration of the administration's bill liberalizing and extending the social security system.

But it was learned that there were not enough votes in the committee in favor of compulsory coverage of the 4,100,000 persons, as the administration requested.

Instead, the question became whether to eliminate the farm operators and professional people entirely. One member reported privately that at one point the committee voted to eliminate both groups from the bill.

However, these decisions were reconsidered and the optional coverage was voted. It was learned that the vote on the professional people was close but that a substantial majority of the committee favored bringing the farm operators in on a voluntary basis rather than eliminating them entirely.

The House passed the bill in about the form requested by the president. It provided for compulsory coverage of the farm operators and all of the professional people except about 150,000 doctors.

Wife Testifies At Husband's Trial For Slaying Of Suitor

ALLEGAN, Mich., July 13 (AP)—"I told him there was another man," pretty, Mrs. Edith Small, 30, today told a jury trying her dentist-husband for first-degree murder in the slaying of her industrialist-playboy suitor.

The defendant is Dr. Kenneth Small, 31, whose defense is that theft of his wife's love drove him temporarily insane and led to the shooting of New Yorker Jules H. Lack, 45, last May 29.

Mrs. Small, who saw Lack killed in a swanky Lake Michigan cottage where they were visiting friends, was called as a prosecution witness. But the defense refused to let her stop with a recital of what she saw there.

The slender brunette waived a right to refuse to testify against her husband. She previously told reporters she wanted to "help him any way I can," but didn't know whether she would return to him.

Shortly after Defense Atty. Leo Hoffman started to lead her through her associations with Lack, Mrs. Small saw nearby the gun with which Lack had been killed. She became flustered and requested: "Please take away that gun." It was.

Hoffman led Mrs. Small through a recital of her "infatuation" with Lack, which she admitted happened on a solo Florida spring vacation she took with the three Small children. The attorney brought her through her request of Dr. Small for a divorce and on to the fatal rendevouz.

Flanders Says Vote On M'Carthy Ouster Pledged

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) said today he has a promise from the Senate Republican Policy Committee that he can have a showdown vote on his move to oust Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) as chairman of the Senate Investigations subcommittee.

Flanders met with the committee behind closed doors this afternoon.

He told reporters later that he got the leaders' pledge that he could have "a straight vote" on his anti-McCarthy move.

No "Artificial Barriers"

The senator added with a grin: "I had a slight feeling that the party leadership wasn't enthusiastic and 100 per cent behind me.

"But I left with this gain—that they would not put any artificial barriers in my way."

Sen. Ferguson of Michigan, the policy committee chairman, Sen. Knowland of California, the Senn ate GOP leader, both declined to discuss what had occurred behind the closed doors and so did other members.

Speech On Thursday

Flanders told a news conference that he had advised the policy committee he would announce in a Senate speech Thursday what form his move against McCarthy will take, and was assured he would be given an opportunity to make his speech.

Flanders is the author of a resolution the Senate sent to its Rules Committee proposing to strip McCarthy of all committee chairmanships. The rules committee has taken no action on the resolution.

The Vermont senator said his "probable" move will be to ask the Senate to take the resolution away from the committee and bring it to a vote.

U. S. Reported As Agreeable To Separation

Development Aired As Dulles, France's Premier, Eden Meet

PARIS, Wednesday, July 14 (AP)—The United States has "pretty well agreed" to a partition of Viet Nam, it was reported, as Secretary of State Dulles conferred through yesterday evening and until early this morning with British and French diplomatic chiefs on an Indochina peace.

The report that the United States at length has agreed to the partition came from an authoritative British informant in London yesterday who said the dividing line would be between the 16th and 18th Parallels. He said the line would be "demonstrably defensive—one that the Communists will understand is defensible."

The secretary of state himself had no comment on this report.

Discussion To Continue

He flew in from Washington yesterday and soon sat down for an hour's talk with French Premier Pierre Mendes-France who has pledged to his people to get a peace in Indochina within the next eight days or give up his job.

The two then went to the Hotel Matignon, official residence of the Premier, where British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden was waiting.

Eden and Mendes-France had returned from Geneva conference negotiations especially to confer with Dulles on Indochina strategy.

The three foreign ministers, each attended by three of his closest aides, conferred at the dinner table all evening and until early this morning.

Joint Statement Promised

Clearly, the British and French were eager to persuade Dulles that he should return to the Geneva conference as head of the American delegation in order to present a united front to the Communists. But when he left the dinner the secretary of state declined to say whether he would go. He has clearly been dissassociating the United States from any peace that might look like a surrender.

Mendes-France said a joint statement on the Big Three talks would be issued soon after the second session today.

Dulles made it clear he was still thinking in the broad terms of collective security for Southeast Asia. In a brief statement on arrival, he recalled that he had come here three months ago to discuss a collective defense for that area.

"That was prior to the Geneva conference, and I felt that such a collective defense organization would help France to secure just and honorable terms at Geneva," he said. "I still feel the same way."

Yanks, Reds Join In Fighting Flood

VIENNA, Austria, July 13 (AP)—Russian and American troops worked side by side today shoveling sand from the same trucks, to stop the raging Danube River flooding an Austrian village and threatening a U. S. Air Force base.

Attempts to aid 70,000 Austrians and Germans, forced to flee their homes in central Europe's worst floods in centuries, brought the unusual East-West cooperation.

It occurred near the U. S. Air Force Base at Tulln, 22 miles northeast of Vienna. The base is isolated in the Russian zone of Austria, with only a lonely country road connecting it with the U. S. sector in the four-power occupied Austrian capital.

Thirty U. S. Air Force volunteers, led by the base commander, Maj. Karol Rybos of New York City, worked with about the same number of Soviet infantrymen.

Together, they shoveled sand and rocks into a leading breach in a sodden dike holding back the Danube at the village of Langenlebarn. Their aim was to keep the already inundated village from worse damage, save the airfield from flood waters, and keep open the road connecting the base with Vienna.

Man's Body Found

CATONSVILLE, Md., July 13 (AP)—The body of a man about 70 was found today in a wheat field on the grounds of Spring Grove State Hospital here.

Dr. Isadore Tuerk, superintendent of the hospital, said the man may have been a patient who walked away from the hospital May 31.

Hanoi's Defense Under Pressure

HANOI, Indochina, July 13 (AP)—The Vietminh built up pressure today on French Union outposts shielding Hanoi on three sides, as the French slammed back with air and tank attacks.

Civilians were moving out of Son Tay, 25 miles northwest of here, following severe mortar shelling of French headquarters there by Communist-led rebels Monday night. A French briefing officer said rebel guerrillas also had opened fire in the streets of that town, which has a normal population of 6,000. One sniper was killed.

There was no indication the French garrison had yielded the town.

The Vietminh stepped up their attacks all across the northern Red River Delta defense line. Guerrillas attacked a French highway guard patrol between Son Tay and Hanoi but were driven back when a squadron of French tanks rushed to the rescue from Son Tay. Twenty rebels were killed and seven captured. French losses were not disclosed.

In other sectors, Vietminh attacks erupted just north of Hung Yen, 25 miles southeast of Son Tay, and throughout the Sept Pagodes-Luc Nam-Phu Lang Thuong trianble 35 miles northeast of Hanoi.

Guerrillas and French-Vietnamese patrols clashed in small night fights along the Hung Yen-Hanoi supply route. The briefing officer said the rebels were driven off in each attack before their demolition squads could cut the road which supplies the isolated post at Hung Yen. Vietminh casualties were put at 20 killed and 10 captured.

French fighter planes and bombers dropped 120 tons of high explosives on Vietminh bases north of Hung Yen. Other planes bombed a string of rebel bases north of the Hanoi-Haiphong lifeline, while three night-flying B26s harassed rebel convoys south of Lang San, only a dozen miles from the Red Chinese border.

Three Children Die And Nine Missing In Boating Tragedy

MONTREAL, July 13 (AP)—Three children were drowned, nine were reported missing and five were rescued today after a pleasure boat overturned on Riviere des Prairies about 20 miles northwest of Montreal.

The motor-powered craft carried 17 children and an adult operator.

The children, both boys and girls ranging between 10 and 12 years of age, were being taken for a cruise on the choppy waters when the craft overturned.

The children were on a picnic sponsored for the Negro Community Center in Montreal when Jack Feligman, 44, offered as a friendly gesture to take them for a ride in his large outboard motorboat.

505 Africans Executed

LONDON, July 13 (AP)—Britain has executed 505 Africans in the campaign to wipe out Mau Mau anti-white terrorism in Kenya, the House of Commons was told today.

Big Rocket Fired For Army Brass

FT. BRAGG, N. C., July 13 (AP)—The Army, showing big brass from the Pentagon how it is geared to atom age warfare, fired one of its new giant bombardment rockets today.

The three-ton missile, able in actual combat to carry a nuclear explosive warhead, went screaming off toward the horizon, the orange flame of its screaming exhaust diminishing swiftly into the distance as the "Honest John" gained supersonic speed.

This was the first public showing of the rocket designed to reach up to 20 miles back of enemy lines with either conventional or atomic explosive.

Two Die In Gas Tank Explosion

LAKEPORT, Calif., July 13 (AP)—Two people were fatally burned in the explosion of two 30,000-gallon tanks of butane gas today shortly after they had warned 20 others away from the danger area.

The dead are Bess Gibson, 50, who owned the plant with her husband; and Irwin Garner, 51.

They died several hours after the blast which also severely burned three others: Garner's son, Don, 12; Mrs. Gibson's husband, Lon, about 50; and Charlie Baum, 49, who was driving by.

It also demolished two nearby houses and wrecked four automobiles. Telephone lines along the highway were blown down.

Berlin, Md., Beauty Seeks World Crown

BERLIN, Md., July 13 (AP)—That 16-year-old beauty from Berlin who became queen of the annual Delmarva Chicken Festival last month will compete for a more ambitious title next week—Miss Universe.

After seeing her picture in a Richmond newspaper, he decided she had a chance in the Miss Universe competition at Long Beach, Calif., July 22.

The Lions Club and the town chipped in for plane fare. Barbara's mother, Mrs. Richard W. Eschenburg, will accompany the pretty contestant to California. They leave by plane from Washington next Thursday at 10 a.m.

Ton-Mile Truck Tax Opposed By McKeldin

BOLTON LANDING, N.Y., July 13 (AP)—Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin said today Maryland is opposed to any weight-distance tax on trucks as a means of raising additional highway revenue.

He urged instead that states consider meeting expanding transportation problems by building toll highways which could be used exclusively by buses and trucks. This, he said, would relieve other highway congestion while benefitting bus and truck companies.

McKeldin told the National Governors Conference that a ton-mile truck tax could be "the forerunner to interstate trade barriers, if not in itself the actual creation of such barriers."

A ton-mile tax has been proposed in some states as a means of meeting rising highway costs. It would apply to trucks and-or buses and would be based on the weight of their load and the distance they were travelling.

Wife Of President's Brother Is Buried

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., July 13 (AP)—With President Dwight D. Eisenhower and the First Lady among the mourners, Mrs. Milton S. Eisenhower, wife of the President's youngest brother, was buried today in a flower-encircled grave on a Pennsylvania hillside.

The presidential party came by plane and automobile from Washington to join Dr. Eisenhower, president of Pennsylvania State University, and other members of the family at the last rites.

Russians Launch New Push To Halt U. S. Bomb Tests

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., July 13 (AP)—Russia opened a new drive in the U.N. Trusteeship Council today to halt H-bomb tests in Pacific island trust areas administered by the United States.

It appeared doomed to the same defeat a Soviet measure suffered yesterday in the council's six-nation Petitions Committee.

Semyon Tsarapkin, sitting as Russia's top U.N. delegate while his boss Andrei Vishinsky is on a home leave, told the 12-nation council the tests must be stopped in the islands area.

Semyon Tsarapkin, sitting as Russia's top U.N. delegate while his boss Andrei Vishinsky is on a home leave, told the 12-nation council the tests must be stopped in the islands area.

Mason Sears, U.S. delegate, charged that Tsarapkin's statement in the council was an unsuccessful propaganda speech full of misstatements.

Tsarapkin told the council the United States spent millions for the H-bomb tests in the Marshall Islands but only a little over $100,000 for educating the islanders. He said the bomb tests threatened the existence of the people and their homes.

Frank Midkiff, U.S. high commissioner for the area, told the council there was little danger of anything going wrong with future tests.

Gertrude, The Python, Back But Was She In Harrisburg?

But at any rate it appears a 10-foot python named Gertrude is back in the possession of a magician named Harry Albacker.

Maybe Gertrude has been in Harrisburg, Pa. or has she?

As long ago as June 20 Albacker announced in Hagerstown, Md., that the 60-pound Gertrude and her carrying case disappeared from his parked automobile.

Today Albacker said a telegram predicting Railway Express would return Gertrude proved true. He said he went to the express station and found the python, still in the same carrying case. He added that the snake seemed "not a bit hungery."

How did Albacker know he should go to the express office?

Well, there was a telegram yesterday from Harrisburg, Pa. He says it read:

"Your snake is in the best of health and not dead as you believe. It was found in a driveway near Harrisburg and giver to me to care for. Railway Express is returning it to you collect."

Albacker says there was no signature on the telegram.

And while he says he paid $2.35 collect charges, the express office in Harrisburg couldn't find a record of shipping a python—at least not knowingly.

Whether Gertrude has any recollection of being in Harrisburg would be a little difficult to determine.

Man On Drifting Raft Asks Rescue

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13 (AP)—The sick and hungry radio operator of the raft "Lehi" pleaded desperately for immediate rescue late today as the raft bobbed and tossed in a rolling sea somewhere off Point Sur.

"Tell the Coast Guard to come and get me now," the Lehi's radio operator Don Smith of Santa Rosa, concluded his 4:15 p.m. broadcast.

A private rescue boat which put out this morning had not yet been sighted by the five men on the raft, who had expected to float to Hawaii when they left the Golden Gate last Friday.

Smith, who had complained throughout the day of feeling ill, reported at 3 p.m. that the raft had not yet sighted the boat and asked that the rescue craft be located.

A little more than an hour later he was asking for Coast Guard assistance.

"If you don't find me tonight, please call the Coast Guard and have them come get me."

The crew of five left here Friday, hoping to drift to Hawaii on ocean currents, with the aid of a small sail. They expected to live off the sea. They took no food or water.

Famous Trichologist Tells Truth About Saving And Improving Hair

This new method of home treatment of saving and growing thicker hair will be demonstrated in Cumberland, Md., Thursday ONLY, July 15, 1954, 12 noon to 9 P. M. These private individual demonstrations will be held at the Fort Cumberland Hotel on Thursday ONLY, July 15, 1954.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 7—In an interview here today D. Russell Collins, internationally famous trichologist and director of the Collins Hair and Scalp Experts, Inc. said "There are 18 different scalp disorders that cause most men and women to lose hair. Using common sense, a person must realize no one tonic or so called cure-all could correct all the disorders," he explained.

GUARANTEED

"The Collins firm, recognizing that most people are skeptical of claims that hair can be grown on balding heads, offer a guarantee," Collins said.

Once a person avails themselves to the Collins treatment his skepticism immediately disappears. To insure this, we offer this guarantee. "If you are not completely satisfied with your hair progress at the end of 30 days your money will be returned."

HOPELESS CASES DISCOURAGED

First the Collins specialists are quick to tell hopeless cases that they cannot be helped. But the "hopeless" cases are few. Only if a man is completely, shiny bald is he in the lost category.

If there is fuzz, no matter how light, thin, or colorless, the Collins firm can perform wonders.

Every one is given a complete private examination to determine the condition of his scalp, and cause for his hair trouble.

FREE EXAMINATIONS

This examination is very thorough and highly technical. It requires 20 to 30 minutes. There is no charge for this examination and no appointment is necessary. After the examination he is told the required length of treatment and how much it will cost.

After starting treatment, he makes regular reports to the Collins firm in Oklahoma City, and a trichologist will return to check his progress periodically.

To spread the opportunity of normal, healthy hair to the thousands who are desperately looking for help, the Collins firm is sending specialists to various cities throughout the United States to conduct examinations and start home treatment.

NO CURE-ALL

"We have no cure-all for slick, shiny baldness," Collins emphasizes. "If there is fuzz, the root is still capable of creating hair and we can perform what seems to be a miracle."

There is one thing Collins wants to be certain every man and woman knows. If a recession appears at the temples or a spot begins to show on the crown of the head, there is something wrong and it should be given immediate attention.

HAIR FOR LIFETIME

"If clients follow our directions during treatment and after they finish the course, there is no reason why they will not have hair all the rest of their lives," Collins said. "Our firm is definitely behind this treatment, it all depends on the individual client's faithful observation of a few simple rules.

HOW'S YOUR HAIR?

If it worries you call Trichologist Rex Ochs at the Fort Cumberland Hotel in Cumberland, Md. on Thursday ONLY, July 15. The public is invited.

You do not need an appointment. The examinations are private and you will not be embarrassed or obligated in any way.—Adv.

Note: Trichologist Ochs will be in Hagerstown, Md. on Friday, July 16. References: First Nat'l Bank and Trust Co. of Okla. City.

Famous Trichologist Tells Truth About Saving And Improving Hair

This new method of home treatment of saving and growing thicker hair will be demonstrated in Cumberland, Md., Thursday ONLY, July 15, 1954, 12 noon to 9 P. M. These private individual demonstrations will be held at the Fort Cumberland Hotel on Thursday ONLY, July 15, 1954.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 7—In an interview here today D. Russell Collins, internationally famous trichologist and director of the Collins Hair and Scalp Experts, Inc. said "There are 18 different scalp disorders that cause most men and women to lose hair. Using common sense, a person must realize no one tonic or so called cure-all could correct all the disorders," he explained.

GUARANTEED

"The Collins firm, recognizing that most people are skeptical of claims that hair can be grown on balding heads, offer a guarantee," Collins said.

Once a person avails themselves to the Collins treatment his skepticism immediately disappears. To insure this, we offer this guarantee. "If you are not completely satisfied with your hair progress at the end of 30 days your money will be returned."

HOPELESS CASES DISCOURAGED

First the Collins specialists are quick to tell hopeless cases that they cannot be helped. But the "hopeless" cases are few. Only if a man is completely, shiny bald is he in the lost category.

If there is fuzz, no matter how light, thin, or colorless, the Collins firm can perform wonders.

Every one is given a complete private examination to determine the condition of his scalp, and cause for his hair trouble.

FREE EXAMINATIONS

This examination is very thorough and highly technical. It requires 20 to 30 minutes. There is no charge for this examination and no appointment is necessary. After the examination he is told the required length of treatment and how much it will cost.

After starting treatment, he makes regular reports to the Collins firm in Oklahoma City, and a trichologist will return to check his progress periodically.

To spread the opportunity of normal, healthy hair to the thousands who are desperately looking for help, the Collins firm is sending specialists to various cities throughout the United States to conduct examinations and start home treatment.

NO CURE-ALL

"We have no cure-all for slick, shiny baldness," Collins emphasizes. "If there is fuzz, the root is still capable of creating hair and we can perform what seems to be a miracle."

There is one thing Collins wants to be certain every man and woman knows. If a recession appears at the temples or a spot begins to show on the crown of the head, there is something wrong and it should be given immediate attention.

HAIR FOR LIFETIME

"If clients follow our directions during treatment and after they finish the course, there is no reason why they will not have hair all the rest of their lives," Collins said. "Our firm is definitely behind this treatment, it all depends on the individual client's faithful observation of a few simple rules.

HOW'S YOUR HAIR?

If it worries you call Trichologist Rex Ochs at the Fort Cumberland Hotel in Cumberland, Md. on Thursday ONLY, July 15. The public is invited.

You do not need an appointment. The examinations are private and you will not be embarrassed or obligated in any way.—Adv.

Note: Trichologist Ochs will be in Hagerstown, Md. on Friday, July 16. References: First Nat'l Bank and Trust Co. of Okla. City.

Big Rocket Fired For Army Brass

FT. BRAGG, N. C., July 13 (AP)—The Army, showing big brass from the Pentagon how it is geared to atom age warfare, fired one of its new giant bombardment rockets today.

The three-ton missile, able in actual combat to carry a nuclear explosive warhead, went screaming off toward the horizon, the orange flame of its screaming exhaust diminishing swiftly into the distance as the "Honest John" gained supersonic speed.

This was the first public showing of the rocket designed to reach up to 20 miles back of enemy lines with either conventional or atomic explosive.

Two Die In Gas Tank Explosion

LAKEPORT, Calif., July 13 (AP)—Two people were fatally burned in the explosion of two 30,000-gallon tanks of butane gas today shortly after they had warned 20 others away from the danger area.

The dead are Bess Gibson, 50, who owned the plant with her husband; and Irwin Garner, 51.

They died several hours after the blast which also severely burned three others: Garner's son, Don, 12; Mrs. Gibson's husband, Lon, about 50; and Charlie Baum, 49, who was driving by.

A spark, possibly from an electric motor, ignited the gas.

It also demolished two nearby houses and wrecked four automobiles. Telephone lines along the highway were blown down.

Berlin, Md., Beauty Seeks World Crown

BERLIN, Md., July 13 (AP)—That 16-year-old beauty from Berlin who became queen of the annual Delmarva Chicken Festival last month will compete for a more ambitious title next week—Miss Universe.

After seeing her picture in a Richmond newspaper, he decided she had a chance in the Miss Universe competition at Long Beach, Calif., July 22.

The Lions Club and the town chipped in for plane fare. Barbara's mother, Mrs. Richard W. Eschenburg, will accompany the pretty contestant to California. They leave by plane from Washington next Thursday at 10 a.m.

Ton-Mile Truck Tax Opposed By McKeldin

BOLTON LANDING, N.Y., July 13 (AP)—Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin said today Maryland is opposed to any weight-distance tax on trucks as a means of raising additional highway revenue.

He urged instead that states consider meeting expanding transportation problems by building toll highways which could be used exclusively by buses and trucks. This, he said, would relieve other highway congestion while benefitting bus and truck companies.

McKeldin told the National Governors Conference that a ton-mile truck tax could be "the forerunner to interstate trade barriers, if not in itself the actual creation of such barriers."

A ton-mile tax has been proposed in some states as a means of meeting rising highway costs. It would apply to trucks and-or buses and would be based on the weight of their load and the distance they were travelling.

Wife Of President's Brother Is Buried

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., July 13 (AP)—With President Dwight D. Eisenhower and the First Lady among the mourners, Mrs. Milton S. Eisenhower, wife of the President's youngest brother, was buried today in a flower-encircled grave on a Pennsylvania hillside.

The presidential party came by plane and automobile from Washington to join Dr. Eisenhower, president of Pennsylvania State University, and other members of the family at the last rites.

Russians Launch New Push To Halt U. S. Bomb Tests

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., July 13 (AP)—Russia opened a new drive in the U.N. Trusteeship Council today to halt H-bomb tests in Pacific island trust areas administered by the United States.

It appeared doomed to the same defeat a Soviet measure suffered yesterday in the council's six-nation Petitions Committee.

Semyon Tsarapkin, sitting as Russia's top U.N. delegate while his boss Andrei Vishinsky is on a home leave, told the 12-nation council the tests must be stopped in the islands area.

Semyon Tsarapkin, sitting as Russia's top U.N. delegate while his boss Andrei Vishinsky is on a home leave, told the 12-nation council the tests must be stopped in the islands area.

Mason Sears, U.S. delegate, charged that Tsarapkin's statement in the council was an unsuccessful propaganda speech full of misstatements.

Tsarapkin told the council the United States spent millions for the H-bomb tests in the Marshall Islands but only a little over $100,000 for educating the islanders. He said the bomb tests threatened the existence of the people and their homes.

Frank Midkiff, U.S. high commissioner for the area, told the council there was little danger of anything going wrong with future tests.

Gertrude, The Python, Back But Was She In Harrisburg?

But at any rate it appears a 10-foot python named Gertrude is back in the possession of a magician named Harry Albacker.

Maybe Gertrude has been in Harrisburg, Pa. or has she?

As long ago as June 20 Albacker announced in Hagerstown, Md., that the 60-pound Gertrude and her carrying case disappeared from his parked automobile.

Today Albacker said a telegram predicting Railway Express would return Gertrude proved true. He said he went to the express station and found the python, still in the same carrying case. He added that the snake seemed "not a bit hungery."

How did Albacker know he should go to the express office?

Well, there was a telegram yesterday from Harrisburg, Pa. He says it read:

"Your snake is in the best of health and not dead as you believe. It was found in a driveway near Harrisburg and giver to me to care for. Railway Express is returning it to you collect."

At this point the old problem of the hand being quicker than the eye begins to figure in the situation.

Albacker says there was no signature on the telegram.

And while he says he paid $2.35 collect charges, the express office in Harrisburg couldn't find a record of shipping a python—at least not knowingly.

Whether Gertrude has any recollection of being in Harrisburg would be a little difficult to determine.

Spending Curb Sought

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—A constitutional ban on the government's spending more than it takes in, except in wartime, was proposed today by Sens. Bridges (R-NH) and Byrd (D-Va).

Man On Drifting Raft Asks Rescue

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13 (AP)—The sick and hungry radio operator of the raft "Lehi" pleaded desperately for immediate rescue late today as the raft bobbed and tossed in a rolling sea somewhere off Point Sur.

"Tell the Coast Guard to come and get me now," the Lehi's radio operator Don Smith of Santa Rosa, concluded his 4:15 p.m. broadcast.

A private rescue boat which put out this morning had not yet been sighted by the five men on the raft, who had expected to float to Hawaii when they left the Golden Gate last Friday.

Smith, who had complained throughout the day of feeling ill, reported at 3 p.m. that the raft had not yet sighted the boat and asked that the rescue craft be located.

A little more than an hour later he was asking for Coast Guard assistance.

"If you don't find me tonight, please call the Coast Guard and have them come get me."

The crew of five left here Friday, hoping to drift to Hawaii on ocean currents, with the aid of a small sail. They expected to live off the sea. They took no food or water.

West Virginia Fire Insurance Rates Revised

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 13 (AP)—Changes in fire insurance rates which will save West Virginia policy holders about 1½ million dollars over a 5-year period were approved yesterday by Insurance Commissioner Thomas J. Gillooly.

Almost all of the 26 classes of property recognized in the state will be affected by the new rates, filed with Gillooly last April by the West Virginia Inspection Bureau.

Rates on homes in areas with adequate fire protection will be reduced 18.4 per cent. Fire insurance protection for residences in unprotected areas, on the other hand, go up 9.9 per cent.

Significant changes affect mine properties, with rates on frame buildings in unprotected areas jumping 25 per cent. Costs on buildings of fire-resistant construction on mine properties drop 25 per cent.

Because most mine buildings are frame, Gillooly's department estimated earlier that the overall change in mine building fire insurance costs would amount to about a 12-per cent increase.

Policemen Ride Beats On Bikes

LAKELAND, Fla., July 13 (AP)—Lakeland policemen have started riding their beats on bicycles equipped with two-way radios.

Police Chief Leo Brooker said the bikes will let the policemen make their rounds more quickly and cover wider areas.

"And last," he added, "bicycles are silent and the approach of the officers will not be noticed."

Early glass was opaque because man had not yet learned the secret of adding material to produce transparency.

MILLION-DOLLAR FIRE—Smoke billows from two of three fires in the heart of the business district of High Point, N. C. Blaze damage was tentatively estimated at over $1,000,000. Firemen prevented flames from damaging the huge furniture exhibition building in left background. An investigation was launched to determine whether the fires, under control by noon yesterday, were purposely set.

Lindbergh Says Security Depends On Huge Air Force

Writing in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post, the "Lone Eagle" says:

"It is inevitable that our primary attention be shifted from the advantages of progress to the essentials of survival. . . .

"It is no longer a question of what we can afford on previous standards of life, but of what we must do and how we must live in order to exist and maintain our independence as a nation. . . .

"The American policy of nonaggression requires a military position of such magnitude that if our enemies should strike us by surprise, annihilating hundreds of our bases and dozens of our cities, we can still exceed their power.

"This means a prodigious air force, a strong army, a strong navy and strong allies. . . .

"It is a formidable task, extending into the future as far as we can see. . . . There is no longer such a thing as adequate defense. As long as a dangerous enemy exists, our security will live in the indestructible power to destroy."

Lindbergh writes that "an inexpugnable means of retaliation" involves a fleet of the most modern aircraft capable of being airborne with atom bombs minutes after an alarm is sounded.

The planes "must be scattered over hundreds of bases, over too many for an enemy to paralyze with a single blow," he says, adding:

Lindbergh lists other elements of the security program as research, development and industrial-decentralization programs, and emphasis on the "human element" in our military.

Parkway Funds Sought

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The National Park Service today asked Congress to appropriate an additional $5,275,000 to step up construction on parkways, roads and trails.

The agency construction plans include:

Suitland Parkway, District of Columbia and Maryland, $35,000; and advance plans and surveys, $200,000.

Red China's Rice Seizure Policy Failure, USIA Says

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The U.S. Information Agency says Communist China's high-handed farm policy, based on virtual state seizure of rice and other grains to pay for imported tools of war, is falling flat on its face.

The agency is beaming overseas a radio commentary which it says quotes the Communist Chinese themselves to back up its broadcasts.

Commenting on the seven months since Mao Tse-tung ordered all rice and other grains sold to the Peiping government at low fixed prices, the USIA cited Communist press and radio reports of food riots, bloodshed and brutal reprisals.

In trying to carry out Mao's ambitious industrial armaments program, the USIA said, the Peiping regime has set up Soviet Russia as its prime example and inspiration.

But the USIA commentary suggests Mao might have chosen a stronger guiding light.

"The U.S.S.R. is a very rich country, and it has less than half as many mouths to feed as has China," goes the USIA commentary.

"Yet if the Soviets cannot make collectivization produce enough food, how can the Mao regime hope to do so? The relatively advanced Soviet Union has failed with this system. So how can Red China, plodding along in Soviet footsteps, hope to succeed?"

Red China's export of food in the face of wide spread shortages has brought mounting resistance, the USIA said.

Communist newspapers reported food riots continuing for three months in three districts of Kansu, it said, and in Hunan Province hungry peasants reportedly tried to kidnap Red officials while other peasants were caught trying to make illegal arms and stir up revolt.

The Communist paper Kwangsi Daily in Nanning, the USIA added, reported 16 peasant leaders were shot for refusing an order, and said 6,000 peasants armed with sickles and stolen firearms took on troops of the Chinese Red army in a week-long battle.

The first woman ever to go aloft in a free balloon was the French prima donna, Madame Thible. She rode as a passenger over Lyons, France, for 45 minutes on June 4, 1784.

Bitter Demo Haggle Rages Two Weeks After Primary

BALTIMORE, July 13 (AP)—It is two weeks now since the Maryland primaries on June 28 and the bitter haggle over who won the Democratic nomination for governor still goes on.

The rivals are Dr. H. C. Byrd, for 18 years president of the University of Maryland, and George P. Mahoney, Baltimore paving contractor and one-time chairman of the state racing commission.

Byrd holds an 80-72 edge in county unit nominating votes, which govern the nomination much as electoral college votes determine the presidency in national elections.

The second of four recounts instigated by Mahoney got under way today in Talbot county, where Byrd won by 60 votes.

Mahoney must wrest at least two of the close counties from Byrd to win. For protection, Byrd has two more recount petitions on file where Mahoney won narrowly.

The recount which started in Queen Annes county a week ago today is a little less than half completed and Byrd has lost 12 of his 53-vote margin there.

It took an hour today to recount the first eight of the 3,828 ballots cast in Talbot county, where Byrd won by 60.

While the recounting goes on at this snail's pace there's some jockeying on other fronts.

The report got around yesterday that party leaders had decided to go ahead with the state convention, which actually awards the nomination, and give it to Byrd despite the pending recounts.

Then, on the heels of a statement by Hyman A. Pressman, Baltimore attorney representing Mahoney, that "We will not be given the bums rush," a call was issued for the state convention.

C. William Hetzer, state Democratic chairman, announced the convention would be held July 26.

Hetzer said delegates to the convention will represent "the state and its people as well as the party."

Pressman had warned only a few hours before:

"If any group attempts to use a steamroller and make a premature nomination, legal proceedings will be instituted to enjoin such illegal action."

Under the law the party conventions must be held within 30 days after the primaries, or by July 28. There is little prospect the recounts will be completed by then and the Mahoney forces have promised further legal action if the recounts fail.

C. William Hetzer, state Democratic chairman, earlier this week asked Stephen A. Mitchell, Democratic national chairman, to help negotiate a truce so the Democrats could turn to fighting Republicans instead of each other.

Hetzer called that off after a second thought. Maryland Democrats by tradition, react violently to intrusions by outsiders upon their family fighting.

The Republicans have quietly set their convention for July 24, when they will nominate Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin for reelection. He polled four times as many votes as all three of his primary opponents combined and already is campaiging for the showdown No. 2 with the Democrats.

Although McKeldin got less than 70,000 votes in the primary, he is talking about being the first Republican governor ever to win reelection in Maryland.

Rain Last Week Gave Maryland Crops Big Boost

COLLEGE PARK, Md., July 13 (AP) — Last week's thundershowers gave crops a big boost and saved them from severe damage for the time being at least, Maryland's crop reporters said today.

They warned more rain is needed to keep conditions from getting dangerously dry again.

The Weather Bureau said more thundershower activity is in prospect Wednesday and Thursday.

Last week's showers brought the first appreciable moisture in more than seven weeks to many sections of Maryland south and east of the South Mountain area in the Blue Ridge between Frederick and Hagerstown.

Some points in this area still did not get too much moisture from the showers, but many reported an inch. On the lower Eastern Shore, at a few points in Southern Maryland, in Carroll County, and in Delaware's Sussex county the measurement ran as much as two inches.

This was a life-saver, the Maryland Crop Reporting Service said, for corn, soybeans, pastures, hay tobacco and the important commercial vegetable crops.

The crop reporters came out at the same time with estimates that production this year of many crops will run better than last year or the 10-year 1943-52 average.

The corn crop, they predicted, will be down only slightly. Winter wheat hay, and potatoes will be off. But there will be more oats, barley, rye, apples and peaches.

The tobacco crop, as of July 1, was estimated at 34½ million pounds, compared with a little over 37 million last year and an average of almost 36 million.

Pasture condition as of July 1 was reckoned at only 57 per cent.

Limekiln Firm Low Bidder On Road Job

BALTIMORE, July 13 (AP) — The M. J. Grove Lime Co. of Limekiln, Md., today was the apparent low bidder for building a section of the Frederick by-pass at the junction of the Washington National and Baltimore National Pikes.

The State Roads Commission said the Limekiln firm bid $662,813.75.

The project includes grading, drainage and resurfacing of 2.007 miles of dual highway north from U. S. 15; the interchange ramps at U. S. 15, Cemetery Road and Washington National-Baltimore National Pike, 2.397 miles; Cemetery Road reconstruction, .1521 miles.

Dry Weather Blamed For Big Crop Of Nettles

SOLOMONS, Md., July 13 (AP)—Seven weeks of dry weather is responsible for the bumper crop of stinging sea nettles bedevilling swimmers in tributaries of Chesapeake Bay, marine biologists said today.

Romeo Mansuetti, a biologist at the Chesapeake Biological Laboratories here, predicted 1954 will be a banner year for the pestiferous jelly fish.

The lack of rain has left waters in the tributaries saltier than usual, the biologists explained, so the nettles have penetrated farther and in greater numbers.

"Recount" Float Wins Parade Prize

CHURCH HILL, Md., July 13 (AP)—Folks who live in little Price Md. Queen Anne's County, near here ribbed H. C. Byrd and George P. Mahoney the other night and won a prize for it.

The Price float in the annual comic parade at the Church Hill Fire Department's carnival was judged the best.

It showed "Mahoney and Byrd" watching suspiciously as two men and two women counted ballots and tossed them into boxes marked "rejects" and "good ballots."

Most of the votes went into the reject box.

W. Va. Fair Premiums, Purses Total $40,000

LEWISBURG, W. Va., July 13 (AP)—Premiums and purses at the State Fair of West Virginia this year will exceed $40,000, a slight increase over last year.

The fair, to run six days and nights, opens Aug. 28 at the fairgrounds, located at the intersection of U.S. 60 and 219 in Greenbrier County, midway between here and Ronceverte.

C. T. Sydenstricker, secretary-manager of the fair, said 14 harness races are booked for the track program, along with five thoroughbred running races.

The 30th annual event also will include four evenings of a horse show program of 30 classes and championships. They will be staged at the new Bluegrass Bowl, built and used for the first time in 1953.

There also will be a junior livestock show, open only to West Virginia farm youth.

Bee Sting Causes Death

PAYSON, Utah, July 13 (AP)—The sting of a bee was blamed for the death yesterday of Mrs. Claribel H. Moore of Payson. Her doctor said the 53-year-old woman was allergic to a bee sting and died from effects of anti-phylactic shock.

"Red Thumb Gang" Leader Sentenced

BALTIMORE, July 13 (AP)—A 20-year sentence in the State Reformatory was imposed today upon Eugene Chase, 19-year-old Negro who headed the "Red Thumb Gang."

The gang went on a splurge last April in which it held up four taxi drivers and an ice cream vending truck in two days. The young bandits used a butcher knife and two sawed-off shotguns.

Other boys in the gang were 14 to 16 years old. One was committed to Boys Village by juvenile court. Two others received 10-year reformatory sentences and one got 15 years.

AEC Approves Costly Atomic Power Project

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission today announced approval of a 10-million-dollar project designed as a new step toward the perfection of a central station which can produce cheap electric power from an atomic furnace.

AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss said in a news release that the project will consist of developing and constructing the nation's first sodium-graphite reactor. The AEC and North American Aviation, Inc., of Los Angeles, will do the work jointly.

The reactor, or atomic furnace—in which chain reaction resulting from sustained fission of atoms takes place—will be an experimental, reduced scale model which North American Aviation is designing.

The reactor will use "slightly enriched" uranium or a combination of thorium and uranium-233, as a fuel. It is scheduled to be in operation by mid-1957.

North American has been engaged in reactor research for some time, but its work is not associated with work by other aviation companies in a quite different field, the application of atomic power to airplanes.

AEC said North American has been its main contractor in the development of the sodium-graphite reactor.

For the new project, North American has agreed to assume up to 2½ million dollars of the total cost and to supply the reactor site, without cost to the government, near the company's field test laboratory in the Santa Susana Mountains, north of Los Angeles.

The company will operate the reactor plan experimentally for about two years, AEC said. The government will retain ownership of the equipment.

Strauss said the proposed plant will generate the equivalent of 20,000 kilowatts of power but only in heat. The experimental model will not have electricity-generating equipment.

The sodium-graphite reactor is one of five types on which the AEC is concentrating in its five year program for development of economic nuclear power.

Another type, the so-called pressurized water reactor, will be placed in the recently authorized central station power plant of the AEC and the Duquesne Light Co., near Pittsburgh, Pa.

The AEC said graphite has been widely used as a moderator in U. S. reactors since the first experimental pile at Chicago.

ARMY STILL SEEKS TIPSTER—Greeted at Washington National airport by Chief of Staff Gen. Matthew Ridgway, Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens returns from a tour of Army installations in Europe with the assertion that the Army will "never give up" in its search for the officer who provided Senator Joseph McCarthy (R.) Wis., with a summary of an FBI report. He also said he has no intention of resigning.

Last Camel-Back Engine Retired

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 13 (AP)—Old No. 774, the nation's last camel-back locomotive in active service, this week made her farewell trip, a leisurely jaunt down to the North Jersey shore with eight carloads of railroad fans.

The North Jersey chapter of the National Railway Historical Society sponsored the excursion, which started at Jersey City Terminal at 9:15 a.m., and ended at 6:15 p.m.

The Jersey Central Railroad said it has not decided what to do with the veteran iron horse, which was built at the Baldwin locomotive plant in 1914. She may end up at the railroad's "boneyard" at Elizabethport or enter the Baltimore and Ohio's transportation museum at Baltimore, Md.

Her type of locomotive, developed in the late 1800s, got the name camel-back from having the cab forward of the firebox and astride the boiler.

Evangelist Graham Undergoes Operation

ASHEVILLE, N.C., July 13 (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham must rest six weeks following an operation here yesterday for the removal of a kidney stone.

Dr. Thomas R. Huffines of Asheville, who performed the operation, and Dr. L. Nelson Bell Asheville surgeon and Graham's father-in-law, said Graham must take a complete rest.

Dress Designer Dramatizes Best Points Of Woman

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—The successful designer must be a vicarious lover, dramatizing the best points of a woman, and thus calling them to the attention of a man.

This is the credo of Oleg Cassini, whose fall collection was previewed today by some 150 fashion editors representing newspapers at home and abroad. Introducing the "elastic silhouette," a device by which elastic is inserted at the midriff of a dress to give a "wallpaper" fit, the tall, suave Cassini remarked:

"The basic woman shape is always the same and I don't believe in tampering with it by bizarre exaggerations. It is possible, however, to accent the best lines of any woman's figure and conceal the faulty ones, by skillful drapery of fabric.

"The best-dressed woman is the one whose dress you can't remember—you see the woman herself at her best, and the dress is incidental. This is achieved by being selective. Every woman should know her limitations and recognize her best points. Her fashion prescription then is to select styles which will put in evidence what is best, minimize the shortcomings."

Also showing on the opening day of the fashion press week was Dave Bellsey, with a line of youthful separates and sportswear featuring leather-trimmed tweed skirts, cashmere skirts and mink-trimmed sweaters.

West Virginia Fire Insurance Rates Revised

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 13 (AP)—Changes in fire insurance rates which will save West Virginia policy holders about 1½ million dollars over a 5-year period were approved yesterday by Insurance Commissioner Thomas J. Gillooly.

Almost all of the 26 classes of property recognized in the state will be affected by the new rates, filed with Gillooly last April by the West Virginia Inspection Bureau.

Rates on homes in areas with adequate fire protection will be reduced 18.4 per cent. Fire insurance protection for residences in unprotected areas, on the other hand, go up 9.9 per cent.

Significant changes affect mine properties, with rates on frame buildings in unprotected areas jumping 25 per cent. Costs on buildings of fire-resistant construction on mine properties drop 25 per cent.

Because most mine buildings are frame, Gillooly's department estimated earlier that the overall change in mine building fire insurance costs would amount to about a 12-per cent increase.

Policemen Ride Beats On Bikes

LAKELAND, Fla., July 13 (AP)—Lakeland policemen have started riding their beats on bicycles equipped with two-way radios.

Police Chief Leo Brooker said the bikes will let the policemen make their rounds more quickly and cover wider areas.

"And last," he added, "bicycles are silent and the approach of the officers will not be noticed."

Early glass was opaque because man had not yet learned the secret of adding material to produce transparency.

MILLION-DOLLAR FIRE—Smoke billows from two of three fires in the heart of the business district of High Point, N. C. Blaze damage was tentatively estimated at over $1,000,000. Firemen prevented flames from damaging the huge furniture exhibition building in left background. An investigation was launched to determine whether the fires, under control by noon yesterday, were purposely set.

Lindbergh Says Security Depends On Huge Air Force

Writing in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post, the "Lone Eagle" says:

"It is inevitable that our primary attention be shifted from the advantages of progress to the essentials of survival. . . .

"It is no longer a question of what we can afford on previous standards of life, but of what we must do and how we must live in order to exist and maintain our independence as a nation. . . .

"The American policy of nonaggression requires a military position of such magnitude that if our enemies should strike us by surprise, annihilating hundreds of our bases and dozens of our cities, we can still exceed their power.

"This means a prodigious air force, a strong army, a strong navy and strong allies. . . .

"It is a formidable task, extending into the future as far as we can see. . . . There is no longer such a thing as adequate defense. As long as a dangerous enemy exists, our security will live in the indestructible power to destroy."

Lindbergh writes that "an inexpugnable means of retaliation" involves a fleet of the most modern aircraft capable of being airborne with atom bombs minutes after an alarm is sounded.

The planes "must be scattered over hundreds of bases, over too many for an enemy to paralyze with a single blow," he says, adding:

Lindbergh lists other elements of the security program as research, development and industrial-decentralization programs, and emphasis on the "human element" in our military.

Parkway Funds Sought

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The National Park Service today asked Congress to appropriate an additional $5,275,000 to step up construction on parkways, roads and trails.

The agency construction plans include:

Suitland Parkway, District of Columbia and Maryland, $35,000; and advance plans and surveys, $200,000.

Red China's Rice Seizure Policy Failure, USIA Says

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The U.S. Information Agency says Communist China's high - handed farm policy, based on virtual state seizure of rice and other grains to pay for imported tools of war, is falling flat on its face.

The agency is beaming overseas a radio commentary which it says quotes the Communist Chinese themselves to back up its broadcasts.

Commenting on the seven months since Mao Tse-tung ordered all rice and other grains sold to the Peiping government at low fixed prices, the USIA cited Communist press and radio reports of food riots, bloodshed and brutal reprisals.

In trying to carry out Mao's ambitious industrial armaments program, the USIA said, the Peiping regime has set up Soviet Russia as its prime example and inspiration.

But the USIA commentary suggests Mao might have chosen a stronger guiding light.

"The U.S.S.R. is a very rich country, and it has less than half as many mouths to feed as has China," goes the USIA commentary.

"Yet if the Soviets cannot make collectivization produce enough food, how can the Mao regime hope to do so? The relatively advanced Soviet Union has failed with this system. So how can Red China, plodding along in Soviet footsteps, hope to succeed?"

Red China's export of food in the face of wide spread shortages has brought mounting resistance, the USIA said.

Communist newspapers reported food riots continuing for three months in three districts of Kansu, it said, and in Hunan Province hungry peasants reportedly tried to kidnap Red officials while other peasants were caught trying to make illegal arms and stir up revolt.

The Communist paper Kwangsi Daily in Nanning, the USIA added, reported 16 peasant leaders were shot for refusing an order, and said 6,000 peasants armed with sickles and stolen firearms took on troops of the Chinese Red army in a week-long battle.

The first woman ever to go aloft in a free balloon was the French prima donna, Madame Thible. She rode as a passenger over Lyons, France, for 45 minutes on June 4, 1784.

AEC Approves Costly Atomic Power Project

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission today announced approval of a 10-million-dollar project designed as a new step toward the perfection of a central station which can produce cheap electric power from an atomic furnace.

AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss said in a news release that the project will consist of developing and constructing the nation's first sodium-graphite reactor. The AEC and North American Aviation, Inc., of Los Angeles, will do the work jointly.

The reactor, or atomic furnace—in which chain reaction resulting from sustained fission of atoms takes place—will be an experimental, reduced scale model which North American Aviation is designing.

The reactor will use "slightly enriched" uranium or a combination of thorium and uranium-233, as a fuel. It is scheduled to be in operation by mid-1957.

North American has been engaged in reactor research for some time, but its work is not associated with work by other aviation companies in a quite different field, the application of atomic power to airplanes.

AEC said North American has been its main contractor in the development of the sodium-graphite reactor.

For the new project, North American has agreed to assume up to 2½ million dollars of the total cost and to supply the reactor site, without cost to the government, near the company's field test laboratory in the Santa Susana Mountains, north of Los Angeles.

The company will operate the reactor plan experimentally for about two years, AEC said. The government will retain ownership of the equipment.

Strauss said the proposed plant will generate the equivalent of 20,000 kilowatts of power but only in heat. The experimental model will not have electricity-generating equipment.

The sodium-graphite reactor is one of five types on which the AEC is concentrating in its five year program for development of economic nuclear power.

Another type, the so-called pressurized water reactor, will be placed in the recently authorized central station power plant of the AEC and the Duquesne Light Co., near Pittsburgh, Pa.

The AEC said graphite has been widely used as a moderator in U. S. reactors since the first experimental pile at Chicago.

ARMY STILL SEEKS TIPSTER—Greeted at Washington National airport by Chief of Staff Gen. Matthew Ridgway, Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens returns from a tour of Army installations in Europe with the assertion that the Army will "never give up" in its search for the officer who provided Senator Joseph McCarthy (R.) Wis., with a summary of an FBI report. He also said he has no intention of resigning.

Last Camel-Back Engine Retired

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 13 (AP)—Old No. 774, the nation's last camel-back locomotive in active service, this week made her farewell trip, a leisurely jaunt down to the North Jersey shore with eight carloads of railroad fans.

The North Jersey chapter of the National Railway Historical Society sponsored the excursion, which started at Jersey City Terminal at 9:15 a.m., and ended at 6:15 p.m.

The Jersey Central Railroad said it has not decided what to do with the veteran iron horse, which was built at the Baldwin locomotive plant in 1914. She may end up at the railroad's "boneyard" at Elizabethport or enter the Baltimore and Ohio's transportation museum at Baltimore, Md.

Her type of locomotive, developed in the late 1800s, got the name camel-back from having the cab forward of the firebox and astride the boiler.

Dress Designer Dramatizes Best Points Of Woman

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—The successful designer must be a vicarious lover, dramatizing the best points of a woman, and thus calling them to the attention of a man.

This is the credo of Oleg Cassini, whose fall collection was previewed today by some 150 fashion editors representing newspapers at home and abroad. Introducing the "elastic silhouette," a device by which elastic is inserted at the midriff of a dress to give a "wallpaper" fit, the tall, suave Cassini remarked:

"The basic woman shape is always the same and I don't believe in tampering with it by bizarre exaggerations. It is possible, however, to accent the best lines of any woman's figure and conceal the faulty ones, by skillful drapery of fabric.

"The best-dressed woman is the one whose dress you can't remember—you see the woman herself at her best, and the dress is incidental. This is achieved by being selective. Every woman should know her limitations and recognize her best points. Her fashion prescription then is to select styles which will put in evidence what is best, minimize the shortcomings."

Also showing on the opening day of the fashion press week was Dave Bellsey, with a line of youthful separates and sportswear featuring leather-trimmed tweed skirts, cashmere skirts and mink-trimmed sweaters.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Conversation is one of the most agreeable forms of entertainment—at the dinnertable, after dinner, anywhere and everywhere. It should be rewarding, and it will be—if you play your part well.

Even the most brilliant of conversations starts simply, with an exclamation about the weather (a cliche, but convenient!), or your hostess' charming home, or her excellent cooking. From that easy beginning, talk can move into a thousand and one channels. You may take the lead, if you like.

The only objectionable conversationalists are those who forget two basic rules: that you must have something interesting to express, and that you must observe good manners in expressing it. Those who fail to "live up" in these respects aren't really conversing at all; they're just talking!

Taking Part

As hostess or guest, you ought to contribute to the flow of words that ripples through a group, without making your contribution a monologue. The only accepted monologists are professionals paid to entertain an audience!

Business matters are taboo in a social conversation, for discussion of stocks and markets and the like confines the verbal exchange to a few people, as surely as would chatting in a South Africa dialect. It is most discourteous to exclude some one person from the group by dwelling on places, people, or things with which he is not familiar.

Nor is it polite to talk over other people's heads. You may know all there is to know about a "deep" topic, and feel it "smart" to vocalize your knowledge. Should you thus try to corner the conversation, you'll draw scowls instead of admiration. And your bad manners will be showing!

Private Feelings

Blanket attacks on any racial, religious, or political group may get you in hot water. Personal prejudices should not be aired in public. But you can, if pressed, reasonably define ideas on even the most controversial subject without making a pronouncement or being super-critical. Still, it is better to keep private feelings private.

Some people, like the monologists mentioned, make talking a business. For you, it should be a pleasure. Single-voiced you're not likely to retrieve conversation from the "lost art" category, but you've every opportunity to help it along!

Tomorrow — Wardrobe practicalities.

YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE

You can achieve an appealing, resonant, sonorous voice — one that can be a vibrant attribute to charm and success — by reading the new booklet, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome such wearisome speaking qualities as tonelessness, dullness, and lack of proper modulation. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper, enclosing 10c in coin, plus stamped, self-addressed, envelope.

Fatal Accident Survivor Seeks Damages

The survivor of a fatal crash at the tipple in Pekin yesterday sued the administratrix of the estate of the driver, who was killed in the mishap.

The suit for $10,000 was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court by Mary Florence Shriver through her father, Clarence C. Shriver, of Nikep, against Elizabeth Dohm, administratrix of the estate of Clarence Muir.

Muir, 24, formerly of Nikep and a resident of Conneaut, Ohio, was killed on December 23, 1953 when the car he was driving hit a Peoples Transit Company bus at the tipple in Nikep.

Both of the passengers in his car, Miss. Shriver and his sister, Miss Anna Jean Muir, 20, of Nikep, were seriously injured. Three persons on the bus were treated at Reeves Clinic in Westernport.

The suit against the Muir estate, filed by Horace Whitworth Jr., charged that Miss Shriver was a passenger in the car at the express invitation of Muir.

The declaration added that it was Muir's duty to drive safely, but alleged that he did not and was traveling at a high rate of speed when the accident occurred.

Miss Shriver, the suit said, suffered a fractured right leg and a fractured right arm and cuts about her head, nose and eyes. These have left her with a permanently deformed right arm, that will affect her ability to earn her livelihood, the suit contended. She also has been left with permanent scars.

County Commissioners Sign School Construction Bills

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday signed formal applications for $1,000,000 more in school construction funds.

The applications will be forwarded to the Comptroller of the Treasury to finance the county's building program until March 31, 1955.

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools, appeared before the board with the necessary forms. The county borrows the money from the state's General Public School Construction Loan of 1953.

Lower Interest Rate

In this manner, the state can loan money for school building purposes at a lower rate of interest than the county commissioners would have to pay in the event a bond issue was floated.

The state in 1949 provided to the counties $50,000,000 for this purpose, but the county did not borrow from it as no school construction was on at that time.

In 1953, the state made available to the counties an additional $20,000,000. Allegany County was eligible to borrow $3,900,000.

The 1953 General Assembly passed a bill that authorized $3,500,000 in school construction for this county.

This program, a little over a year old, is well under way under the supervision of Webster and the Board of Education.

Projects Completed

This is the third loan and has been included in the county's 1954-55 budget.

The first was for $800,000 and the second for $390,000.

Among the projects completed in the $3,500,000 program are a new Lincoln School, an addition to McCoole School, and remodeling of Central High School in Lonaconing to make it adaptable for use by elementary students. High school students in Lonaconing go to Valley High School.

Big projects now in the construction stage are additions to Carver, Flintstone and Oldtown together with a new elementary school in LaVale.

After this $1,000,000 loan, the school board still has $1,310,000 to go on to complete all its work.

Nation's Leading Women Peeved At Eisenhower's Stag Dinners

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Some of this nation's leading women are peeved at President Eisenhower. It's because he keeps giving informal stag dinners—and never has one for the ladies.

Esther van Wagoner Tufty, a newspaper correspondent and columnist, put it this way on a nationwide television show:

"A lot of American women leaders are reaching the boiling point about those informal stag dinners the President gives from time to time at the White House.

"Some mighty important women are making no secret that they, too, would like to dine and really talk with Mr. Eisenhower."

Mrs. Tufty didn't identify the mighty important women, or say what their boiling points are. But the subject came up as long as seven months ago, at an Eisenhower news conference.

Doris Fleeson, who also is a columnist, told the President that he already had had in 115 guests.

"None of these 115 guests," she said, "have been women. "How do you square that with your anti-discrimination policy?"

Eisenhower laughed and said he had thought about inviting women. But they — he didn't say who "they" were — told him he would have to be very careful because the women couldn't decide who should come.

"Did women tell you that or did men tell you that?"

Yes, exactly, the President said, women told him that. He added that he wouldn't take a man's advice in such a thing.

That didn't stop Mrs. Tufty. She went around to the President's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, she said, and was told the dinners had two purposes:

1. The President likes to get opinions from all over the country.

2. The President likes to try his own opinions, for size, on his distinguished guests.

Mrs. T. wasn't impressed with the idea that Eisenhower couldn't invite any women because he might make some other women mad. She said he has had 30 dinners, that the guest list follows a pattern. And that if the same pattern were used for the ladies it could come out like this:

Big business: Dorothy Shaver, New York Department store executive.

Lawyer - politics: Mary Honor Donlon, New York Workmen's Compensation Fund.

Senator: Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me).

Administration: Clare Boothe Luce, ambassador to Italy.

Educator: Margaret Clapp, president of Wellesley College.

Author: Margaret Gulkin Banning.

Big money: Mrs. Joseph Davies and-or Mrs. Alfred Vanderbilt.

Big name: Mrs. Charles Lindberg.

Golfer: Babe Zaharias.

So there it is. All Eisenhower has to do is set the date and mail the invitations—with one exception. He'll have to pick his own newspaper columnist. Mrs. Tufty modestly left that blank.

The number of typewriters and mimeograph machines aboard the battleship Missouri is larger than the number of guns.

Grandma Moses Offers Ike Advice

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—As one artist to another, Grandma Moses today gave President Eisenhower a bit of advice:

"Keep on trying, and you will excel me before you are 93."

Grandma Moses, who turned to painting in later life and won international fame, now is 93 herself.

"For Grandma Moses, a real artist . . . from a rank amateur."

"To Dwight Eisenhower, President: I think you are doing fine in all things. I saw some photos of your paintings and I wish that I might do as good. Keep on trying, and you will excel me before you are 93. May you live long and be happy."

Confederate Museum Now Has Rebel Yell

FRONT ROYAL, Va., July 13 (AP)—The Confederate museum had just about every reminder of the South's part in the Civil War except the rebel yell. Now it has the yell too.

J. T. Malone of Armory, Miss., recorded one on tape while he and his wife visited here recently. The Mississippi Confederate said he learned the yell from the late Thomas Riddle, a C.S.A. army veteran.

Crude scissors were produced in the Iron Age (500 B.C. to 100 A.D.) says the National Geographic Society.

Evans New Head Of 29th Division

BALTIMORE, July 13 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Henry C. Evans yesterday was promoted to major general and named commander of the famed Blue and Gray 29th Infantry Division.

Gov. McKeldin announced the promotion, to date from June 1.

Evans, investment banker and native of Baltimore, succeeds Maj. Gen. William H. Sands, a Norfolk, Va., lawyer, who reached retirement age May 13. Gen. Sands had commanded the 29th since its postwar organization in 1946.

During World War I, the much-decorated Gen. Evans served in the 6th Field Artillery of the 1st Division and the 347th Field Artillery. He was separated from the service April 8, 1919, with the rank of captain.

From Sept. 1, 1921, to Feb. 2, 1942, Evans was an officer of the 110th Field Artillery Regiment, Maryland National Guard, and again entered active duty, Feb. 3, 1941, as colonel and commanding officer of the 110th.

Gen. Evans wears the Distinguished Service Cross, Silver Star and French fourregere from World War I and the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star with cluster, Belgium Croix de Guerre with Palm, Russian Guards Medal and the European-African Middle Eastern campaign ribbon with three battle stars.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Conversation is one of the most agreeable forms of entertainment—at the dinnertable, after dinner, anywhere and everywhere. It should be rewarding, and it will be—if you play your part well.

Even the most brilliant of conversations starts simply, with an exclamation about the weather (a cliche, but convenient!), or your hostess' charming home, or her excellent cooking. From that easy beginning, talk can move into a thousand and one channels. You may take the lead, if you like.

The only objectionable conversationalists are those who forget two basic rules: that you must have something interesting to express, and that you must observe good manners in expressing it. Those who fail to "live up" in these respects aren't really conversing at all; they're just talking!

Taking Part

As hostess or guest, you ought to contribute to the flow of words that ripples through a group, without making your contribution a monologue. The only accepted monologists are professionals paid to entertain an audience!

Business matters are taboo in a social conversation, for discussion of stocks and markets and the like confines the verbal exchange to a few people, as surely as would chatting in a South Africa dialect. It is most discourteous to exclude some one person from the group by dwelling on places, people, or things with which he is not familiar.

Nor is it polite to talk over other people's heads. You may know all there is to know about a "deep" topic, and feel it "smart" to vocalize your knowledge. Should you thus try to corner the conversation, you'll draw scowls instead of admiration. And your bad manners will be showing!

Private Feelings

Blanket attacks on any racial, religious, or political group may get you in hot water. Personal prejudices should not be aired in public. But you can, if pressed, reasonably define ideas on even the most controversial subject without making a pronouncement or being super-critical. Still, it is better to keep private feelings private.

Some people, like the monologists mentioned, make talking a business. For you, it should be a pleasure. Single-voiced you're not likely to retrieve conversation from the "lost art" category, but you've every opportunity to help it along!

Tomorrow — Wardrobe practicalities.

YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE

You can achieve an appealing, resonant, sonorous voice — one that can be a vibrant attribute to charm and success — by reading the new booklet, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome such wearisome speaking qualities as tonelessness, dullness, and lack of proper modulation. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper, enclosing 10c in coin, plus stamped, self-addressed, envelope.

Fatal Accident Survivor Seeks Damages

The survivor of a fatal crash at the tipple in Pekin yesterday sued the administratrix of the estate of the driver, who was killed in the mishap.

The suit for $10,000 was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court by Mary Florence Shriver through her father, Clarence C. Shriver, of Nikep, against Elizabeth Dohm, administratrix of the estate of Clarence Muir.

Muir, 24, formerly of Nikep and a resident of Conneaut, Ohio, was killed on December 23, 1953 when the car he was driving hit a Peoples Transit Company bus at the tipple in Nikep.

Both of the passengers in his car, Miss. Shriver and his sister, Miss Anna Jean Muir, 20, of Nikep, were seriously injured. Three persons on the bus were treated at Reeves Clinic in Westernport.

The suit against the Muir estate, filed by Horace Whitworth Jr., charged that Miss Shriver was a passenger in the car at the express invitation of Muir.

The declaration added that it was Mtuir's duty to drive safely, but alleged that he did not and was traveling at a high rate of speed when the accident occurred.

Miss Shriver, the suit said, suffered a fractured right leg and a fractured right arm and cuts about her head, nose and eyes. These have left her with a permanently deformed right arm, that will affect her ability to earn her livelihood, the suit contended. She also has been left with permanent scars.

County Commissioners Sign School Construction Bills

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday signed formal applications for $1,000,000 more in school construction funds.

The applications will be forwarded to the Comptroller of the Treasury to finance the county's building program until March 31, 1955.

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools, appeared before the board with the necessary forms. The county borrows the money from the state's General Public School Construction Loan of 1953.

Lower Interest Rate

In this manner, the state can loan money for school building purposes at a lower rate of interest than the county commissioners would have to pay in the event a bond issue was floated.

The state in 1949 provided to the counties $50,000,000 for this purpose, but the county did not borrow from it as no school construction was on at that time.

In 1953, the state made available to the counties an additional $20,000,000. Allegany County was eligible to borrow $3,900,000.

The 1953 General Assembly passed a bill that authorized $3,500,000 in school construction for this county.

This program, a little over a year old, is well under way under the supervision of Webster and the Board of Education.

Projects Completed

This is the third loan and has been included in the county's 1954-55 budget.

The first was for $800,000 and the second for $390,000.

Among the projects completed in the $3,500,000 program are a new Lincoln School, an addition to McCoole School, and remodeling of Central High School in Lonaconing to make it adaptable for use by elementary students. High school students in Lonaconing go to Valley High School.

Big projects now in the construction stage are additions to Carver, Flintstone and Oldtown together with a new elementary school in LaVale.

In the planning stage are a new high school at Westernport and an addition to Johnson Heights.

After this $1,000,000 loan, the school board still has $1,310,000 to go on to complete all its work.

Hearing On Gas Rate Increase Ends

The hearing in Baltimore before the Public Service Commission concerning a proposed rate increase requested by the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company ended Monday with the PSC requesting briefs to supplement the oral testimony already presented.

The PSC instructed both the company and opponents of the higher rate schedule to submit briefs by August 9.

Testimony Monday disclosed the company paid four million dollars for a West Virginia gas field before getting formal approval of the board of directors for the transaction.

C. A. Massa, company vice president, said the only formal action by the board of directors was approval of financing arrangements several weeks after the actual purchase in 1951 of the Terra Alta, W. Va., field.

Massa said, however, that various members of the purchase as individuals although no corporate action had been taken.

His testimony was given under cross-examination as a hearing resumed on Cumberland and Allegheny's application for authority to charge higher rates to about 20,000 Maryland customers.

Massa had been asked at a prior hearing to supply information on the purchase and operating costs in the Terra Alta field.

Other figures given by Massa on the company's operations:

Cumberland and Allegheny's property tax bill in Maryland rose from $50,796 in 1952 to $71,972 in 1953. In West Virginia, the property tax rose from $41,767 to $44,098 over the same period.

The company's expenditures for wells that turned out to be dry holes exceeded estimates last year by $200,000.

Massa said he hopes the company can pay some income tax for 1954. It paid none in 1953 because of a net loss.

The company's requested increase, filed last January 22, will raise the average monthly bill by an estimated 65 cents a month.

For those who use gas for heating, the increase will be about $3.70 under the company's proposed scale.

Damage Action Suit Filed Here

A local couple yesterday filed a suit in Allegany Circuit Court as a result of alleged damage to their home on Lehigh Street during flood protection work there in 1951.

Christos and Bessie Parsoudis, through their attorneys, Peter J. Carpenti and Estel C. Kelley, are seeking $3,500 from George and Lynch, Inc. of Delaware.

The suit declares that the installation of a storm sewer and conduit at Lehigh and Avirett Avenue in July, August and September 1951 took place in front of 412 and 414 Lehigh Street which they own.

Excavation for the sewer caused heavy damage to the foundations and caused the ceilings in the front bedrooms to be damaged, and the window casements to be sprung, the suit alleged.

During the work, their sewer stopped up due to the excavation and water reached a five-foot level in their basement, cusing damage to the furnace, washing machine and fruits and vegetables stored there, the Parsoudis' said.

County Asks Bids On Retreat Roof

For the first time since it was built many years ago, Sylvan Retreat needs a new roof, the Board of County Commissioners announced yesterday.

The original slate roof of the structure has been patched so many times it is no longer repairable, the commissioners said.

Specifications will be drawn for the work, which is termed an emergency project, and bids will be sought.

The County Roads Department will advertise for a new motor patrol grader. For a trade-in, the county has a 1941 grader.

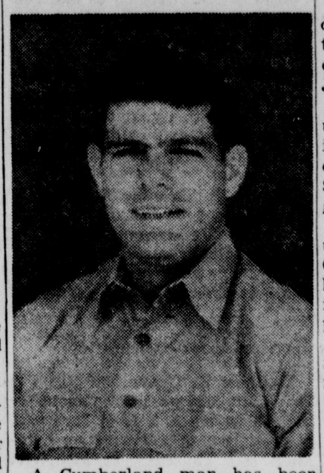
Cumberland Man Gets Bronze Star



A Cumberland man has been awarded the Bronze Star medal for heroic action with the Marine Corps during the early days of the Korean war.

He is Staff Sgt. Joseph Monteleone, now serving with the Corps in Nashville, Tenn., as a recruiter and instructor. He and his wife, the former Miss Jeannine Keller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Keller, 638 Bedford Street, are visiting here now with the Kellers and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Monteleone, 206 Oak Street.

The medal and citation were presented to Sgt. Monteleone by Maj. Gen. R. McC. Pate, of the First Marine Division, on the direction of the President. The citation states:

"For heroic achievement in connection with operations against the enemy while serving with a Marine infantry company in Korea, September 26, 1950. Serving as a squad leader, Sgt. Monteleone displayed exceptional courage, initiative and professional skill in the performance of his duties.

"During an attack by his company on well-entrenched enemy positions, he observed that many of his comrades had been wounded and were lying in positions completely exposed to devastating enemy small arms, mortar and artillery fire. Expressing complete disregard for his personal safety, he dauntlessly moved through the murderous hostile fire and successfully moved the wounded Marines to positions of comparative safety. He fearlessly continued his self-assigned mission until all of the wounded had been evacuated from the highly dangerous area.

"His intrepid actions and devotion to duty undoubtedly saved the wounded men from receiving any further wounds. Sgt. Monteleone's determined aggressiveness combined with his willingness to sacrifice his own chances to survival in the interest of his comrades served as an inspiration to all who observed him and were in keeping with the highest traditions of the Marine Corps."

Primary Election Expenses Are Listed By Candidates

Seven candidates who ran for office in the June 28 primary filed their election expense lists in office of Clerk of Circuit Court Joseph E. Boden.

James G. Stevenson, who was unopposed for the Republican nomination for the clerk to the Board of County Commissioners, spent $50—$25 for filing and $25 for program advertisements.

Richard G. Jenkins, who was unsuccessful in his race for the GOP nomination for sheriff, said he spent $100 of which $25 went for the filing fee and $75 for expenses.

Robert C. Elrick, unsuccessful in his bid for the GOP nomination for register of wills, reported expenses of $380 and no contributions. Of the amount, $25 went for filing; $200.60 for newspaper and bus advertising; $141 for cards and $13.40, miscellaneous.

One of the six Republicans nominated for House of Delegates, Estel C. Kelley, an incumbent, reported expenses of $341.76. This consisted of $25 for filing; $35 for car expense; and $149.11 for advertising.

Francis P. Miller, who was successful in running for the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee, said he spent $4.75 for cards.

Julius Schindler, who ran for delegate to the Democratic state convention from this county, said he had no expenses.

Sheriff Edward R. Muir reported expenditures of $311.58 in his successful bid for nomination as sheriff. Of this count, $25 went for filing, $100 for cars and workers, and the remainder for various advertising purposes.

Police Continue Shooting Probe

State Police continue to investigate the shooting of a 19-year-old local girl early the morning of July 4.

The victim, Nancy Lee Rice, 314 North Mechanic Street, who was struck by seven pellets from a .20 gauge shotgun near Cresaptown on July 4, has been released from Sacred Heart Hospital.

Cpl. William F. Baker said the girl was wounded by Walter A. McKenny, 810 Ashland Avenue, owner and operator of Hidden Village at Cresaptown. No charges were filed at the time.

Baker reported the Rice girl and Rosemary Veronica Corley, 18, of 120 North Mechanic Street, went to the recreation area about 2 a. m. with Miss Rice, Zane Swartzwelder, 20, and Charles Hammond, 21, of Charlesville, Pa. They had been to a drive-in theater and decided to look the village over.

McKenny, he said, heard people on the premises and blasted away. The Rice girl was hit in the legs.

The clarinet has a greater range than any other woodwind instrument.

Nation's Leading Women Peeved At Eisenhower's Stag Dinners

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Some of this nation's leading women are peeved at President Eisenhower. It's because he keeps giving informal stag dinners—and never has one for the ladies.

Esther van Wagoner Tufty, a newspaper correspondent and columnist, put it this way on a nationwide television show:

"A lot of American women leaders are reaching the boiling point about those informal stag dinners the President gives from time to time at the White House.

"Some mighty important women are making no secret that they, too, would like to dine and really talk with Mr. Eisenhower."

Mrs. Tufty didn't identify the mighty important women, or say what their boiling points are. But the subject came up as long as seven months ago, at an Eisenhower news conference.

Doris Fleeson, who also is a columnist, told the President that he already had had in 115 guests.

"None of these 115 guests," she said, "have been women. "How do you square that with your anti-discrimination policy?"

Eisenhower laughed and said he had thought about inviting women. But they — he didn't say who "they" were — told him he would have to be very careful because the women couldn't decide who should come.

"Did women tell you that or did men tell you that?"

Yes, exactly, the President said, women told him that. He added that he wouldn't take a man's advice in such a thing.

That didn't stop Mrs. Tufty. She went around to the President's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, she said, and was told the dinners had two purposes:

1. The President likes to get opinions from all over the country.

2. The President likes to try his own opinions, for size, on his distinguished guests.

Mrs. T. wasn't impressed with the idea that Eisenhower couldn't invite any women because he might make some other women mad. She said he has had 30 dinners, that the guest list follows a pattern. And that if the same pattern were used for the ladies it could come out like this:

Big business: Dorothy Shaver, New York Department store executive.

Administration: Clare Boothe Luce, ambassador to Italy.

Educator: Margaret Clapp, president of Wellesley College.

Author: Margaret Gulkin Banning.

Big money: Mrs. Joseph Davies and-or Mrs. Alfred Vanderbilt.

Big name: Mrs. Charles Lindberg.

Golfer: Babe Zaharias.

So there it is. All Eisenhower has to do is set the date and mail the invitations—with one exception. He'll have to pick his own newspaper columnist. Mrs. Tufty modestly left that blank.

The number of typewriters and mimeograph machines aboard the battleship Missouri is larger than the number of guns.

Grandma Moses Offers Ike Advice

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—As one artist to another, Grandma Moses today gave President Eisenhower a bit of advice:

"Keep on trying, and you will excel me before you are 93."

Grandma Moses, who turned to painting in later life and won international fame, now is 93 herself.

"To Dwight Eisenhower, President: I think you are doing fine in all things. I saw some photos of your paintings and I wish that I might do as good. Keep on trying, and you will excel me before you are 93. May you live long and be happy."

Confederate Museum Now Has Rebel Yell

FRONT ROYAL, Va., July 13 (AP)—The Confederate museum had just about every reminder of the South's part in the Civil War except the rebel yell. Now it has the yell too.

J. T. Malone of Armory, Miss., recorded one on tape while he and his wife visited here recently. The Mississippi Confederate said he learned the yell from the late Thomas Riddle, a C.S.A. army veteran.

Crude scissors were produced in the Iron Age (500 B.C. to 100 A.D.) says the National Geographic Society.

Evans New Head Of 29th Division

BALTIMORE, July 13 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Henry C. Evans yesterday was promoted to major general and named commander of the famed Blue and Gray 29th Infantry Division.

Gov. McKeldin announced the promotion, to date from June 1.

Evans, investment banker and native of Baltimore, succeeds Maj. Gen. William H. Sands, a Norfolk, Va., lawyer, who reached retirement age May 13. Gen. Sands had commanded the 29th since its post-war organization in 1946.

During World War I, the much-decorated Gen. Evans served in the 6th Field Artillery of the 1st Division and the 347th Field Artillery. He was separated from the service April 8, 1919, with the rank of captain.

From Sept. 1, 1921, to Feb. 2, 1942, Evans was an officer of the 110th Field Artillery Regiment, Maryland National Guard, and again entered active duty, Feb. 3, 1941, as colonel and commanding officer of the 110th.

Gen. Evans wears the Distinguished Service Cross, Silver Star and French fourregere from World War I and the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star with cluster, Belgium Croix de Guerre with Palm, Russian Guards Medal and the European-African Middle Eastern campaign ribbon with three battle stars.

Overhead Bridge Stand Is Aired By Jaycee Directors

A statement approved at a special meeting Monday night of the board of directors of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce was released yesterday by George L. Carney Jr., president.

The statement deals with the organization's views on the proposed crosstown expressway. The statement follows:

"Recently, the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, Inc., adopted a motion opposing construction of the proposed overhead bridge plan. This action was taken at a regular monthly meeting of our organization and was the result of extensive study and deliberation by our membership generally and a special committee in particular.

Claim Misleading

"Due to erroneous and misleading information contained in a published letter attacking our action which was issued for publication by a group of ten persons calling themselves 'We, Jaycees who have signed our names below,' the record on this matter should be corrected in the interests of the issue involved and the good name and reputation which our organization enjoys in our community.

"First of all, of the ten purported 'Jaycees' who signed this attack on the action taken by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, Inc., only five are regular members in good standing and one is an associate member having no right to vote on business coming before the general membership for decision. The others have no connection with our organization whatever and have unwittingly, or otherwise, allowed their names to be used to perpetrate a gross inaccuracy.

"The signers of this attack, who include C. M. Sanner, Miles G. Thompson Jr., Robert E. Barnard Jr., David J. Moreland, W. Bruce Douglas, S. Lua Syckes, Dr. William T. Fridinger, Dr. Harry Butler, John MacVeigh and Edward Mullen Jr., state that they are confused because the arguments used against the plan as proposed by the State Roads Commission do not acknowledge obvious conditions of narrow streets downtown crowded with cars hemmed in by two busy railroad crossings.

Suggested Study

"However, in a letter sent to the Mayor and City Council informing them of the action taken by our organization at was stated under '2' therein that: 'Therefore, our own self-interest as citizens of Cumberland requires that we independently ascertain for ourselves whether or not the effects of this proposed project would be beneficial to our city and whether or not its construction would offer a solution to the downtown traffic problems with which we have long been faced. The proposed overhead bridge project would alleviate no more than a small portion of the congestion caused by the railroads at either end of Baltimore Street. Also, travel on downtown streets, which must be considered since such a large percentage of our daily traffic load is local in nature, would become more difficult and complicated if the contemplated project were constructed, since areas of considerable size in this already-congested area would be required for approaches, etc., to and from the bridge.

"These same people are surprised because they 'cannot understand how such an outspoken minority can refuse to look and work towards some real improvement to our city—.' This statement is misleading in that the motion of the Cumberland Junior Association, Inc., was adopted by an overwhelming majority of the members who were present at our regular monthly meeting held on Wednesday, July 7, 1954. Of the ten persons who signed this letter of protest, five are regular members of our organization. None of these members were present at the meeting.

Brought Up At Meetings

"The question of whether or not our organization would take some action concerning the overhead bridge plan has been brought to the floor at prior meetings, and, though action was then deferred, it was stated that a decision would be reached on this question at a future meeting. Therefore, those of our members who favor the overhead bridge plan have had ample notice that some action by our organization was imminent. Had a majority of those who voted on the motion though the overhead bridge plan would bring about real improvement to our city, the motion opposing this project would have been defeated.

"These ten persons who protest our organization's action further state that no report was issued by the special committee which studied the overhead bridge and alternate plans. However, at our May meeting a report was made to the general membership by the committee spokesman stating that a majority of the committee members were of the opinion that neither plan should be endorsed by our organization. In addition, both plans had previously been explained in detail to the general committee membership.

"The confused protesting letter signers are themselves confusing the situation when they state that our organization's action was based in part on the fact that a sewage disposal plant was more urgent. Actually, there was no reference made, either directly or indirectly, concerning a sewage disposal plant, in the motion which was adopted or in the letter which was sent to the Mayor and City Council.

Not Thoughtless

"Another erroneous impression fostered in the letter attacking the action taken by our organization is the inference that this action was a thoughtless, spur-of-the-moment move taken under surreptitious conditions to thwart the will of a majority of our members, when in fact action of the type actually taken has been contemplated ever since the special committee began a study of these plans. That these persons should infer that no study, consideration and dispassionate thinking was given this matter prior to the adoption of our resolution opposing the construction of the overhead bridge does a serious disservice to the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, Inc., and the special committee which studied this question; especially since these signers acknowledge elsewhere in their letter that various meetings were held on this subject by the special committee and that the subject has been discussed by the general membership at regular meetings.

"In the future we hope that these ten persons who have moved in haste and with insufficient regard for truth to attack the method used to arrive at this (the motion adopted by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, Inc., opposing the overhead bridge plan) recommendation and report will themselves look to the methods they employ in expressing their views and the accuracy of the supporting statements which they issue. The right of freedom of speech does not extend to the use of statements which have no factual basis."

Firemen To Buy Radio Equipment

Bids for radio equipment for the county's volunteer fire companies will be advertised by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

The equipment will be purchased under the Civil Defense matching fund program and would cost between $12,000 and $15,000, according to a communication by the commissioners received from William G. Barger, county CD director.

Fifty per cent of the money needed will come from the federal CD fund, 25 per cent from the state and 25 per cent from the county.

The county's share will be borne by the volunteer fire companies desiring to participate in the Civil Defense radio hookup, Barger said.

At a meeting of the Allegany-Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association Sunday, 14 companies indicated acceptance of the plan.

Barger said each company has agreed to bear its local share.

Barger added that it is assumed some county funds may be needed to erect a main control center. There will be a fixed transmitter and receiver, he said.

The letter from Barger was accompanied by several copies of specifications for the equipment. Bids will be opened Wednesday, August 4, at 10 a. m. in Barger's office, at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

Any bidder can receive technical information on the proposed radio system and equipment from C. R. Sine at the C&A Gas Company.

GOC Day Slated

Ground Observer Corps Day will be observed today, the second anniversary of the assumption of 24-hour daily "skywatch" duties by volunteers. Some 350,000 people are engaged as civilian workers in GOC.

Annual Cumberland Fair Will Start Here August 23

Plans are being completed for the annual Cumberland Fair at Fairgo starting August 23 and continuing through August 28, according to Edgar Reynolds, general manager of the Fair Association.

Reynolds said that the Clubhouse will be used this year to house the flower show, and exhibits of ceramics, antiques, and various other art objects.

The Prell Shows will again be the attraction on the midway with an unusually large number of rides, shows and concessions. There will be five acts on the stage in front of the grandstand each night by the Cook and Rose Shows.

There will be fireworks every night with the pyrotechnic display being staged in the infield of the race track. Reynolds said the display of fireworks this year will be larger than ever before. The cliffs of Knobley Mountain act as a perfect sounding board for the aerial rockets and bombs and other devices, he added.

Another change for the Fair this year will be the utilization of the paddock and mutuel sections in that area for displays of a commercial nature. Additional commercial displays will be held under the grandstand as in past years, Reynolds said.

Opening the program on Monday night, August 23, will be the Irish Horan Daredevils, who will present a show of hazardous stunts on the race track in front of the grandstand.

Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent, said the entry list for the dairy and beef cattle exhibits is large and there will also be exhibits of sheep, hogs, poultry and other animals in the sheds and halls on the fair grounds.

Exhibits have also been planned by both boys and girls of the 4-H Clubs of the county. Homemakers clubs will also show their wares.

Grove Convalescing

Slated Sunday Swimming Event

The City Recreation Department will sponsor a swimming pageant Sunday at Constitution Park at 9:15 p. m. immediately following the performance of the Cumberland Concert Band.

Highlight of the program will be a water ballet by teenage girls under the direction of Mrs. Gilbert Miller.

Also on the program will be some comic clown diving acts and exhibitions by six local divers.

Hearing On Gas Rate Increase Ends

The hearing in Baltimore before the Public Service Commission concerning a proposed rate increase requested by the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company ended Monday with the PSC requesting briefs to supplement the oral testimony already presented.

The PSC instructed both the company and opponents of the higher rate schedule to submit briefs by August 9.

Testimony Monday disclosed the company paid four million dollars for a West Virginia gas field before getting formal approval of the board of directors for the transaction.

C. A. Massa, company vice president, said the only formal action by the board of directors was approval of financing arrangements several weeks after the actual purchase in 1951 of the Terra Alta, W. Va., field.

Massa said, however, that various members of the board knew of the purchase as individuals although no corporate action had been taken.

His testimony was given under cross-examination as a hearing resumed on Cumberland and Allegheny's application for authority to charge higher rates to about 20,000 Maryland customers.

Massa had been asked at a prior hearing to supply information on the purchase and operating costs in the Terra Alta field.

Other figures given by Massa on the company's operations:

Cumberland and Allegheny's property tax bill in Maryland rose from $50,796 in 1952 to $71,972 in 1953. In West Virginia, the property tax rose from $41,767 to $44,098 over the same period.

The company's expenditures for wells that turned out to be dry holes exceeded estimates last year by $200,000.

Massa said he hopes the company can pay some income tax for 1954. It paid none in 1953 because of a net loss.

The company's requested increase, filed last January 22, will raise the average monthly bill by an estimated 65 cents a month. For those who use gas for heating, the increase will be about $3.70 under the company's proposed scale.

Damage Action Suit Filed Here

A local couple yesterday filed a suit in Allegany Circuit Court as a result of alleged damage to their home on Lehigh Street during flood protection work there in 1951.

Christos and Bessie Parsoudis, through their attorneys, Peter J. Carpenti and Estel C. Kelley, are seeking $3,500 from George and Lynch, Inc. of Delaware.

The suit declares that the installation of a storm sewer and conduit at Lehigh and Avirett Avenue in July, August and September 1951 took place in front of 412 and 414 Lehigh Street which they own.

Excavation for the sewer caused heavy damage to the foundations and caused the ceilings in the front bedrooms to be damaged, and the window casements to be sprung, the suit alleged.

During the work, their sewer stopped up due to the excavation and water reached a five-foot level in their basement, cusing damage to the furnace, washing machine and fruits and vegetables stored there, the Parsoudis' said.

County Asks Bids On Retreat Roof

For the first time since it was built many years ago, Sylvan Retreat needs a new roof, the Board of County Commissioners announced yesterday.

The original slate roof of the structure has been patched so many times it is no longer repairable, the commissioners said.

Specifications will be drawn for the work, which is termed an emergency project, and bids will be sought.

The County Roads Department will advertise for a new motor patrol grader. For a trade-in, the county has a 1941 grader.

Cumberland Man Gets Bronze Star

He is Staff Sgt. Joseph Monteleone, now serving with the Corps in Nashville, Tenn., as a recruiter and instructor. He and his wife, the former Miss Jeannine Keller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Keller, 638 Bedford Street, are visiting here now with the Kellers and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Monteleone, 206 Oak Street.

The medal and citation were presented to Sgt. Monteleone by Maj. Gen. R. McC. Pate, of the First Marine Division, on the direction of the President. The citation states:

"For heroic achievement in connection with operations against the enemy while serving with a Marine infantry company in Korea, September 26, 1950. Serving as a squad leader, Sgt. Monteleone displayed exceptional courage, initiative and professional skill in the performance of his duties.

"During an attack by his company on well-entrenched enemy positions, he observed that many of his comrades had been wounded and were lying in positions completely exposed to devastating enemy small arms, mortar and artillery fire. Expressing complete disregard for his personal safety, he dauntlessly moved through the murderous hostile fire and successfully moved the wounded Marines to positions of comparative safety. He fearlessly continued his self-assigned mission until all of the wounded had been evacuated from the highly dangerous area.

"His intrepid actions and devotion to duty undoubtedly saved the wounded men from receiving any further wounds. Sgt. Monteleone's determined aggressiveness combined with his willingness to sacrifice his own chances to survival in the interest of his comrades served as an inspiration to all who observed him and were in keeping with the highest traditions of the Marine Corps."

Primary Election Expenses Are Listed By Candidates

Seven candidates who ran for office in the June 28 primary filed their election expense lists in office of Clerk of Circuit Court Joseph E. Boden.

James G. Stevenson, who was unopposed for the Republican nomination for the clerk to the Board of County Commissioners, spent $50—$25 for filing and $25 for program advertisements.

Richard G. Jenkins, who was unsuccessful in his race for the GOP nomination for sheriff, said he spent $100 of which $25 went for the filing fee and $75 for expenses.

Robert C. Elrick, unsuccessful in his bid for the GOP nomination for register of wills, reported expenses of $380 and no contributions. Of the amount, $25 went for filing; $200.60 for newspaper and bus advertising; $141 for cards and $13.40, miscellaneous.

One of the six Republicans nominated for House of Delegates, Estel C. Kelley, an incumbent, reported expenses of $341.76. This consisted of $25 for filing; $35 for car expense; and $149.11 for advertising.

Francis P. Miller, who was successful in running for the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee, said he spent $4.75 for cards.

Julius Schindler, who ran for delegate to the Democratic state convention from this county, said he had no expenses.

Sheriff Edward R. Muir reported expenditures of $311.58 in his successful bid for nomination as sheriff. Of this count, $25 went for filing, $100 for cars and workers, and the remainder for various advertising purposes.

Police Continue Shooting Probe

State Police continue to investigate the shooting of a 19-year-old local girl early the morning of July 4.

The victim, Nancy Lee Rice, 314 North Mechanic Street, who was struck by seven pellets from a .20 gauge shotgun near Cresaptown on July 4, has been released from Sacred Heart Hospital.

Cpl. William F. Baker said the girl was wounded by Walter A. McKenny, 810 Ashland Avenue, owner and operator of Hidden Village at Cresaptown. No charges were filed at the time.

Baker reported the Rice girl and Rosemary Veronica Corley, 18, of 120 North Mechanic Street, went to the recreation area about 2 a. m. with Miss Rice, Dane Swartzwelder, 20, and Charles Hammond, 21, of Charlesville, Pa. They had been to a drive-in theater and decided to look the village over.

McKenny, he said, heard people on the premises and blasted away. The Rice girl was hit in the legs.

The clarinet has a greater range than any other woodwind instrument.

Overhead Bridge Stand Is Aired By Jaycee Directors

A statement approved at a special meeting Monday night of the board of directors of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce was released yesterday by George L. Carney Jr., president.

The statement deals with the organization's views on the proposed crosstown expressway. The statement follows:

"Recently, the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, Inc., adopted a motion opposing construction of the proposed overhead bridge plan. This action was taken at a regular monthly meeting of our organization and was the result of extensive study and deliberation by our membership generally and a special committee in particular.

Claim Misleading

"Due to erroneous and misleading information contained in a published letter attacking our action which was issued for publication by a group of ten persons calling themselves 'We, Jaycees who have signed our names below,' the record on this matter should be corrected in the interests of the issue involved and the good name and reputation which our organization enjoys in our community.

"First of all, of the ten purported 'Jaycees' who signed this attack on the action taken by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, Inc., only five are regular members in good standing and one is an associate member having no right to vote on business coming before the general membership for decision. The others have no connection with our organization whatever and have unwittingly, or otherwise, allowed their names to be used to perpetrate a gross inaccuracy.

"The signers of this attack, who include C. M. Sanner, Miles G. Thompson Jr., Robert E. Barnard Jr., David J. Moreland, W. Bruce Douglas, S. Lua Syckes, Dr. William T. Fridinger, Dr. Harry Butler, John MacVeigh and Edward Mullen Jr., state that they are confused because the arguments used against the plan as proposed by the State Roads Commission do not acknowledge obvious conditions of narrow streets downtown crowded with cars hemmed in by two busy railroad crossings.

Suggested Study

"However, in a letter sent to the Mayor and City Council informing them of the action taken by our organization at was stated under '2' therein that: 'Therefore, our own self-interest as citizens of Cumberland requires that we independently ascertain for ourselves whether or not the effects of this proposed project would be beneficial to our city and whether or not its construction would offer a solution to the downtown traffic problems with which we have long been faced. The proposed overhead bridge project would alleviate no more than a small portion of the congestion caused by the railroads at either end of Baltimore Street. Also, travel on downtown streets, which must be considered since such a large percentage of our daily traffic load is local in nature, would become more difficult and complicated if the contemplated project were constructed, since areas of considerable size in this already-congested area would be required for approaches, etc., to and from the bridge.

"These same people are surprised because they 'cannot understand how such an outspoken minority can refuse to look and work towards some real improvement to our city—.' This statement is misleading in that the motion of the Cumberland Junior Association, Inc., was adopted by an overwhelming majority of the members who were present at our regular monthly meeting held on Wednesday, July 7, 1954. Of the ten persons who signed this letter of protest, five are regular members of our organization. None of these members were present at the meeting.

Brought Up At Meetings

"The question of whether or not our organization would take some action concerning the overhead bridge plan has been brought to the floor at prior meetings, and, though action was then deferred, it was stated that a decision would be reached on this question at a future meeting. Therefore, those of our members who favor the overhead bridge plan have had ample notice that some action by our organization was imminent. Had a majority of those who voted on the motion though the overhead bridge plan would bring about real improvement to our city, the motion opposing this project would have been defeated.

"These ten persons who protest our organization's action further state that no report was issued by the special committee which studied the overhead bridge and alternate plans. However, at our May meeting a report was made to the general membership by the committee spokesman stating that a majority of the committee members were of the opinion that neither plan should be endorsed by our organization. In addition, both plans had previously been explained in detail to the general committee membership.

"The confused protesting letter signers are themselves confusing the situation when they state that our organization's action was based in part on the fact that a sewage disposal plant was more urgent. Actually, there was no reference made, either directly or indirectly, concerning a sewage disposal plant, in the motion which was adopted or in the letter which was sent to the Mayor and City Council.

Not Thoughtless

"Another erroneous impression fostered in the letter attacking the action taken by our organization is the inference that this action was a thoughtless, spur-of-the-moment move taken under surreptitious conditions to thwart the will of a majority of our members, when in fact action of the type actually taken has been contemplated ever since the special committee began a study of these plans. That these persons should infer that no study, consideration and dispassionate thinking was given this matter prior to the adoption of our resolution opposing the construction of the overhead bridge does a serious disservice to the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, Inc., and the special committee which studied this question; especially since these signers acknowledge elsewhere in their letter that various meetings were held on this subject by the special committee and that the subject has been discussed by the general membership at regular meetings.

"In the future we hope that these ten persons who have moved in haste and with insufficient regard for truth to attack the method used to arrive at this (the motion adopted by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, Inc., opposing the overhead bridge plan) recommendation and report will themselves look to the methods they employ in expressing their views and the accuracy of the supporting statements which they issue. The right of freedom of speech does not extend to the use of statements which have no factual basis."

Firemen To Buy Radio Equipment

Bids for radio equipment for the county's volunteer fire companies will be advertised by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

The equipment will be purchased under the Civil Defense matching fund program and would cost between $12,000 and $15,000, according to a communication by the commissioners received from William G. Barger, county CD director.

Fifty per cent of the money needed will come from the federal CD fund, 25 per cent from the state and 25 per cent from the county.

The county's share will be borne by the volunteer fire companies desiring to participate in the Civil Defense radio hookup, Barger said.

At a meeting of the Allegany-Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association Sunday, 14 companies indicated acceptance of the plan.

Barger said each company has agreed to bear its local share.

Barger added that it is assumed some county funds may be needed to erect a main control center. There will be a fixed transmitter and receiver, he said.

The letter from Barger was accompanied by several copies of specifications for the equipment. Bids will be opened Wednesday, August 4, at 10 a. m. in Barger's office, at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

Any bidder can receive technical information on the proposed radio system and equipment from C. R. Sine at the C&A Gas Company.

Annual Cumberland Fair Will Start Here August 23

Plans are being completed for the annual Cumberland Fair at Fairgo starting August 23 and continuing through August 28, according to Edgar Reynolds, general manager of the Fair Association.

Reynolds said that the Clubhouse will be used this year to house the flower show, and exhibits of ceramics, antiques, and various other art objects.

The Prell Shows will again be the attraction on the midway with an unusually large number of rides, shows and concessions. There will be five acts on the stage in front of the grandstand each night by the Cook and Rose Shows.

There will be fireworks every night with the pyrotechnic display being staged in the infield of the race track. Reynolds said the display of fireworks this year will be larger than ever before. The cliffs of Knobley Mountain act as a perfect sounding board for the aerial rockets and bombs and other devices, he added.

Another change for the Fair this year will be the utilization of the paddock and mutuel sections in that area for displays of a commercial nature. Additional commercial displays will be held under the grandstand as in past years, Reynolds said.

Opening the program on Monday night, August 23, will be the Irish Horan Daredevils, who will present a show of hazardous stunts on the race track in front of the grandstand.

Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent, said the entry list for the dairy and beef cattle exhibits is large and there will also be exhibits of sheep, hogs, poultry and other animals in the sheds and halls on the fair grounds.

Exhibits have also been planned by both boys and girls of the 4-H Clubs of the county. Homemakers clubs will also show their wares.

The City Recreation Department will sponsor a swimming pageant Sunday at Constitution Park at 9:15 p. m. immediately following the performance of the Cumberland Concert Band.

Highlight of the program will be a water ballet by teenage girls under the direction of Mrs. Gilbert Miller.

Also on the program will be some comic clown diving acts and exhibitions by six local divers.

Area Included In Work Survey

The Cumberland area is being included in a United States Census Bureau survey this week to determine the number of hours worked during the week of July 5. The purpose of the survey is to provide information on the effect of the Independence Day holiday on the working population.

Special questions designed to provide such information will be asked in the July Current Population Survey, according to Supervisor Ralph E. Pearcy, who is connected with the Bureau's district office at Pittsburgh.

The special questions will be asked of all persons who did any work at all during the week of July 5.

The inquiries will cover whether or not these persons were off from work on the holiday, the number of hours they would have worked had it not been for the holiday, whether they were paid for time off on July 5, and whether they had to work longer hours than usual the rest of the week to make up for the holiday layoff.

The special questions are in addition to the regular inquiries on employment and unemployment which are asked each month in the Current Population Survey.

Local interviews for the survey are handled by Mrs. Olive E. Claar. The survey is being conducted locally and in 229 other sections of the country.

HAVE you been thinking you can't afford a new Buick? Listen:

If you can afford any new car, you can afford a Buick—and we boldly show our price here to prove it.

Look again, and you'll see that this is the local delivered price of the new Buick SPECIAL 2-door, 6-passenger Sedan. Compare, and you'll learn that this price is just a few dollars away from those of the so-called "low-price three."

But—dig a little deeper if you want the real clincher. That's when you find that those few dollars more you pay for a Buick buy you a lot more automobile.

They buy a lot more luxury and comfort and solidity—more room, more glass area, more frame strength, more tread width, more ride steadiness—including the million dollar "feel" of all-coil springing and torque-tube stability.

They buy, too, the most advanced styling of the times, and the great panoramic windshield, and the surety that such fresh-looking beauty will stay in the style parade for seasons to come. (That means a better deal for you come resale time.)

Is it any wonder, then, that Buick now outsells all other cars in America except two of the so-called "low-price three"?

Come in for a demonstration—this week, for sure. And learn, in the doing, what a big trade-in allowance our volume sales can bring you.

2-DOOR, 6-PASSENGER SEDAN Model 48D (Illus.)

Honey on Wheels

–and only $2299.88* buys it!

HAVE you been thinking you can't afford a new Buick? Listen:

If you can afford any new car, you can afford a Buick—and we boldly show our price here to prove it.

Look again, and you'll see that this is the local delivered price of the new Buick SPECIAL 2-door, 6-passenger Sedan. Compare, and you'll learn that this price is just a few dollars away from those of the so-called "low-price three."

But—dig a little deeper if you want the real clincher. That's when you find that those few dollars more you pay for a Buick buy you a lot more automobile.

They buy a lot more luxury and comfort and solidity—more room, more glass area, more frame strength, more tread width, more ride steadiness—including the million dollar "feel" of all-coil springing and torque-tube stability.

They buy, too, the most advanced styling of the times, and the great panoramic windshield, and the surety that such fresh-looking beauty will stay in the style parade for seasons to come. (That means a better deal for you come resale time.)

2-DOOR, 6-PASSENGER SEDAN Model 48D (Illus.)

*Optional equipment, accessories, state and local taxes, if any, additional. Prices may vary slightly in adjoining communities due to shipping charges. All prices subject to change without notice. Even the factory-installed extras you may want are bargains, such as: heater & defroster . . . only $81.70.

Is it any wonder, then, that Buick now outsells all other cars in America except two of the so-called "low-price three"?

Come in for a demonstration—this week, for sure. And learn, in the doing, what a big trade-in allowance our volume sales can bring you.

Flying Wagon Tracks A New Mystery?

Is there a new sky mystery to match the frantic excitement of the sightings of flying saucers? Are these "flying wagon tracks" sighted along the Delaware coast the other morning merely a celestial manifestation, or some new kind of sky ship?

A scoutmaster sighted what appeared to be a pair of parallel lines being drawn in eerie fashion across the dark bowl of the early morning sky, and the estimates were that the object making the tracks must have been traveling about 1,000 miles per hour. The immediate thought is that the wagon tracks were the contrails, or vapor trails, left by a pair of high flying jets, although the Air Force said it didn't have any planes in the air in the vicinity at the time. The Air Force thinks it might be the Navy's doing.

The contrail theory may be the correct one. Jets will leave contrails at varying altitudes, but almost always leave them above 20,000 feet. The report that they had a phosphorescent appearance the other morning raises a question that maybe some meteorologist may be able to solve, although the crystallized vapor trails are apt to pick up any light, whether from a waning moon or the first loom of the false dawn. It must have been an electrifying sight in any event, enough to inspire thoughts of high altitude interlopers, possibly from another country—or another planet.

Actually the contrail problem is one which is getting much attention from aviation scientists. The long chalk marks made against the blue sky are a dead giveaway, and the U. S. Air Force has been apprised of strange planes over Alaskan frontier by means of them. There is little doubt that the sketchers of these marks came from Russian territory, across the Bering Strait. Such trails are beautiful to see, the great graceful curves, arabesques, or straight rules, just so long as the planes that make them are U. S. planes.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Marginal Industries

The United States may be proud of its great mass production industries, but the American people still find their largest employment in marginal industries, in small shops and mills scattered over the country, in stores and warehouses, in small businesses, on farms, and in self-employment.

The capitalist system contains the seeds for its own destruction and the most potent of these is monopoly. The reduction of the automobile industry from more than 100 manufacturers to four major companies does represent an enormous increase in efficiency, but the question must be asked: If only four, why not two or one company? And if we come down to only one company, why not have government ownership?

I know all the answers to these questions but as a capitalist, I am satisfied with none of them. The elimination of active, exciting, throat-cutting, if you please, competition must lessen the chances of a new agency of production from coming into existence; it can only lead to the cartelization of industry; cartelization inevitably leads to government control; government control can produce government management and socialism. Great Britain tried these steps in her steel industry and has been forced to go back step by step to private ownership and management. What is called a mixed system, that is, partial capitalistic and partial socialistic operations, does not work because private enterprise has few defenses against competition with untaxed government enterprises, and the authority of government when it combines its activities in the economic and political fields tends to become totalitarian, although that has not quite proved so in TVA.

From this standpoint, it can be said that if American marginal industries cannot compete with foreign products imported into this country out of low-wage, low-tax countries, sometimes by dumping in order to amass dollars, the American industry ought to go out of existence. Actually, this has been the general policy during the past decade and the Randall Report, which has recently been rejected by Congress, upholds this point of view. In fact, it has been suggested by extreme free-traders that if, in the interest of restoring European economy, an American industry has to go out of existence, the government should subsidize the American industry not to produce and should remove the out-of-work Americans from their homes to some place where they can find work or put them on the dole. The idea was not taken seriously in this country.

Nevertheless certain American industries are suffering from what amounts to political-economic competition from Europe and Asia. One of the nastiest forms is going on at this moment in the flooding of the American market with Christmas toys and decorations from the atheistic countries behind the iron curtain. I shall call attention to this traffic at another time but I do suggest to buyers for department and chain stores that when they face a boycott of such goods by patriotic organizations in October, November and December, it will be of little value to say that they did not know what they were doing when they purchased these wares.

In the matter of the American-made watch, there is lots of trouble, although a few of the Swiss companies are making some of their product in the United States. At least one Swiss company has become Americanized because "they never had it so good" in the country from which they came. Maybe these Swiss manufacturers are more efficient than the Americans; maybe they have taken advantage of their lower costs in Switzerland to build brand names in this country to the disadvantage of the American makers.

The fact is that the American watch industry requires tariff protection if it is not to go out of existence. Since 1936, the tariff on watches has been reduced 58.6 per cent and the imports have increased nearly 1000 per cent, according to American watch-makers, who are laying off workers. (I have not checked these figures.)

The importance of this industry is not watches; it is war-time industry, useful in the making of fuses and other work requiring precision operations. Offshore buying at present will not serve in war-time.

Just as Senator George Malone's Committee of the Senate has been studying the availability of minerals and materials for war-time, so some study should be made of the availability of special skills without dependence on ocean-traffic in war-time.

America's Reappraisal Of World Situation Is Nearer

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — America's "agonizing reappraisal" of the world situation is not far away. The trip of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to Paris at this time is one of the first moves in the process.

It will be recalled that Mr. Dulles several months ago warned the French that, unless the European Defense Community were ratified, the United States would have to make "an agonizing reappraisal" of its world policies. No clarifying definition was ever supplied, but it has been generally believed that, if France and Britain pursued policies that isolated the United States, it would become necessary to re-examine America's past policies and assumptions as well.

There is at present a far-reaching crisis in world affairs.

Want American Blessing

The French cabinet realizes it is defeated in Indochina and is preparing some form of surrender. But it wants an American blessing to be given to the so-called "settlement," so it will seem more palatable to the French people.

Great Britain is trying to side with France but also wants a cue from America as to what to do.

When Secretary Dulles and Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith dealt with the problems that arose at Geneva, they made it crystal clear that the United States was not in favor of appeasing the Communists in Indochina or anywhere else.

There was a brief period recently when America considered military intervention in Indochina, but the French government, while discussing the matter on a hypothetical basis, never really requested intervention. The reason was a fear that, if the United States did intervene, it would mean the internationalization of the war and this might result in a prolonged conflict. The pressure in France has been to get out of Indochina at almost any cost. This pressure comes to a large extent from the Communist deputies—100 of them—who hold the balance of power in the French parliament, and from the leftist groups who have been influenced by what seemed to them a popular cry for the ending of the war in Indochina.

But now that the time is at hand for scuttling the Indochina War by retreat and evacuation, the French cabinet is ill at ease. Frantic appeals were made to the American government last week to send a top-level official to attend the Geneva Conference, where Messrs. Molotov of Russia, Chou En-Lai of Communist China and Foreign Secretary Eden of Britain were ready to meet with Premier Mendes-France. This could only mean arrangements for the funeral of Allied hopes for an honorable Indochina settlement.

Best Thing To Do

The United States Government replied last Friday that it couldn't see the wisdom of sending a top-level official back to Geneva, because America would have to speak its mind plainly and in the end this could complicate matters for the French if they were really bent on surrendering or appeasing or retreating—whatever the descriptive phrase for ending the Indochina War on the enemy's terms really is.

But the French felt badly about America's abstention and again urged that someone from the Department of State come to talk things over. So Mr. Dulles conferred with President Eisenhower on Monday of this week and decided that, as a courtesy to the French, the best thing to do was for the secretary of state to fly to Paris and hold conferences there. Whether or not Mr. Dulles goes on to Geneva—an hour away from Paris by plane—depends on what tangible results crop up at the Swiss center of diplomatic effort.

Meanwhile, Prime Minister Churchill dispelled one source of anxiety that had arisen since he left Washington. He declared that Britain didn't favor Red China's admission to the United Nations "at the moment," which means that the matter will be deferred for some time to come even though Mr. Churchill reaffirms his belief that ultimately such a course should be taken. He revealed, incidentally, that the matter of admitting Red China into the United Nations figured very little in his talks with President Eisenhower. The real controversy arose afterward when reports became current that Premier Mendes-France, in order to get Chou En-Lai's approval of peace terms, had to promise something about supporting Red China's bid for entry into the Security Council of the U.N.

U. S. Leadership Supported

But the forthright expressions from Majority Leader Knowland and Minority Leader Johnson in the U. S. Senate, together with the legislation proposed to cut down on foreign aid, may have had a sobering effect on those aboard who were pressing the Red China matter. For the present, therefore, nothing will be done about it, and American leadership on this issue has received a strong measure of support throughout the world.

Mr. Churchill also emphasized in his report to the House of Commons the deep-seated fear that he has about the H-bomb. This subject is bound to influence world policy more and more as the stories of terror, some of them innocently spread and others deliberately exaggerated, are distributed with the possible result that the "will to fight" in France and Britain will be paralyzed. If Britain and France are to be neutral because of the H-bomb, America's whole strategy in getting and keeping allies in Asia and Europe may have to be completely revised.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

When Winsome Churchill goes super-marketing the world is his basket.

We don't know what he's after until we miss it.

When he arrives we roll out the coast-to-coast plush carpeting. When he leaves we rush up and count the Great Lakes.

In return Winnicker usually leaves us some great apothegm to show he was here. We all remember, "We shall fight on the streets, on the housetops, in the hills and possibly with the wife's mother."

He gave us the iron curtain and numerous biting stencils. But this time Winnie blew an oratorical gasket. Nothing.

Nothing unless you accept, "It is better to jaw-jaw than to war-war." Either Winnie thinks he is the two-headed boy, he is stuttering or he is getting paid by the word.

Winsome this time you have let us down like a well-digger's lunch.

This repetition of words is called jabbinosis and is common to croupiers, street car conductors and nurseries. We are afraid the tide has turned and Winnie is starting to look like all the babies.

So far this double-dose of jaw-jaw hasn't worked so hot with the Veet-Veets or the Mau-Maus.

Those people are like the citizens of Walla Walla who liked the place so much they named it twice.

No, we are afraid that Winnie's bridgework doesn't mesh and he missed the bite.

Some Advice For Oldsters: Take In Your Sails A Bit

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Some day we may toss aside our current ideas on retirement, social security, and aging in general. The revolution will come when we regard everyone over 65 as an ordinary citizen who is hale and hearty in spite of having passed the three score mark. We now know that aging is not necessarily associated with disease and deterioration. The extra years are conducive to a slower pace and more rest, but why should we use a different yardstick, so long as the mind is active and the body sound?

Changing our concepts also will place different values on what we expect of our senior citizens. Some feel they deserve to be relieved of responsibility and given lighter tasks. Others will thrive on idleness and thoroughly enjoy a winter in Florida or California, basking in the sun or reminiscing under a palm tree.

There are men and women who have different personalities and reach retirement age with physical reserve and ambition to spare so that adjustment to the sudden release from a position of responsibility is difficult. The differences in these groups must be recognized and the ideal society of the future will be flexible and make room for both.

Reaching 65 has drawbacks related to the family circle. Some think that many habits must be dispensed with in order to squeeze in those few extra years. This is a mistake because with each passing decade, habits become more confirmed. Furthermore, some minor vices are the only things left for Grandpa to enjoy. There is nothing to gain in taking away the usual cocktail before dinner and cigar or pipe after meals.

There are certain medical objections to smoking and drinking but they rarely apply to the individual who practices moderation. Age also has a tendency to slow us down so that moderation comes naturally. A little whisky or wine goes farther than it did a decade before, and hangovers develop more easily. This applies to mice as well as to men; experiments demonstrate that less alcohol is required to kill an old mouse than a young one.

Sleeping often is a problem and it is a shame to deny an oldster a good night's sleep by refusing a sedative now and then. Everyone is afraid of acquiring the sleeping tablet habit, but the barbituates seldom produce the same type of addiction as does morphine and, when discontinued, the user does not crave the barbituate intensely. In addition, when taken according to directions, the same dosage usually remains effective for many years. The curse of the barbituates stems from misuse. This includes taking large doses in error or with suicidal intent.

CLASSIFIED HEARTS

R. P. writes: What is a No. 3 heart condition?

REPLY

Heart murmurs are graded 1, 2, 3 and 4; and the functional capactiy of the organ is 1, II, III and IV. Class 3 murmur is louder than usual and results from leakage of the heart. Patients with class III cardiac disease are comfortable at rest but develop fatigue, palpitation, shortness of breath, or chest pain on less than ordinary activity. You will have to ask your physician which condition he refers to.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

There's a city editor on a big city paper who misuses words in a fashion with which no Hollywood producer possibly could compete. A reported asked, "How much do you want me to write on that fire?" The editor answered, "About half a paragraph." He told his staff another time, "Here's our new policy: Do it if you can, but if you can't, don't worry. After all, it's mandatory." His top effort for the year, however, was, "They tell me we're printing too many old platitudes lately. Let's get rid of those old platitudes, boys, and go out and find some new ones."

Bob Campbell has preserved a typical weather report from a tourist-conscious resort in Southern California: "Rain and heavy winds all yesterday and today. Continued fair tomorrow."

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Despite backstage efforts to throttle it, one of the most important Senate investigations of the Eisenhower administration gets back into gear today.

It won't have the benefit of TV cameras or radio coverage, and it's being conducted on a shoestring. Nevertheless, the probe goes into the strange reasons why the President of the United States should go over the heads of the atomic energy commissioners, which is most unusual, and order them to sign a contract with a private power firm without competing bids, and when that contract will cost the taxpayers at least $100,000,000 more than if operated by the government.

Those who would like to stop the probe are Senators Dirksen of Illinois and Hendrickson of New Jersey, both Republican members of the Judiciary Committee which is conducting the investigation.

Another senator who has reached out a clammy hand to discourage the probe is Senator Jenner of Indiana, who is chairman of the Rules Committee which passes on the funds for such probes. So far the investigating subcommittee has had so little money that it can hire no investigators, not even stenographers.

The work has been done almost singlehandedly by Sidney Davis, former law clerk of Justice Hugo Black, whom Senator Langer of North Dakota persuaded to come down from New York to investigate monopolies. Davis has been so short of funds that he has even had to serve subpoenas himself — quite a contrast to the army of probers McCarthy has flung around the U.S.A. with his Senate appropriation of nearly $200,000, plus private financial support from friends.

Amazing Facts

Despite this handicap, however, and with the strong support of Chairman Langer, a Republican, the Senate committee has already uncovered some amazing facts. Here are some of them:

1. Pressure was brought by other public utilities to make sure other competing companies did not bid for the atomic energy plant at West Memphis; thus the Dixon-Yates combine, which got the bid, had an outright monopoly — thanks to Eisenhower's personal order.

2. It was apparent that the private utilities had made a deal with the Eisenhower administration, perhaps as early as a year ago to put across this contract in order to block further expansion of government power by the Tennessee Valley Authority. Some congressmen claim this was a payoff for the private utilities' support given the GOP during the 1952 campaign. The strategy was so carefully prepared that Eisenhower actually spelled out the Dixon-Yates plan in his budget message last January.

3. The strategy of blocking TVA was one reason for dumping TV-Administrator Gordon Clapp, a nonpolitical career man who had an excellent record and who was immediately snatched up by New York City at a higher salary to handle its power problems. Eisenhower told congressmen in all seriousness that he was thinking of replacing Clapp with Bob Neyland, football-baseball coach at Tennessee University, who obviously knew little about power problems.

The way in which the utilities arranged not to let anyone else bid for the atomic energy power plant was told in a secret hearing when senators cross-examined David B. Sloan, head of Gibbs and Hill, which had helped prepare a competing bid for Walter Von Tresckow, former vice president of the Hanover National Bank in New York.

Company Takes A Powder

Gibbs and Hill is one of about seven big engineering firms which draw plans for public utilities and had been retained by Von Tresckow to prepare a bid on the West Memphis plant. Suddenly, while preparing the bid, Gibbs and Hill walked out.

Questioned by senators as to why Gibbs and Hill exited so suddenly, Von Tresckow said that officials of the company had come to see him on May 6 and said they were sorry but they had to pull out.

"Did Mr. Sloan (head of Gibbs and Hill) tell you who was exerting pressure on them?" asked Counsel Davis.

"Yes," replied Von Tresckow, "That Mr. Dixon was exerting pressure through Mr. England. And Mr. England in Atlantic City was one of their very good customers, and the implications were that it had been done also to other customers of theirs, as well as suppliers."

The Dixon referred to above was the partner in the Dixon-Yates combine which got the AEC contract after competition was removed; while England is president of the Atlantic City Electrical Company.

"Did they say anything about pressure from electrical equipment manufacturers or boiler manufacturers?" Davis asked.

"Generally, yes," replied Von Tresckow, "without mentioning names."

When Sloan was called to the witness stand, he alibied all over the committee room, but finally admitted that he withdrew from his business arrangement with Von Tresckow because of pressure from other private utilities.

The senators also brought out evidence showing that the Atomic Energy Commission could have built the plant for at least $90,000,000 less, when spread over the life of the contract, under the Von Tresckow proposal.

Furthermore, the power plant, at the end of the contract, would have reverted to the United States, instead of becoming the property of Dixon-Yates, as specified under the contract which President Eisenhower ordered to be signed.

These are some of the facts coming to light in one of the most significant probes of the power companies since Sen. George Norris of Nebraska showed how the power companies had subsidized teachers, paid for slanted textbooks, and financed certain newspapers in a drive to put their own power policies across on the nation.

Tribute To A Man

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK (INS) — In the current excitement over wonderful Willie Mays, who has been achieving goals which escaped even the immortal Babe Ruth, it is sobering to remember that without Branch Rickey this phenomenal player might now be playing in forced and remote exile.

Rickey, now director of the Pittsburgh Pirates and himself in eclipse, did more than any other man to crush the anti-Negro barrier in organized baseball. He used as his weapon another tremendous colored athlete, Jackie Robinson, who came to the majors after proving himself in the International League. He was an almost ideal representative of a bleakly rejected race: Great all around athlete, daring competitor, scholar, gentleman.

But there was deep resentment through the majors. Some of the older owners deplored Rickey's move as "premature." Old Clark Griffith in Washington said the Negro would some day come to major league baseball, but along about 1980 — I think it was.

There were more than paper protests. The St. Louis Cardinals actually voted to strike in protest against Robinson's presence in the league. Fans who followed Brooklyn's games in the first days after Robinson joined the team did so as much in anticipation of a race riot as in hope of seeing a sparkling contest.

Fan and player alike waited for the day when Robinson would be required to break up a double play by throwing a pulverizing football block at the rival shortstop or second baseman to keep him from getting the hitter at first for the second out.

Robby said later that Hank Greenberg, then playing first for the Pirates, did more to make him a bona fide member of the baseball monopoly than any other player. It was Hank's huge frame which was the second part of Robinson's first bruising collision. Robby bounced off Hank like a ball off a wall and bit the dust.

For one awful moment the baseball world held its collective breath. Then Hank walked over quickly and helped Robinson to his feet.

"You okay, Jackie?" Greenburg asked, with concern.

Robinson slowly grinned from ear to ear. "Okay," he said, speaking a volume in a word.

With the barrier down, the ragamuffin and often fly-by-night Negro leagues and teams began to yield their treasures. In some cases it was almost like the gates of Belsen and Dachau creaking open. The men who came out were happy to be liberated but they were hardly the men who had entered.

No man can guess correctly how many games Satchel Paige would have won if he had been permitted to enter major league ball at 20 instead of a quarter of a century later.

Hitters like Joe DiMaggio and pitchers of Dizzy Dean's calibre who played against Paige in the 1930's — even then he was an old man — rated him as one of the marvels of the age. But he was never permitted to take a step out of his segregated field, when he had it in him to be another Walter Johnson.

Those who saw them play in Negro competition say that if Monte Irvin and Roy Campanella had come up as young men they would have been Hall of Fame timber, not just outstanding players. But at least they and Larry Doby and others reached the majors. What of those who never did? Paul Kritchell, veteran Yankee scout, was remembering some of them for me today:

"Sam Gibson of the Pittsburgh Crawfords could hit a ball as far as anybody who ever lived . . . anybody. Cannonball Redding could throw with Bobby Feller in his prime, and Joe Williams of the Lincoln Giants was as smart a pitcher as I ever saw. But 50 years ago there was a Negro player named Monroe who was the best shortstop I ever saw. And the most confident hitter. He'd turn his back on the pitcher for two strikes — just let 'em go by—then turn around, yell, 'Now strike me out!' and belt the next pitch like crazy."

They were born too soon, or Rickey too late.

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

That total eclipse of the sun which some Americans (mostly stay-up-all-nights) saw recently is known astronomically as D-5. Why, we wouldn't know unless D-5 stands for Dawn at Five O'clock.

After seeing how some gents look in 'em we'd say that those Bermuda shorts are pretty poor advertising for that vacation isle.

Answer to that poet who asked, "What is so rare as a day in June" — a day just like it, in July.

Expecting a trend of women to pipe smoking because of that cigarette scare, manufacturers have begun to produce a smaller version of the trusty old briar, with stems colored to match the fair smokers' dresses and accessories. How puffectly charming!

Some of the feminine meerschaums will have pink stems, so lipstick won't show. Maybe so, but the pipe sure will.

Church Group Plans Outing Thursday Night

BURLINGTON — The Young People of the Burlington Church held an interesting meeting a recent evening, in which Nancy Shank had charge of devotions, with the topic, "Parable of the Great Supper." During the business meeting the group made plans for a moonlight hike with a hamburg fry to be held next Thursday evening, and discussed projects for the ensuing year. Play books were ordered for a religious play, "I Lie In Zion," which will be presented at the church later in the season.

In the devotional session the program was opened with the singing of "O Master Workman of the Race," followed by prayer by Mrs. Twila Sions. The Scripture reading was given by Shelly Sions. The group sang "O Young and Fearless Prophet," followed by the closing prayer by Miss Martha Hamrick.

The general meeting was closed with the singing of "O Jesus I Have Promised," and the MYF benediction.

KEYSER—The annual Airmen's Breakfast at Keyser Airport Sunday morning, had a registration of over 350 airmen and friends. Sixty planes were flown in from distant points to share in the annual fete. Among those represented on the flights were airmen from Washington, Baltimore, Martinsburg, Pa., and Culpeper, Va. A breakfast of ham and eggs was served in the big hangar.

Due to an overcast early Sunday morning, the attendance of flyer participation was cut down this year, as many decided not to attend because of the early morning weather reports.

Flying Wagon Tracks A New Mystery?

Is there a new sky mystery to match the frantic excitement of the sightings of flying saucers? Are these "flying wagon tracks" sighted along the Delaware coast the other morning merely a celestial manifestation, or some new kind of sky ship?

A scoutmaster sighted what appeared to be a pair of parallel lines being drawn in eerie fashion across the dark bowl of the early morning sky, and the estimates were that the object making the tracks must have been traveling about 1,000 miles per hour. The immediate thought is that the wagon tracks were the contrails, or vapor trails, left by a pair of high flying jets, although the Air Force said it didn't have any planes in the air in the vicinity at the time. The Air Force thinks it might be the Navy's doing.

The contrail theory may be the correct one. Jets will leave contrails at varying altitudes, but almost always leave them above 20,000 feet. The report that they had a phosphorescent appearance the other morning raises a question that maybe some meteorologist may be able to solve, although the crystallized vapor trails are apt to pick up any light, whether from a waning moon or the first loom of the false dawn. It must have been an electrifying sight in any event, enough to inspire thoughts of high altitude interlopers, possibly from another country—or another planet.

Actually the contrail problem is one which is getting much attention from aviation scientists. The long chalk marks made against the blue sky are a dead giveaway, and the U. S. Air Force has been apprised of strange planes over Alaskan frontier by means of them. There is little doubt that the sketchers of these marks came from Russian territory, across the Bering Strait. Such trails are beautiful to see, the great graceful curves, arabesques, or straight rules, just so long as the planes that make them are U. S. planes.

Marginal Industries

The United States may be proud of its great mass production industries, but the American people still find their largest employment in marginal industries, in small shops and mills scattered over the country, in stores and warehouses, in small businesses, on farms, and in self-employment.

The capitalist system contains the seeds for its own destruction and the most potent of these is monopoly. The reduction of the automobile industry from more than 100 manufacturers to four major companies does represent an enormous increase in efficiency, but the question must be asked: If only four, why not two or one company? And if we come down to only one company, why not have government ownership?

I know all the answers to these questions but as a capitalist, I am satisfied with none of them. The elimination of active, exciting, throat-cutting, if you please, competition must lessen the chances of a new agency of production from coming into existence; it can only lead to the cartelization of industry; cartelization inevitably leads to government control; government control can produce government management and socialism. Great Britain tried these steps in her steel industry and has been forced to go back step by step to private ownership and management. What is called a mixed system, that is, partial capitalistic and partial socialistic operations, does not work because private enterprise has few defenses against competition with untaxed government enterprises, and the authority of government when it combines its activities in the economic and political fields tends to become totalitarian, although that has not quite proved so in TVA.

From this standpoint, it can be said that if American marginal industries cannot compete with foreign products imported into this country out of low-wage, low-tax countries, sometimes by dumping in order to amass dollars, the American industry ought to go out of existence. Actually, this has been the general policy during the past decade and the Randall Report, which has recently been rejected by Congress, upholds this point of view. In fact, it has been suggested by extreme free-traders that if, in the interest of restoring European economy, an American industry has to go out of existence, the government should subsidize the American industry not to produce and should remove the out-of-work Americans from their homes to some place where they can find work or put them on the dole. The idea was not taken seriously in this country.

Nevertheless certain American industries are suffering from what amounts to political-economic competition from Europe and Asia. One of the nastiest forms is going on at this moment in the flooding of the American market with Christmas toys and decorations from the atheistic countries behind the iron curtain. I shall call attention to this traffic at another time but I do suggest to buyers for department and chain stores that when they face a boycott of such goods by patriotic organizations in October, November and December, it will be of little value to say that they did not know what they were doing when they purchased these wares.

In the matter of the American-made watch, there is lots of trouble, although a few of the Swiss companies are making some of their product in the United States. At least one Swiss company has become Americanized because "they never had it so good" in the country from which they came. Maybe these Swiss manufacturers are more efficient than the Americans; maybe they have taken advantage of their lower costs in Switzerland to build brand names in this country to the disadvantage of the American makers.

The fact is that the American watch industry requires tariff protection if it is not to go out of existence. Since 1936, the tariff on watches has been reduced 58.6 per cent and the imports have increased nearly 1000 per cent, according to American watch-makers, who are laying off workers. (I have not checked these figures.)

The importance of this industry is not watches; it is war-time industry, useful in the making of fuses and other work requiring precision operations. Offshore buying at present will not serve in war-time.

Just as Senator George Malone's Committee of the Senate has been studying the availability of minerals and materials for war-time, so some study should be made of the availability of special skills without dependence on ocean-traffic in war-time.

"Where The Flying Fishes Play . . ."

America's Reappraisal Of World Situation Is Nearer

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — America's "agonizing reappraisal" of the world situation is not far away. The trip of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to Paris at this time is one of the first moves in the process.

It will be recalled that Mr. Dulles several months ago warned the French that, unless the European Defense Community were ratified, the United States would have to make "an agonizing reappraisal" of its world policies. No clarifying definition was ever supplied, but it has been generally believed that, if France and Britain pursued policies that isolated the United States, it would become necessary to re-examine America's past policies and assumptions as well.

There is at present a far-reaching crisis in world affairs.

Want American Blessing

The French cabinet realizes it is defeated in Indochina and is preparing some form of surrender. But it wants an American blessing to be given to the so-called "settlement," so it will seem more palatable to the French people.

Great Britain is trying to side with France but also wants a cue from America as to what to do.

When Secretary Dulles and Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith dealt with the problems that arose at Geneva, they made it crystal clear that the United States was not in favor of appeasing the Communists in Indochina or anywhere else.

There was a brief period recently when America considered military intervention in Indochina, but the French government, while discussing the matter on a hypothetical basis, never really requested intervention. The reason was a fear that, if the United States did intervene, it would mean the internationalization of the war and this might result in a prolonged conflict. The pressure in France has been to get out of Indochina at almost any cost. This pressure comes to a large extent from the Communist deputies—100 of them—who hold the balance of power in the French parliament, and from the leftist groups who have been influenced by what seemed to them a popular cry for the ending of the war in Indochina.

But now that the time is at hand for scuttling the Indochina War by retreat and evacuation, the French cabinet is ill at ease. Frantic appeals were made to the American government last week to send a top-level official to attend the Geneva Conference, where Messrs. Molotov of Russia, Chou En-Lai of Communist China and Foreign Secretary Eden of Britain were ready to meet with Premier Mendes-France. This could only mean arrangements for the funeral of Allied hopes for an honorable Indochina settlement.

Best Thing To Do

The United States Government replied last Friday that it couldn't see the wisdom of sending a top-level official back to Geneva, because America would have to speak its mind plainly and in the end this could complicate matters for the French if they were really bent on surrendering or appeasing or retreating—whatever the descriptive phrase for ending the Indochina War on the enemy's terms really is.

But the French felt badly about America's abstention and again urged that someone from the Department of State come to talk things over. So Mr. Dulles conferred with President Eisenhower on Monday of this week and decided that, as a courtesy to the French, the best thing to do was for the secretary of state to fly to Paris and hold conferences there. Whether or not Mr. Dulles goes on to Geneva—an hour away from Paris by plane—depends on what tangible results crop up at the Swiss center of diplomatic effort.

Meanwhile, Prime Minister Churchill dispelled one source of anxiety that had arisen since he left Washington. He declared that Britain didn't favor Red China's admission to the United Nations "at the moment," which means that the matter will be deferred for some time to come even though Mr. Churchill reaffirms his belief that ultimately such a course should be taken. He revealed, incidentally, that the matter of admitting Red China into the United Nations figured very little in his talks with President Eisenhower. The real controversy arose afterward when reports became current that Premier Mendes-France, in order to get Chou En-Lai's approval of peace terms, had to promise something about supporting Red China's bid for entry into the Security Council of the U.N.

U. S. Leadership Supported

But the forthright expressions from Majority Leader Knowland and Minority Leader Johnson in the U. S. Senate, together with the legislation proposed to cut down on foreign aid, may have had a sobering effect on those aboard who were pressing the Red China matter. For the present, therefore, nothing will be done about it, and American leadership on this issue has received a strong measure of support throughout the world.

Mr. Churchill also emphasized in his report to the House of Commons the deep-seated fear that he has about the H-bomb. This subject is bound to influence world policy more and more as the stories of terror, some of them innocently spread and others deliberately exaggerated, are distributed with the possible result that the "will to fight" in France and Britain will be paralyzed. If Britain and France are to be neutral because of the H-bomb, America's whole strategy in getting and keeping allies in Asia and Europe may have to be completely revised.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

When Winsome Churchill goes super-marketing the world is his basket.

We don't know what he's after until we miss it.

When he arrives we roll out the coast-to-coast plush carpeting. When he leaves we rush up and count the Great Lakes.

In return Winnicker usually leaves us some great apothegm to show he was here. We all remember, "We shall fight on the streets, on the housetops, in the hills and possibly with the wife's mother."

He gave us the iron curtain and numerous biting stencils. But this time Winnie blew an oratorical gasket. Nothing.

Nothing unless you accept, "It is better to jaw-jaw than to war-war." Either Winnie thinks he is the two-headed boy, he is stuttering or he is getting paid by the word.

Winsome this time you have let us down like a well-digger's lunch.

This repetition of words is called jabbinosis and is common to croupiers, street car conductors and nurseries. We are afraid the tide has turned and Winnie is starting to look like all the babies.

So far this double-dose of jaw-jaw hasn't worked so hot with the Veet-Veets or the Mau-Maus.

Those people are like the citizens of Walla Walla who liked the place so much they named it twice.

No, we are afraid that Winnie's bridgework doesn't mesh and he missed the bite.

Some Advice For Oldsters: Take In Your Sails A Bit

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Some day we may toss aside our current ideas on retirement, social security, and aging in general. The revolution will come when we regard everyone over 65 as an ordinary citizen who is hale and hearty in spite of having passed the three score mark. We now know that aging is not necessarily associated with disease and deterioration. The extra years are conducive to a slower pace and more rest, but why should we use a different yardstick, so long as the mind is active and the body sound?

Changing our concepts also will place different values on what we expect of our senior citizens. Some feel they deserve to be relieved of responsibility and given lighter tasks. Others will thrive on idleness and thoroughly enjoy a winter in Florida or California, basking in the sun or reminiscing under a palm tree.

There are men and women who have different personalities and reach retirement age with physical reserve and ambition to spare so that adjustment to the sudden release from a position of responsibility is difficult. The differences in these groups must be recognized and the ideal society of the future will be flexible and make room for both.

Reaching 65 has drawbacks related to the family circle. Some think that many habits must be dispensed with in order to squeeze in those few extra years. This is a mistake because with each passing decade, habits become more confirmed. Furthermore, some minor vices are the only things left for Grandpa to enjoy. There is nothing to gain in taking away the usual cocktail before dinner and cigar or pipe after meals.

There are certain medical objections to smoking and drinking but they rarely apply to the individual who practices moderation. Age also has a tendency to slow us down so that moderation comes naturally. A little whisky or wine goes farther than it did a decade before, and hangovers develop more easily. This applies to mice as well as to men; experiments demonstrate that less alcohol is required to kill an old mouse than a young one.

Sleeping often is a problem and it is a shame to deny an oldster a good night's sleep by refusing a sedative now and then. Everyone is afraid of acquiring the sleeping tablet habit, but the barbituates seldom produce the same type of addiction as does morphine and, when discontinued, the user does not crave the barbituate intensely. In addition, when taken according to directions, the same dosage usually remains effective for many years. The curse of the barbituates stems from misuse. This includes taking large doses in error or with suicidal intent.

CLASSIFIED HEARTS

R. P. writes: What is a No. 3 heart condition?

REPLY

Heart murmurs are graded 1, 2, 3 and 4; and the functional capactiy of the organ is 1, II, III and IV. Class 3 murmur is louder than usual and results from leakage of the heart. Patients with class III cardiac disease are comfortable at rest but develop fatigue, palpitation, shortness of breath, or chest pain on less than ordinary activity. You will have to ask your physician which condition he refers to.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

There's a city editor on a big city paper who misuses words in a fashion with which no Hollywood producer possibly could compete. A reported asked, "How much do you want me to write on that fire?" The editor answered, "About half a paragraph." He told his staff another time, "Here's our new policy: Do it if you can, but if you can't, don't worry. After all, it's mandatory." His top effort for the year, however, was, "They tell me we're printing too many old platitudes lately. Let's get rid of those old platitudes, boys, and go out and find some new ones."

Bob Campbell has preserved a typical weather report from a tourist-conscious resort in Southern California: "Rain and heavy winds all yesterday and today. Continued fair tomorrow."

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Despite backstage efforts to throttle it, one of the most important Senate investigations of the Eisenhower administration gets back into gear today.

It won't have the benefit of TV cameras or radio coverage, and it's being conducted on a shoestring. Nevertheless, the probe goes into the strange reasons why the President of the United States should go over the heads of the atomic energy commissioners, which is most unusual, and order them to sign a contract with a private power firm without competing bids, and when that contract will cost the taxpayers at least $100,000,000 more than if operated by the government.

Those who would like to stop the probe are Senators Dirksen of Illinois and Hendrickson of New Jersey, both Republican members of the Judiciary Committee which is conducting the investigation.

Another senator who has reached out a clammy hand to discourage the probe is Senator Jenner of Indiana, who is chairman of the Rules Committee which passes on the funds for such probes. So far the investigating subcommittee has had so little money that it can hire no investigators, not even stenographers.

The work has been done almost singlehandedly by Sidney Davis, former law clerk of Justice Hugo Black, whom Senator Langer of North Dakota persuaded to come down from New York to investigate monopolies. Davis has been so short of funds that he has even had to serve subpoenas himself — quite a contrast to the army of probers McCarthy has flung around the U.S.A. with his Senate appropriation of nearly $200,000, plus private financial support from friends.

Amazing Facts

Despite this handicap, however, and with the strong support of Chairman Langer, a Republican, the Senate committee has already uncovered some amazing facts. Here are some of them:

1. Pressure was brought by other public utilities to make sure other competing companies did not bid for the atomic energy plant at West Memphis; thus the Dixon-Yates combine, which got the bid, had an outright monopoly — thanks to Eisenhower's personal order.

2. It was apparent that the private utilities had made a deal with the Eisenhower administration, perhaps as early as a year ago to put across this contract in order to block further expansion of government power by the Tennessee Valley Authority. Some congressmen claim this was a payoff for the private utilities' support given the GOP during the 1952 campaign. The strategy was so carefully prepared that Eisenhower actually spelled out the Dixon-Yates plan in his budget message last January.

3. The strategy of blocking TVA was one reason for dumping TV-Administrator Gordon Clapp, a nonpolitical career man who had an excellent record and who was immediately snatched up by New York City at a higher salary to handle its power problems. Eisenhower told congressmen in all seriousness that he was thinking of replacing Clapp with Bob Neyland, football-baseball coach at Tennessee University, who obviously knew little about power problems.

The way in which the utilities arranged not to let anyone else bid for the atomic energy power plant was told in a secret hearing when senators cross-examined David B. Sloan, head of Gibbs and Hill, which had helped prepare a competing bid for Walter Von Tresckow, former vice president of the Hanover National Bank in New York.

Company Takes A Powder

Gibbs and Hill is one of about seven big engineering firms which draw plans for public utilities and had been retained by Von Tresckow to prepare a bid on the West Memphis plant. Suddenly, while preparing the bid, Gibbs and Hill walked out.

Questioned by senators as to why Gibbs and Hill exited so suddenly, Von Tresckow said that officials of the company had come to see him on May 6 and said they were sorry but they had to pull out.

"Did Mr. Sloan (head of Gibbs and Hill) tell you who was exerting pressure on them?" asked Counsel Davis.

"Yes," replied Von Tresckow, "That Mr. Dixon was exerting pressure through Mr. England. And Mr. England in Atlantic City was one of their very good customers, and the implications were that it had been done also to other customers of theirs, as well as suppliers."

The Dixon referred to above was the partner in the Dixon-Yates combine which got the AEC contract after competition was removed; while England is president of the Atlantic City Electrical Company.

"Did they say anything about pressure from electrical equipment manufacturers or boiler manufacturers?" Davis asked.

When Sloan was called to the witness stand, he alibied all over the committee room, but finally admitted that he withdrew from his business arrangement with Von Tresckow because of pressure from other private utilities.

The senators also brought out evidence showing that the Atomic Energy Commission could have built the plant for at least $90,000,000 less, when spread over the life of the contract, under the Von Tresckow proposal.

Furthermore, the power plant, at the end of the contract, would have reverted to the United States, instead of becoming the property of Dixon-Yates, as specified under the contract which President Eisenhower ordered to be signed.

These are some of the facts coming to light in one of the most significant probes of the power companies since Sen. George Norris of Nebraska showed how the power companies had subsidized teachers, paid for slanted textbooks, and financed certain newspapers in a drive to put their own power policies across on the nation.

Tribute To A Man

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK (INS) — In the current excitement over wonderful Willie Mays, who has been achieving goals which escaped even the immortal Babe Ruth, it is sobering to remember that without Branch Rickey this phenomenal player might now be playing in forced and remote exile.

Rickey, now director of the Pittsburgh Pirates and himself in eclipse, did more than any other man to crush the anti-Negro barrier in organized baseball. He used as his weapon another tremendous colored athlete, Jackie Robinson, who came to the majors after proving himself in the International League. He was an almost ideal representative of a bleakly rejected race: Great all around athlete, daring competitor, scholar, gentleman.

But there was deep resentment through the majors. Some of the older owners deplored Rickey's move as "premature." Old Clark Griffith in Washington said the Negro would some day come to major league baseball, but along about 1980 — I think it was.

There were more than paper protests. The St. Louis Cardinals actually voted to strike in protest against Robinson's presence in the league. Fans who followed Brooklyn's games in the first days after Robinson joined the team did so as much in anticipation of a race riot as in hope of seeing a sparkling contest.

Fan and player alike waited for the day when Robinson would be required to break up a double play by throwing a pulverizing football block at the rival shortstop or second baseman to keep him from getting the hitter at first for the second out.

Robby said later that Hank Greenberg, then playing first for the Pirates, did more to make him a bona fide member of the baseball monopoly than any other player. It was Hank's huge frame which was the second part of Robinson's first bruising collision. Robby bounced off Hank like a ball off a wall and bit the dust.

For one awful moment the baseball world held its collective breath. Then Hank walked over quickly and helped Robinson to his feet.

"You okay, Jackie?" Greenburg asked, with concern.

Robinson slowly grinned from ear to ear. "Okay," he said, speaking a volume in a word.

With the barrier down, the ragamuffin and often fly-by-night Negro leagues and teams began to yield their treasures. In some cases it was almost like the gates of Belsen and Dachau creaking open. The men who came out were happy to be liberated but they were hardly the men who had entered.

No man can guess correctly how many games Satchel Paige would have won if he had been permitted to enter major league ball at 20 instead of a quarter of a century later.

Hitters like Joe DiMaggio and pitchers of Dizzy Dean's calibre who played against Paige in the 1930's — even then he was an old man — rated him as one of the marvels of the age. But he was never permitted to take a step out of his segregated field, when he had it in him to be another Walter Johnson.

Those who saw them play in Negro competition say that if Monte Irvin and Roy Campanella had come up as young men they would have been Hall of Fame timber, not just outstanding players. But at least they and Larry Doby and others reached the majors. What of those who never did? Paul Kritchell, veteran Yankee scout, was remembering some of them for me today:

"Sam Gibson of the Pittsburgh Crawfords could hit a ball as far as anybody who ever lived . . . anybody. Cannonball Redding could throw with Bobby Feller in his prime, and Joe Williams of the Lincoln Giants was as smart a pitcher as I ever saw. But 50 years ago there was a Negro player named Monroe who was the best shortstop I ever saw. And the most confident hitter. He'd turn his back on the pitcher for two strikes — just let 'em go by—then turn around, yell, 'Now strike me out!' and belt the next pitch like crazy."

They were born too soon, or Rickey too late.

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

That total eclipse of the sun which some Americans (mostly stay-up-all-nights) saw recently is known astronomically as D-5. Why, we wouldn't know unless D-5 stands for Dawn at Five O'clock.

After seeing how some gents look in 'em we'd say that those Bermuda shorts are pretty poor advertising for that vacation isle.

Answer to that poet who asked, "What is so rare as a day in June" — a day just like it, in July.

Expecting a trend of women to pipe smoking because of that cigarette scare, manufacturers have begun to produce a smaller version of the trusty old briar, with stems colored to match the fair smokers' dresses and accessories. How puffectly charming!

Some of the feminine meerschaums will have pink stems, so lipstick won't show. Maybe so, but the pipe sure will.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, July 13 (INS)—You can bet, no matter what immediate denials are made, that Judy Holliday won't make "My Sister Eileen," scheduled as her next after "Pffft" at Columbia.

Just what happened to the deal, announced months ago, is anybody's guess. Nobody's talking.

Fact is, the first tip that something was amiss with "Sister Eileen" came from Sister Judy herself, who let it slip that she has no intention of returning to meet the starting date on "Eileen."

Barbara Stanwyck would die for her art but, by golly, she isn't going to dye for it. After a lot of publicity that the beautiful silver-tressed missy was going flame-haired for "Cattle Queen of Montana" (Technicolor) I hear she couldn't do it at the last minute. But the wig she wears looks like the hair growing right out of her scalp.

Good looking Lance Fuller is the latest to join Ben Bogeaus' RKO picture cast. He'll play in Indian of 1880, which should come naturally. Lance is of French, English and Indian descent.

Ingrid Bergman, who said she would work for no one but Roberto Rossellini, will do "Napoleon" which Eugene Tourier will produce and direct in France. No Rossellini. This may mean something or it may just mean that Ingrid's ventures with her husband haven't been too successful financially and she's trying her luck elsewhere.

If you are searching your memory about Tourier, he directed the Warner picture, "The Beast From 20,000 Fathoms," in Hollywood.

The beautiful brunette daughter of Ann and Jack Warner, Barbara, who has more admirers than any young girl in our town, has one that looks more serious than the rest.

Barbara was escorted to the opening of "King Richard and the Crusaders" by Guy Madison. They attended a party later at the Mocambo, and the attention Guy paid her, and the way her eyes sparkled, looked a little serious. Guy, who is one of the steadiest, finest young men in Hollywood, should be acceptable should this friendship develop into a serious romance.

Arlene Dahl and Fernando Lamas are back from a two weeks honeymoon which took them to Lake Tahoe, San Francisco and the Redwoods by motor.

Later they'll go to Europe—a sort of delayed honeymoon jaunt previously scheduled before they had a big spat and Arlene made the trip alone.

But all this is forgotten in their new-found happiness, getting settled in their new Bel Air home and in planning a small party to greet the friends who haven't seen them since they became Mr. and Mrs. in Las Vegas.

Hollywood in shorts:

Johnnie Ray hobbled into the Mocambo with a crutch under one arm and ex-wife Marilyn Morrison on the other after the premiere of "King Richard and the Crusaders." No reconciliation.

Of all the bad luck—Mitzi Gaynor who has been laid up with a badly sprained ankle, re-injured the same foot when she returned for rehearsals on "No Business Like Show Business" and is out of circulation another week.

Sarah Churchill and Tony Beauchamps were the guests of the Herman Hovers for the opening of Rose Marie and Lenny Kent.

Same place, Julia Adams and George Nader enjoying their second date.

In the name of realism for "Not as a Stranger," Scripter Ed Anhalt and Art Director Rudolph Sternard have permission to watch a heart operation at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital Wednesday.

The Louis B. Mayers are in San Francisco to visit their daughter, Suzanne, before heading for Europe in a few weeks.

Joan O'Brien, pretty vocalist with Bob Crosby, will be married July 18 to Billy Strange. They should have music wherever they go—he's a guitarist with Tennessee Ernie.

350 Airmen Visit Keyser Airport

KEYSER—The annual Airmen's Breakfast at Keyser Airport Sunday morning, had a registration of over 350 airmen and friends. Sixty planes were flown in from distant points to share in the annual fete. Among those represented on the flights were airmen from Washington, Baltimore, Martinsburg, Pa., and Culpeper, Va. A breakfast of ham and eggs was served in the big hangar.

Due to an overcast early Sunday morning, the attendance of flyer participation was cut down this year, as many decided not to attend because of the early morning weather reports.

Al Rosen Hits Two Homers, Has Five RBIs

Many Records Fall As National Loop Win Streak Stopped

By JACK HAND

CLEVELAND, July 13 (AP) — Injured Al Rosen, who offered to sit out the game "for the good of the team" staged a tremendous one-man show to drive in five runs with two home runs and a single today, but it took Nellie Fox's two-run bloop single in the eighth to give the aroused American League an 11-9 victory over the National in the 21st All-Star major league baseball game.

All sorts of records tumbled under the burning sun at Municipal Stadium as the two clubs staged the dizziest hitting spree in All-Star history. One of the chief casualties was the National's four-game winning streak.

Rosen Ties Record

Rosen's record-tying two homers and five runs batted in provided the top drama to a stirring game in which the lead teetered back and forth like a man on a tight rope. The teams set a new record with 31 hits for both clubs, 17 for the American League; 20 runs scored by both teams and tied a mark with six homers. The statisticians will be popping up with other new records for the rest of the week.

A roaring crowd of 68,751, only 1,061 short of the All-Star high set at the same park in 1935, thrilled to the batting show, especially because Cleveland hitters drove in 8 of the 11 runs in this American League victory.

But the big mob didn't know the inside story on Rosen, who has been slumping lately because of an injured index finger that affected his grip on the bat.

Before the game Rosen went to Manager Casey Stengel, who, incidentally finally won an All-Star game on his fifth try. He told grizzled old Case he was free to take him out at any time if he felt the Indians' first baseman was hurting the team's chances.

Back To Back Homers

After Rosen struck out against Robin Roberts with two men on base in the first inning, he wasn't lifted. In the third he came up with Minnie Minoso of Chicago and teammate Bobby Avila on base and slammed a Roberts pitch for a 380-foot homer over the portable fence in left center for a 3-0 lead. Detroit's Ray Boone followed with a homer to make it 4-0.

Rosen's second homer came in the fifth after the Nationals had rallied and forged ahead 7-5 with a burst of power. After Yogi Berra had singled to open the last of the fifth, Rosen hit his second homer into the lower left field seats, about 400 feet from home plate.

But the Cleveland infielder was not through yet. He singled in the sixth and walked to load the bases in the ninth before Fox, the Chicago second baseman, won the game with his drooping single back of second base, just out of the reach of shortstop Al Dark of New York.

It was a great day for the Indians who had lost four in a row and all but a half-game of their American League lead in Chicago last weekend. In addition to Rosen, second baseman Avila drove in two runs with a single and sacrifice fly and center fielder Larry Doby hit a pinch home run in the eighth to tie the score at 9-9.

Doby Knots Score

Jesse Markley pitched and batted the Fulton Myers Post team to a 2-1 victory over Midland yesterday at Fort Hill field in an American Legion junior baseball league contest.

The triumph was the third of the year for the Cumberland team and the second time this week Midland has gone down to defeat.

Trailing 1-0 in the sixth the Fulton Myers tossers pulled the game out of the fire when Markley smacked a long triple to score Merrill with the tying run and the Cumberland pitcher continued on across the plate with the winning tally when the toss from the outfield was wild at third.

Markley set Midland down with only two hits, singles by Truly and Robertson. He struck out nine and walked but two.

Spiker, the losing pitcher, allowed only four hits with Williams spanking a double and single in addition to Markley's three-bagger. Markley also collected a single to share hitting honors with Williams. Spiker fanned five and walked six.

Grantland Rice, 73, Dean Of Sports Writers, Dies

Succumbs Of Stroke In N. Y. Hospital, Began Career In 1901

He started his career on the Nashville, Tenn., News in 1901. For the next half century he chronicled the exploits of some of the greatest athletes the nation has ever seen.

Rice started many of his pieces with a bit of verse and this custom in time became sort of a trademark.

A stroke ended his life at 6:15 p.m. EDT. He died at Roosevelt Hospital.

Rice reached a peak in the 1920's during the "Golden Age" of American sport. As a first hand observer, he became a recognized authority on athletic events.

Considered Cobb And Ruth Best

He considered Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth the best ballplayers of the thousands he watched. The Dempsey-Firpo fight stood out to him as the most exciting. Bobby Jones was his favorite golfer. And his greatest horse race was the 1938 match when Seabiscuit beat War Admiral.

He was stricken in his office about noon while working on his syndicated column, "The Sportlight." With him when he died were his wife, Kate Hollis Rice, and his secretary, Katherine Mecca.

One of Rice's most quoted pieces of verse read:

"When the great scorer comes
"To mark against your name;
"He'll write not 'won' or 'lost',
"But how you played the game."

Born in Murfreesboro, Tenn., he was an all-around athlete at Vanderbilt University, where he captained the 1901 baseball team.

He played semipro baseball briefly after he left college then went to work in Nashville as a shipping clerk. But his first love—sports—was still his strongest and he lasted on his job only a few days.

Rice went to work for the Nashville News at $5 a week, writing sports and covering the State Capitol, county courthouse and other news sources.

Began Syndicated Column

Later he worked for Forester magazine, the Atlanta Journal, the Cleveland News, and the Nashville Tennessean. In 1911, he came to New York as sports columnist for the old Evening Mail and began to attract national attention.

Rice went to the New York Tribune in 1914 and stayed there until 1930 when he began his nationally syndicated column.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Fred Butler. As Florence Rice, she once played in movies.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, July 13 (INS)—You can bet, no matter what immediate denials are made, that Judy Holliday won't make "My Sister Eileen," scheduled as her next after "Pffft" at Columbia.

Just what happened to the deal, announced months ago, is anybody's guess. Nobody's talking.

Fact is, the first tip that something was amiss with "Sister Eileen" came from Sister Judy herself, who let it slip that she has no intention of returning to meet the starting date on "Eileen."

Barbara Stanwyck would die for her art but, by golly, she isn't going to dye for it. After a lot of publicity that the beautiful silver-tressed missy was going flame-haired for "Cattle Queen of Montana" (Technicolor) I hear she couldn't do it at the last minute. But the wig she wears looks like the hair growing right out of her scalp.

Good looking Lance Fuller is the latest to join Ben Bogeaus' RKO picture cast. He'll play in Indian of 1880, which should come naturally. Lance is of French, English and Indian descent.

Ingrid Bergman, who said she would work for no one but Roberto Rossellini, will do "Napoleon" which Eugene Tourier will produce and direct in France. No Rossellini. This may mean something or it may just mean that Ingrid's ventures with her husband haven't been too successful financially and she's trying her luck elsewhere.

If you are searching your memory about Tourier, he directed the Warner picture, "The Beast From 20,000 Fathoms," in Hollywood.

The beautiful brunette daughter of Ann and Jack Warner, Barbara, who has more admirers than any young girl in our town, has one that looks more serious than the rest.

Barbara was escorted to the opening of "King Richard and the Crusaders" by Guy Madison. They attended a party later at the Mocambo, and the attention Guy paid her, and the way her eyes sparkled, looked a little serious. Guy, who is one of the steadiest, finest young men in Hollywood, should be acceptable should this friendship develop into a serious romance.

Arlene Dahl and Fernando Lamas are back from a two weeks honeymoon which took them to Lake Tahoe, San Francisco and the Redwoods by motor.

Later they'll go to Europe—a sort of delayed honeymoon jaunt previously scheduled before they had a big spat and Arlene made the trip alone.

But all this is forgotten in their new-found happiness, getting settled in their new Bel Air home and in planning a small party to greet the friends who haven't seen them since they became Mr. and Mrs. in Las Vegas.

Hollywood in shorts:

Johnnie Ray hobbled into the Mocambo with a crutch under one arm and ex-wife Marilyn Morrison on the other after the premiere of "King Richard and the Crusaders." No reconciliation.

Of all the bad luck—Mitzi Gaynor who has been laid up with a badly sprained ankle, re-injured the same foot when she returned for rehearsals on "No Business Like Show Business" and is out of circulation another week.

Sarah Churchill and Tony Beauchamps were the guests of the Herman Hovers for the opening of Rose Marie and Lenny Kent.

Same place, Julia Adams and George Nader enjoying their second date.

In the name of realism for "Not as a Stranger," Scripter Ed Anhalt and Art Director Rudolph Sternard have permission to watch a heart operation at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital Wednesday.

The Louis B. Mayers are in San Francisco to visit their daughter, Suzanne, before heading for Europe in a few weeks.

Joan O'Brien, pretty vocalist with Bob Crosby, will be married July 18 to Billy Strange. They should have music wherever they go—he's a guitarist with Tennessee Ernie.

Jackson Is Favored Over Valdes Tonight

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Hurricane Tommy Jackson, the wild man with the double uppercut, is favored to whip big Nino Valdes of Cuba tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden in the most important match of the year between heavyweight contenders.

The colorful Jackson, an unpredictable young man of 22 with such off beat hobbies as "shooting mouses" and guitar-playing, could vault into a big money bout with champion Rocky Marciano by a decisive victory. Although Rocky is expected to box Ezzard Charles in a September rematch, a Jackson bout would be a possibility for 1955 or even sooner.

Valdes, winner of his last eight including a tremendous upset over Ezzard Charles last year, is ranked No. 2 contender, right behind Charles. Jackson is fifth, despite his deflation by Jimmy Slade, April 26.

Hayden Phillips registered his ninth pitching victory of the County Softball League season yesterday at Triple Lakes when his Potomac Valley Cubs teammates defeated Kennell's Mills by an 11-5 score.

The decision enabled the Cubs to maintain their 3½ game lead over Corriganville which defeated Stringtown, 4-3, at the former's diamond. Central Lunch's tossers, 13-1 victors at Ellerslie, remained in third place a half game behind the Corgs.

Phillips was touched for eight hits by Kennell's Mills batsmen, including a homerun and double by Kreigline and Cessna's three-bagger.

The Cubs twirler aided his own cause with a grand slam circuit smash in the fourth inning in addition to a single. Pete Cecil also hit for the circuit for Potomac Valley and Paul Lease had three hits.

At Ellerslie Ed Decker hurled five-hit ball for Central Lunch and was backed by a 14-hit attack which included Ronnie Cage's homerun and three hits by Bob Keyser.

Gary Hite tossed a three-hitter as Corriganville edged Stringtown. Nip Rice and Bill Thompson each tripled for the winners. Joe Sager had two of the losers' bingles. The scores:

Al Rosen Hits

Manager Walter Alston then called on Carl Erskine of the Dodgers to save the day. It looked as though the handsome righthander might get out of it when he threw a called third strike past pinch hitter Mickey Vernon of Washington.

But Fox ruined the day for Alston and Erskine. He blooped a single back of second to send Mantle and Berra racing home with the winning runs.

Alston cleared his bullpen with the exception of Milwaukee's Jim Wilson. Stengel used seven of his eight pitchers. The only reason he didn't get around to the eighth, Baltimore's Bob Turley, was that Turley ran into the fence in pregame practice and suffered a cut over his eye.

Stone pitched to only one man in the eighth when the Nationals put the slug on Chicago's Bob Keegan. The 24-year-old freshman came in with the Nationals out front, 9-8, men on first and third and two out.

While Stone was getting ready to pitch to Duke Snider of Brooklyn, St. Louis' Red Schoendienst lit out for home. He was nipped at the plate on Stone's throw to Berra. That set off the only real rhubarb of the day.

Leo Durocher and Charlie Grimm, the two National League coaches, rushed in from the coaching boxes to complain bitterly to plate Umpire Bill Stewart of the National. Durocher made motions that he thought Stone had balked. It didn't get him anywhere for the half inning was over and the Americans then came on to pull it out.

The Outdoor Club handed Al Sheetz his second defeat yesterday by banging the Eagles righthander for 11 solid hits and a 10-5 decision at Campobello in a Rocking Chair Softball League game.

It marked the second time the ODC boys have beaten the Eagles tosser.

Charles Day registered his ninth pitching victory for the winners and his seventh in a row. It also was the seventh straight win for the Outdoor Club tear...

Included in the assortment of hits by the ODC were a homerun and single by Ted Durbin, a circuit smash by Sam Brady with two aboard in the fourth, Butch Johnson's triple and Chick Cubbage's double.

Kienhofer had a triple, double and single for the Eagles and Pruny Lews also collected a three-bagger. Harry Minnicks hit for the circuit for the losers.

Today the Elks and Moose will battle for second place in the circuit at Fort Hill at 6:15 p. m. The scores:

Kiwanis Wins Over Exchange

The Kiwanis Club tossers defeated the Exchange Club 7 to 5 last night at Penn Avenue in a Hot Stove League contest.

Riggleman had three straight singles for the losers and O'Neal blasted a circuit smash in the last inning with two on to produce the Exchange's final three runs.

Gene Willets, Kiwanis right fielder, made a sparkling over the shoulder catch of Walker's deep drive in the third with two men on base for the outstanding fielding play. The score:

EXCHANGE	000	020	3	5	9	2
KIWANIS	000	340	x	7	5	4

Al Rosen Hits Two Homers, Has Five RBIs

Many Records Fall As National Loop Win Streak Stopped

By JACK HAND

CLEVELAND, July 13 (AP) — Injured Al Rosen, who offered to sit out the game "for the good of the team" staged a tremendous one-man show to drive in five runs with two home runs and a single today, but it took Nellie Fox's two-run bloop single in the eighth to give the aroused American League an 11-9 victory over the National in the 21st All-Star major league baseball game.

All sorts of records tumbled under the burning sun at Municipal Stadium as the two clubs staged the dizziest hitting spree in All-Star history. One of the chief casualties was the National's four-game winning streak.

Rosen Ties Record

Rosen's record-tying two homers and five runs batted in provided the top drama to a stirring game in which the lead teetered back and forth like a man on a tight rope. The teams set a new record with 31 hits for both clubs, 17 for the American League; 20 runs scored by both teams and tied a mark with six homers. The statisticians will be popping up with other new records for the rest of the week.

A roaring crowd of 68,751, only 1,061 short of the All-Star high set at the same park in 1935, thrilled to the batting show, especially because Cleveland hitters drove in 8 of the 11 runs in this American League victory.

But the big mob didn't know the inside story on Rosen, who has been slumping lately because of an injured index finger that affected his grip on the bat.

Before the game Rosen went to Manager Casey Stengel, who, incidentally finally won an All-Star game on his fifth try. He told grizzled old Case he was free to take him out at any time if he felt the Indians' first baseman was hurting the team's chances.

Back To Back Homers

After Rosen struck out against Robin Roberts with two men on base in the first inning, he wasn't lifted. In the third he came up with Minnie Minoso of Chicago and teammate Bobby Avila on base and slammed a Roberts pitch for a 380-foot homer over the portable fence in left center for a 3-0 lead. Detroit's Ray Boone followed with a homer to make it 4-0.

Rosen's second homer came in the fifth after the Nationals had rallied and forged ahead 7-5 with a burst of power. After Yogi Berra had singled to open the last of the fifth, Rosen hit his second homer into the lower left field seats, about 400 feet from home plate.

But the Cleveland infielder was not through yet. He singled in the sixth and walked to load the bases in the ninth before Fox, the Chicago second baseman, won the game with his drooping single back of second base, just out of the reach of shortstop Al Dark of New York.

It was a great day for the Indians who had lost four in a row and all but a half-game of their American League lead in Chicago last weekend. In addition to Rosen, second baseman Avila drove in two runs with a single and sacrifice fly and center fielder Larry Doby hit a pinch home run in the eighth to tie the score at 9-9.

Doby Knots Score

Jesse Markley pitched and batted the Fulton Myers Post team to a 2-1 victory over Midland yesterday at Fort Hill field in an American Legion junior baseball league contest.

The triumph was the third of the year for the Cumberland team and the second time this week Midland has gone down to defeat.

Trailing 1-0 in the sixth the Fulton Myers tossers pulled the game out of the fire when Markley smacked a long triple to score Merrill with the tying run and the Cumberland pitcher continued on across the plate with the winning tally when the toss from the outfield was wild at third.

Markley set Midland down with only two hits, singles by Truly and Robertson. He struck out nine and walked but two.

Spiker, the losing pitcher, allowed only four hits with Williams spanking a double and single in addition to Markley's three-bagger. Markley also collected a single to share hitting honors with Williams. Spiker fanned five and walked six.

Grantland Rice, 73, Dean Of Sports Writers, Dies

Succumbs Of Stroke In N. Y. Hospital, Began Career In 1901

He started his career on the Nashville, Tenn., News in 1901. For the next half century he chronicled the exploits of some of the greatest athletes the nation has ever seen.

Rice started many of his pieces with a bit of verse and this custom in time became sort of a trademark.

A stroke ended his life at 6:15 p.m. EDT. He died at Roosevelt Hospital.

Rice reached a peak in the 1920's during the "Golden Age" of American sport. As a first hand observer, he became a recognized authority on athletic events.

Considered Cobb And Ruth Best

He considered Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth the best ballplayers of the thousands he watched. The Dempsey-Firpo fight stood out to him as the most exciting. Bobby Jones was his favorite golfer. And his greatest horse race was the 1938 match when Seabiscuit beat War Admiral.

He was stricken in his office about noon while working on his syndicated column, "The Sportlight." With him when he died were his wife, Kate Hollis Rice, and his secretary, Katherine Mecca.

One of Rice's most quoted pieces of verse read:

"When the great scorer comes
"To mark against your name;
"He'll write not 'won' or 'lost',
"But how you played the game."

Certainly, Rice played the game of life to the hilt.

Born in Murfreesboro, Tenn., he was an all-around athlete at Vanderbilt University, where he captained the 1901 baseball team.

He played semipro baseball briefly after he left college then went to work in Nashville as a shipping clerk. But his first love—sports—was still his strongest and he lasted on his job only a few days.

Rice went to work for the Nashville News at $5 a week, writing sports and covering the State Capitol, county courthouse and other news sources.

Began Syndicated Column

Later he worked for Forester magazine, the Atlanta Journal, the Cleveland News, and the Nashville Tennessean. In 1911, he came to New York as sports columnist for the old Evening Mail and began to attract national attention.

Rice went to the New York Tribune in 1914 and stayed there until 1930 when he began his nationally syndicated column.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Fred Butler. As Florence Rice, she once played in movies.

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

New England Gentleman

In "Haven's End," John P. Marquand tells the story of the last survivor of an old and proud and rich New England family, fighting to the end the encroachments and indignities of changing times.

John Crosby

Mr. Marquand, of course, has been working this particular vineyard for a great many years and he does it with imposing authority and charm. The demand for his books remains very great and I can easily see why. Mr. Marquand writes with tenderness and great understanding about a set of values that has very nearly but not entirely departed.

The other night, the U. S. Steel Hour gave a sympathetic and wholly impressive production to "Haven's End" which had much of the appeal of the Marquand books. As the last of the Swales, Howard Lindsay was almost a divinely inspired choice as actor. Like Marquand, Lindsay went to Harvard and must have brushed against the old New England traditions more than once.

What interests me most about Marquand's portrayals of these relics from another day is the combination of candor and sympathy. His Mr. Swale is certainly a bit of a stuffed shirt; his preoccupation with the Swale genealogy is fairly ridiculous; he is undoubtedly a snob. And yet he is also a very nice guy and one that you would like to know, even while laughing at his eccentricities. Come to think of it, all Marquand's heroes, including the late George Apley, have been awfully nice guys, though outdated.

In "Haven's End," we see the gradual but almost total disintegration of the sort of world the elder Swale was brought up to think of as imperishable. First, he is defeated for mayor by a representative of a socially lower but hardier and, above all, more modern breed. Then there is a run on the Swale bank and Swale, accustomed to thinking of the Swale bank as an institution as permanent and inviolable as Gibraltar, personally guarantees the deposits.

But something has gone wrong with the old order. The bank president has run off with quite a lot of the cash and Swale is left holding the bag. "How could you back a man on so little evidence on so important a question?" asks his friend Emerson.

"But he gave me his word, Emerson," cries Swale. "When a man gives me his word. . ."

Right there he sums up the Swale character. He is not merely clinging to the sometimes preposterous outer trappings of a vanishing world but to the very real inner values. When a man gives you his word, you trust him because you trust and respect mankind in general. When one man betrays the trust, he is betraying his whole class, the whole tradition and the whole social order. It is characteristic, of Swale that, though not legally accountable, he pays off the depositors because he has given his word — even though it cleans him out.

Through all this personal tragedy, Mr. Lindsay is a magnificent figure of a New England gentleman, ejaculating his "By jove, yes!" and "Keep faith, Alfred" with superb conviction and authority. In the end, his shipyard closed, his fortune gone, his only son killed in the war which means the end of the Swale line, he still has spirit enough to toss out of his house a collateral Swale whose pretensions the elder Swale considers absolutely preposterous. It was a splendid performance.

For a medium, whose dramatic presentations are sometimes so forgettable that they vanish entirely from my memory 20 minutes after they go off, "Haven's End" sticks to a man's ribs with remarkable tenacity. I think I know why, too. We have a deep and sentimental affection for a vanished way of life. Witness "Gone With the Wind," now being reissued for the fifth time which will earn on this release alone something like $9,000,000.

Alex Segall's direction was, as usual, solid and workmanlike. Segall's direction is not given to pyrotechnics but on something like "Haven's End" you don't want them.

Daily Bridge Lesson by Barclay

TELLS WHAT TO LEAD

IT IS amazing how clearly certain types of bidding can tell your opponents how to beat your contract in cases which are not rare at all. By letting them know the location of your strengths and weaknesses in side suits, especially the matter of first and second-round controls with aces or kings, you steer them away from leads you would like and by indirection channel their action into just what you don't want. Often it is better to keep certain features concealed from them, and sometimes even mislead them, even though in so doing you may be withholding information from your partner or perhaps mildly deceiving him too.

	♠ Q 9 7 3 ♥ A K Q 9 ♦ 9 5 2 ♣ K 10
♠ 6 2 ♥ 8 4 3 2 ♦ K 7 ♣ 9 6 5 4 3	N W E S	♠ 8 5 ♥ J 7 6 5 ♦ A 8 6 4 3 ♣ 8 7
	♠ A K J 10 4 ♥ 10 ♦ Q J 10 ♣ A Q J 2

What would you lead, if you were West where the first bidding developed? Knowing all about the side suits of hearts and clubs, wouldn't you be brave enough to offer your diamond K, then lead to the A and ruff the return? That would beat the contract.

Wouldn't you do likewise against the second bidding, where you had learned about the first round controls in hearts and clubs? That would hold the declarer to exactly his game.

Against the third bidding, with no information about side suits, you probably would not be profligate enough to jeopardize your diamond K with a lead of that suit. Any other lead makes the directly-bid slam easy. Where the fourth bidding developed, you would be still less likely to lead diamonds, which probably would help the declarer most of all. A heart was led at the second and th tables, six-odd being made.

Jackson Is Favored Over Valdes Tonight

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Hurricane Tommy Jackson, the wild man with the double uppercut, is favored to whip big Nino Valdes of Cuba tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden in the most important match of the year between heavyweight contenders.

The colorful Jackson, an unpredictable young man of 22 with such off beat hobbies as "shooting mouses" and guitar-playing, could vault into a big money bout with champion Rocky Marciano by a decisive victory. Although Rocky is expected to box Ezzard Charles in a September rematch, a Jackson bout would be a possibility for 1955 or even sooner.

Hayden Phillips registered his ninth pitching victory of the County Softball League season yesterday at Triple Lakes when his Potomac Valley Cubs teammates defeated Kennell's Mills by an 11-5 score.

The decision enabled the Cubs to maintain their 3½ game lead over Corriganville which defeated Stringtown, 4-3, at the former's diamond. Central Lunch's tossers, 13-1 victors at Ellerslie, remained in third place a half game behind the Corgs.

Phillips was touched for eight hits by Kennell's Mills batsmen, including a homerun and double by Kreigline and Cessna's three-bagger.

The Cubs twirler aided his own cause with a grand slam circuit smash in the fourth inning in addition to a single. Pete Cecil also hit for the circuit for Potomac Valley and Paul Lease had three hits.

At Ellerslie Ed Decker hurled five-hit ball for Central Lunch and was backed by a 14-hit attack which included Ronnie Cage's homerun and three hits by Bob Keyser.

Gary Hite tossed a three-hitter as Corriganville edged Stringtown. Nip Rice and Bill Thompson each tripled for the winners. Joe Sager had two of the losers' bingles. The scores:

Manager Walter Alston then called on Carl Erskine of the Dodgers to save the day. It looked as though the handsome righthander might get out of it when he threw a called third strike past pinch hitter Mickey Vernon of Washington.

But Fox ruined the day for Alston and Erskine. He blooped a single back of second to send Mantle and Berra racing home with the winning runs.

Alston cleared his bullpen with the exception of Milwaukee's Jim Wilson. Stengel used seven of his eight pitchers. The only reason he didn't get around to the eighth, Baltimore's Bob Turley, was that Turley ran into the fence in pregame practice and suffered a cut over his eye.

Stone pitched to only one man in the eighth when the Nationals put the slug on Chicago's Bob Keegan. The 24-year-old freshman came in with the Nationals out front, 9-8, men on first and third and two out.

While Stone was getting ready to pitch to Duke Snider of Brooklyn, St. Louis' Red Schoendienst lit out for home. He was nipped at the plate on Stone's throw to Berra. That set off the only real rhubarb of the day.

Leo Durocher and Charlie Grimm, the two National League coaches, rushed in from the coaching boxes to complain bitterly to plate Umpire Bill Stewart of the National. Durocher made motions that he thought Stone had balked. It didn't get him anywhere for the half inning was over and the Americans then came on to pull it out.

The Outdoor Club handed Al Sheetz his second defeat yesterday by banging the Eagles righthander for 11 solid hits and a 10-5 decision at Campobello in a Rocking Chair Softball League game.

It marked the second time the ODC boys have beaten the Eagles tosser.

Charles Day registered his ninth pitching victory for the winners and his seventh in a row. It also was the seventh straight win for the Outdoor Club team.

Included in the assortment of hits by the ODC were a homerun and single by Ted Durbin, a circuit smash by Sam Brady with two aboard in the fourth, Butch Johnson's triple and Chick Cubbage's double.

Kienhofer had a triple, double and single for the Eagles and Pruny Lews also collected a three-bagger. Harry Minnicks hit for the circuit for the losers.

Today the Elks and Moose will battle for second place in the circuit at Fort Hill at 6:15 p. m. The scores:

The Kiwanis Club tossers defeated the Exchange Club 7 to 5 last night at Penn Avenue in a Hot Stove League contest.

Riggleman had three straight singles for the losers and O'Neal blasted a circuit smash in the last inning with two on to produce the Exchange's final three runs.

Gene Willets, Kiwanis right fielder, made a sparkling over the shoulder catch of Walker's deep drive in the third with two men on base for the outstanding fielding play. The score:

KIWANIS	000	340	x	7	5	4

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

New England Gentleman

In "Haven's End," John P. Marquand tells the story of the last survivor of an old and proud and rich New England family, fighting to the end the encroachments and indignities of changing times.

John Crosby

Mr. Marquand, of course, has been working this particular vineyard for a great many years and he does it with imposing authority and charm. The demand for his books remains very great and I can easily see why. Mr. Marquand writes with tenderness and great understanding about a set of values that has very nearly but not entirely departed.

The other night, the U. S. Steel Hour gave a sympathetic and wholly impressive production to "Haven's End" which had much of the appeal of the Marquand books. As the last of the Swales, Howard Lindsay was almost a divinely inspired choice as actor. Like Marquand, Lindsay went to Harvard and must have brushed against the old New England traditions more than once.

What interests me most about Marquand's portrayals of these relics from another day is the combination of candor and sympathy. His Mr. Swale is certainly a bit of a stuffed shirt; his preoccupation with the Swale genealogy is fairly ridiculous; he is undoubtedly a snob. And yet he is also a very nice guy and one that you would like to know, even while laughing at his eccentricities. Come to think of it, all Marquand's heroes, including the late George Apley, have been awfully nice guys, though outdated.

In "Haven's End," we see the gradual but almost total disintegration of the sort of world the elder Swale was brought up to think of as imperishable. First, he is defeated for mayor by a representative of a socially lower but hardier and, above all, more modern breed. Then there is a run on the Swale bank and Swale, accustomed to thinking of the Swale bank as an institution as permanent and inviolable as Gibraltar, personally guarantees the deposits.

But something has gone wrong with the old order. The bank president has run off with quite a lot of the cash and Swale is left holding the bag. "How could you back a man on so little evidence on so important a question?" asks his friend Emerson.

"But he gave me his word, Emerson," cries Swale. "When a man gives me his word. . ."

Right there he sums up the Swale character. He is not merely clinging to the sometimes preposterous outer trappings of a vanishing world but to the very real inner values. When a man gives you his word, you trust him because you trust and respect mankind in general. When one man betrays the trust, he is betraying his whole class, the whole tradition and the whole social order. It is characteristic, of Swale that, though not legally accountable, he pays off the depositors because he has given his word — even though it cleans him out.

Through all this personal tragedy, Mr. Lindsay is a magnificent figure of a New England gentleman, ejaculating his "By jove, yes!" and "Keep faith, Alfred" with superb conviction and authority. In the end, his shipyard closed, his fortune gone, his only son killed in the war which means the end of the Swale line, he still has spirit enough to toss out of his house a collateral Swale whose pretensions the elder Swale considers absolutely preposterous. It was a splendid performance.

For a medium, whose dramatic presentations are sometimes so forgettable that they vanish entirely from my memory 20 minutes after they go off, "Haven's End" sticks to a man's ribs with remarkable tenacity. I think I know why, too. We have a deep and sentimental affection for a vanished way of life. Witness "Gone With the Wind," now being reissued for the fifth time which will earn on this release alone something like $9,000,000.

Alex Segall's direction was, as usual, solid and workmanlike. Segall's direction is not given to pyrotechnics but on something like "Haven's End" you don't want them.

Daily Bridge Lesson by Barclay

TELLS WHAT TO LEAD

IT IS amazing how clearly certain types of bidding can tell your opponents how to beat your contract in cases which are not rare at all. By letting them know the location of your strengths and weaknesses in side suits, especially the matter of first and second-round controls with aces or kings, you steer them away from leads you would like and by indirection channel their action into just what you don't want. Often it is better to keep certain features concealed from them, and sometimes even mislead them, even though in so doing you may be withholding information from your partner or perhaps mildly deceiving him too.

	♠ Q 9 7 3 ♥ A K Q 9 ♦ 9 5 2 ♣ K 10
♠ 6 2 ♥ 8 4 3 2 ♦ K 7 ♣ 9 6 5 4 3	N W E S	♠ 8 5 ♥ J 7 6 5 ♦ A 8 6 4 3 ♣ 8 7
	♠ A K J 10 4 ♥ 10 ♦ Q J 10 ♣ A Q J 2

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

4.	1 ♠	Pass	3 ♦	Pass

What would you lead, if you were West where the first bidding developed? Knowing all about the side suits of hearts and clubs, wouldn't you be brave enough to offer your diamond K, then lead to the A and ruff the return? That would beat the contract.

Wouldn't you do likewise against the second bidding, where you had learned about the first round controls in hearts and clubs? That would hold the declarer to exactly his game.

Against the third bidding, with no information about side suits, you probably would not be profligate enough to jeopardize your diamond K with a lead of that suit. Any other lead makes the directly-bid slam easy. Where the fourth bidding developed, you would be still less likely to lead diamonds, which probably would help the declarer most of all. A heart was led at the second and th tables, six-odd being made.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

If South bids 1-Spade, West 2-Hearts, North doubles and East passes, what should South do?

Rails And Aircrafts Brace Market; Prices Still Mixed

Railroads and aircrafts braced the market with help from the movie issues, farm implements, and cement producers. Not doing so well were the steels, motors, coppers, chemicals, Electrical equipments, and oils.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks remained unchanged at $130.00 for the second straight day. That mark is the peak of the year and the best since Oct. 22, 1929.

Some in Wall Street believe that the strength in the railroads could well stem from the belief that the trip of Secretary of State Dulles to Paris might be the prelude to the movement of more supplies to Indochina with the first stage of course by rail.

The cement companies and the makers of road machinery got the benefit of the Washington administration proposals for an enormous road building program.

The industrial component of the Associated Press average lost 70 cents while the railroads advanced 80 cents to a new high of $97.10, and the utilities remained unchanged.

Loew's headed the most active list up ¼ at 16⅛ on 46,500 shares. It was followed by Curtiss-Wright up ½ at 11, North American Aviation up 2⅜ at 37¼, Pan American World Airways up ⅜ at 13⅛, and Burlington Mills up ¼ at 14½.

Lengthen Bird Hunting Season

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The Fish and Wildlife Service has lengthened the seasons and raised bag limits for the shooting of doves, band-tailed pigeons, rails, and gallinules in some states.

The changes were announced in the basic regulations for the 1954-55 season, from Sept. 1 to Jan. 10, 1955. The specific season dates for the various states will be published later.

Secretary of the Interior McKay said most of the detailed regulations for the hunting of migratory water fowl, coots, jacksnipe and woodcock would be issued late in August.

The proposed changes:

Atlantic flyway states—Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida—the length of the season on rails (other than sora) and gallinules will be increased by 10 days providing a 70-day season, and the possession limit is raised to 30 birds and the daily bag remains at 15. Last year the daily bag limit as well as the possession limit was 15 birds.

Held Is First

TRONDHEIM, Norway, July 13 (AP) — Franklin (Bud) Held, the United States' javelin star from San Francisco, placed first in an international track and field meet here with a throw of 243 feet, 3 inches.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Chamber Urges More Data On Crosstown Route

Cite Inadequacy Of Information On Plan

Directors of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce last night urged that the Mayor and Council delay action on the crosstown expressway until adequate information if made available.

The action was taken in a resolution which said "That the Board of Directors of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce opposes any action by the Mayor and City Council at this time with reference to the crosstown expressway because of the inadequacy of information submitted with the proposed contract regarding costs and construction details and this Board further recommends to the Mayor and City Council that no contract be considered until adequate information is made available."

Position Clarified

In an explanatory statement, the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce said, "It appears that there has been presented to the Mayor and Council, and to the people of Cumberland, so little information that it is not at this time possible to take an intelligent position on the subject of the crosstown viaduct.

"The Board believes that before action can be taken, not less than the following essential information should be made public.

Details Needed

"(1) Plans and specifications showing exact locations and types of structures of the entire project.

"(2) Engineering estimates of the cost of the entire project, and of the cost of the items which are expected to be paid for by the City of Cumberland.

"(3) Plans of the City of Cumberland for paying the cost of the items to be charged to it.

"(4) The effect of such costs on the city tax rate and bonded debt.

"(5) The possibility of securing contributions to costs, if the expressway is to be built, from other sources such as the railroads."

Utilities Speed Crosstown Route Cost Estimates

Estimates of costs for moving utilities in the route of the proposed crosstown viaduct are expected to be available by tomorrow.

City officials said maps of the project have been supplied to the Potomac Edison Company, the C & A Gas Company, the C & P Telephone Company and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The firms have been asked to set their engineering staffs to work at once on estimating the cost of the work involved, and to report results to the City of Cumberland by Thursday.

The Potomac Edison Company was asked to include in its estimate the cost of installing and maintaining lights required on the route, and the B & O the cost of installing traffic lights tied in with a crossing signal system.

City Engineering Department workers are estimating the cost to the city of relocating water or sewer lines along the route.

Meanwhile, two members of the City Engineering Department staff expect to complete by noon today a check of the assessments of properties which lie in the path of the proposed crosstown route.

The value of the properties being obtained from the land records at the Court House will be only the assessed valuation, which is about 60 per cent of the current value.

Officials said a similar study will be made on the Industrial Highway portion of the program as soon as the east-west route assessments are known.

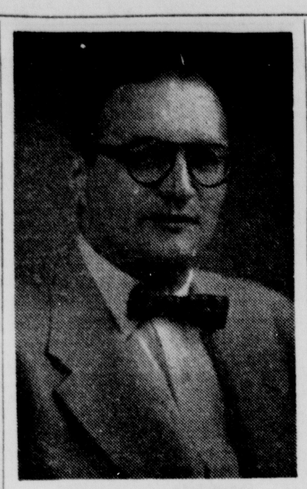
Wills Admitted For Probate

Wills of two persons who died recently were admitted to probate yesterday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

Miss Katharine Day, 126 Mt. Pleasant Street, Frostburg, qualified as administratrix c.t.a. of the estate of her sister, Mrs. Sarah Day Kirby, who died July 7.

Mrs. Kirby's brief will, dated September 7, 1951, made no provision for an executor of her estate. Mrs. Kirby left her house and lot at 15 Standish Street, Frostburg, jointly to Miss Day, Mrs. G. O. Crump of Youngstown, Ohio, another sister, and Charles L. Day, also of Mt. Pleasant Street, Frostburg, a brother.

John Nisbet, a 74-year-old retired Baltimore and Ohio Railroad engineer who died June 30, left most of his estate to a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Nisbet Sensabaugh, RFD 4, Oldtown Road. Mrs. Sensabaugh was left household furnishings and two houses and lots on Cedar Street. A stipulation in the will requires Mrs. Sensabaugh to pay $500 each to Mrs. Mary Nisbet Wright, Youngstown, Ohio, another daughter of the deceased, and to Rosemary Nisbet, Ridgeley, W. Va., a granddaughter of the dead man. If Mrs. Sensabaugh refused to make the payment, the property is to be share by all three jointly. The will was dated April 2, 1952.



PHILIP E. LERMAN

Regional Officer Will Speak At B'nai B'rith Event

Banquet To Be Held Sunday Evening

Western Maryland Lodge B'nai B'rith will hold its annual banquet and installation of officers Sunday at 6:30 p. m. at Ali Ghan Country Club. David Kauffman, local attorney, will act as toastmaster.

Philip E. Lerman, director of the District of Columbia and Maryland regional office of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, will be the guest speaker.

Lerman is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and is active in civic affairs.

He serves as an assistant scoutmaster in the Boy Scouts of America, is an officer in the Capitol Chapter of the American Association of Group Workers, and a member of the United Community Service.

A veteran, Lerman served in the Army for over three years, seeing service with the 87th Mountain Infantry Regiment in Austria, Italy, and Yugoslavia.

Robert Kaplon will be installed as the 1954 president, with Robert Goldfine as president-elect for 1955.

Other officers to be installed include Harry Kauffman, first vice president; Arthur Friedland, second vice president; Frank H. Kaplon, secretary; Harry G. Stein, treasurer; Paul Steinberger, warden; and Meyser Abramson, guardian.

Robert Gerson, George Ossip, and Leonard Schwab will serve as trustees for the coming year, and Rabbi Joseph Schimelman and Rabbi Daniel Lowy will act as chaplains for the organization.

Stein is chairman of the banquet committee.

Dr. Miller Begins Practice Here

Dr. David H. Miller is now practicing ophthalmology in the office formerly occupied by Dr. Frank U. Davis, 22 Washington Street, who has retired from practice.

A native of Dover, Ohio, Dr. Miller received his elementary education at Sharpsville, Pa., and also graduated from Youngstown College and from Indiana University, receiving his master's degree from that university in chemistry and mathematics.

Dr. Miller graduated from the University of Pittsburgh Medical School and completed his internship at Saint Francis Hospital there.

He received specialized training at the Eye and Ear Hospital, University of Pittsburgh Medical Center. During World War II he served in the Army including 22 months overseas with Merrill's Marauders in Burma. Dr. Miller is a member of the Presbyterian Church.

Recruiters Propose Marine Corps League

Local Marine Corps recruiters are making plans for the organization of a Marine Corps League here.

S/Sgt. Donald J. Coleman, recruiter in charge said yesterday any Marine or former Marine with six months active service is eligible for membership, and if interested should apply at the local recruiting office for information.

On July 17, Sgt. Coleman noted, an official of the Marine Corps League will be here to discuss the organization.

There is probably little use in reminding Cumberland and area residents that yesterday was a real scorcher as the mercury was officially registered at 100 degrees in Constitution Park, the hottest day of 1954.

And the weatherman promises a similar dose of torrid weather today when the mercury again is expected to near the 100 mark.

Air conditioning, cold beverages, swimming pools and fans were put to use by most everyone in an effort to "beat the heat." One topic of conversation that overshadowed the weather, for a while, was the All-Star baseball game.

No Heat Prostration

The two local hospitals reported no cases of heat prostration although just about everybody felt "on the verge" during the course of the afternoon.

Police received a complaint that some children in one section of the city discarded their clothing in an effort to "play it cool." To them, apparently, it was the best solution to the problem.

A thermometer reading of 112 degrees was reported at Keyser. The instrument was located in the sun on one of the community's street corners. Another section of Keyser reported a high of 96 degrees in the shade.

More On The Way

The low reading yesterday, according to Robert R. Golden, official weather observer here, was 60 degrees, and at 7:30 p. m. the temperature stood at 89 degrees. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 46.5 per cent.

Yesterday's high temperature was five degrees more than a previous 95 degrees last month. Mr. Weatherman apparently plans to show no mercy on local residents as he promises continued sunny and hot temperatures today.

Accident Report Is Compiled By City Police

The accident summary and reports on other police activities during the month of June have been compiled in a report by the City Police Department.

The collision summary, totaling 30 cases was broken down to those involving 11 pedestrians; other motor vehicle, 13; fixed objects, five, and one bicycle accident.

The total number of motor vehicles involved in the mishaps was 43. Chief R. Emmett Flynn said that probable cause of the accidents included one failure to obey traffic control; three improper passing; one person had been drinking.

Four reckless traffic cases; one failure to keep to the right; two equipment violations; four miscellaneous violations; seven pedestrians running in front of motor vehicles; one due to weather conditions; failure to give right of way, five, and one motorist following too closely.

Most of the accidents occurred on Thursdays, with a total of six; five each on Tuesdays and Wednesdays; four on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, and two on Mondays.

Other police activities of the month include 374 parking violations listed on the docket, 19 resulting in suspended fines, and none dismissed. The total number in June of 1953 was 521.

The courtesy meter showed that 229 motorists took advantage of it. There were 28 state cases, four drunken driving; two arrests for speeding, one warning on speeding, two arrests, not using the speedmeter, and one violation of City Ordinance 1530.

Recruiter Returns To Active Duty

S-Sgt. William B. Barr, 824 Shriver Avenue, a recruiter in the local office of the United States Marine Corps, has been released from Memorial Hospital and has returned to active duty.

Sgt. Barr was injured July 4, when he lost control of his auto due to a mechanical failure, on Shriver Avenue and hit a large tree. He suffered facial lacerations and a slight concussion. His wife, who was also injured about the face is improved.

Banneker Homes Playlot Activities Now In Full Swing

The playground opened Monday and now has an enrollment of about 50 children, most of them in the 6-to-12 age group. Activities are provided for older children at Pine Avenue Playground.

The children, most of them residents of the public housing development, will have access to the recreation room of the housing unit on rainy days.

The city recreation program, according to Mrs. Eva Hogan, playground supervisor, will include craft work of all kinds, a number of clubs, including sewing and newspaper, and games which can be played on the blacktopped area in front of the homes.

Plans are also being made to hold picnic days, when the children will hike to Pine Avenue Playground for a joint get-together. Swimming excursions will also be arranged at the Pine Avenue swimming pool.

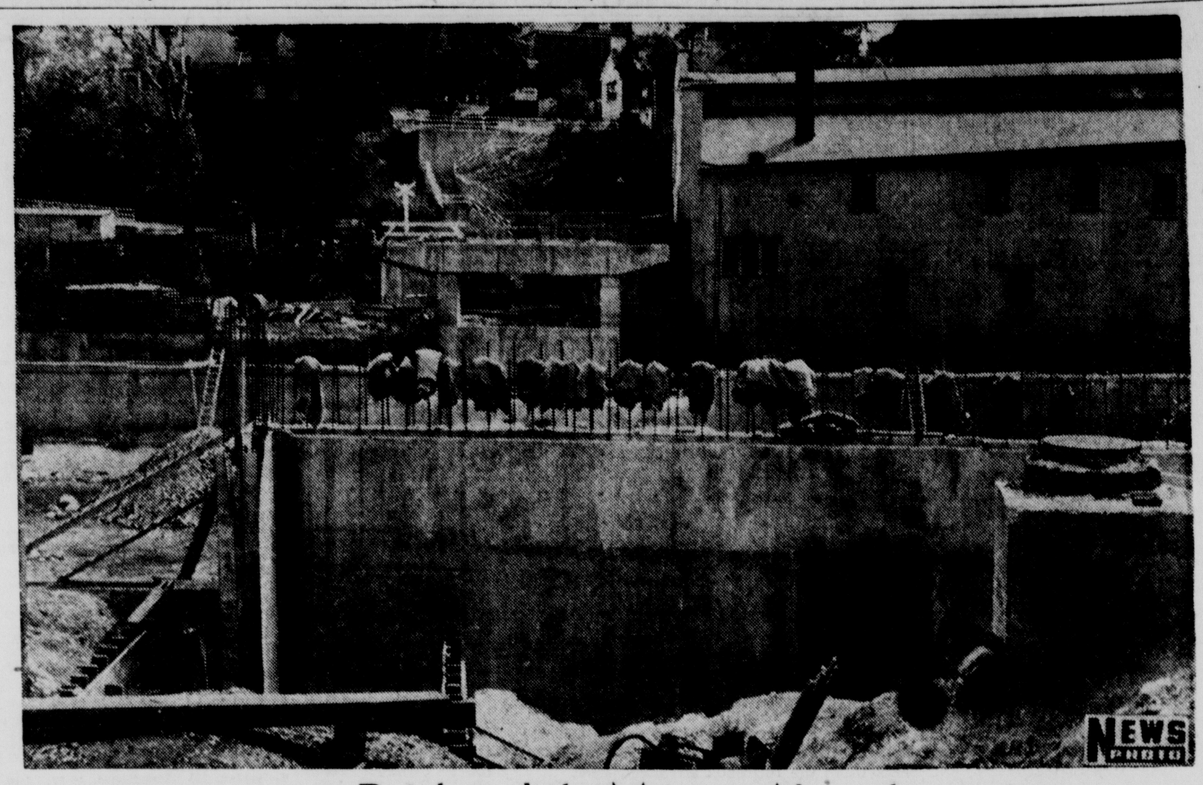
The curtailed program being offered at Banneker Homes is only temporary, officials said, since a full program is being planned next year, when space will be available at Carver High School, where an addition is being constructed.



Bridge Job Moves Ahead

Recent progress on the new Valley Street Bridge can be seen from this photograph, which shows (foreground) the pier at the North Mechanic Street end of the span, and beyond it, the center pier. The bridge, one of three to be rebuilt in connection with the Flood Control Project, will cost $280,777.65. Construction, delayed at the start, has been pushed ahead so rapidly by the S. T. Brotemarkle Company that the span soon will be ready for steelwork. The job is to be finished in November. Also to be rebuilt and streamlined are the Market Street and Baltimore Street bridges. All will be designed to speed the flow of Wills Creek.

21 Directors Nominated By Local C Of C

General Election Scheduled July 27

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce last night tabulated the results of its primary election to nominate 20 members for the Board of Directors, but due to a tie in the voting 21 names will appear on the general election ballot.

The Board of Directors of the Chamber is comprised of 30 members, with 10 new members elected to the board each year.

The 10 directors who will complete their terms this year are Edmund S. Burke, Earl D. Chaney, Charles S. Catherman Jr., John H. Mosner, Charles A. Piper, Henry W. Price, Carl C. Robbins, J. H. Stitely, G. Louis Spoerl, and W. Earl Cobey.

The 21 nominees, listed alphabetically, are James Alfred Avirett, Robert E. Barnard Jr., William H. Buchholtz, Arthur W. Conley, Robert Little Ebert, Thomas B. Finan, C. Walter Haschert, John A. Kreiling, Lynn C. Lashley, Marcus A. Naughton, Albert S. Paye.

Paul D. Pickens, Carroll B. Pollock, Robert W. Richardson, John J Robinson, Earle C. Robertson, George A. Schwarzenbach, Carl F. Schmutz, George K. Steiner, Albert W. Tindal, and Miles G. Thompson.

Ballots containing these 21 names will be sent out to all members of the Chamber. They are to be returned to the Chamber office by July 27, at which time they will be counted and the 10 new directors named.

Lashley is chairman of the Chamber's board of election judges, assisted by Catherman and C. William Gilchrist.

Citizens Group Is Briefed On Labor Dispute

Representatives of the city's Labor-Management-Citizens Committee received a briefing last night, at a meeting in City Hall, on the union's position in regard to a labor dispute which resulted in a strike at the National Jet Company plant eight months ago.

No formal action was taken since only five of the 16-member committee were present.

Attending were Robert C. Morris, chairman; Ralph R. Webster, Francis A. Kenney, John L. Estes, members, and Coy F. Dyer, who represented George W. Lucas.

Also present were Louis P. Poulton, attorney of the International Association of Machinists (AFL); H. F. Huff, Warren, Pa., grand lodge representative; Joseph Humbertson, a local IAM official who asked that the conference be held, and a delegation representing the workers, affiliated with Local 489, IAM, the local which represents workers at the Cumberland Steel Company here.

The committee suggested that appointments be made to complete its membership and that later meetings might be arranged with company representatives to get their side of the dispute in order to bring about an amicable settlement of the issues.

It was felt no formal action could be taken since a quorum was not present and members present might not have legal status, since appointments are made for yearly periods.

The union officials reported all issues had been agreed upon on February 6, except for getting rid of four workers hired during the strike. The number has increased now to about 10.

Poulton said the union is still trying to make an amicable settlement and that meetings are being held with management about once a month.

School Board Gives Approval To Three Jobs

Other Bids Will Be Opened This Month

The Allegany County Board of Education yesterday gave its formal approval to three contracts totaling $38,173.02 for projects already under way.

The five board members previously had given their approval to the three contracts in letters sent to Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

These jobs include the rewiring of Pennsylvania Avenue School for $19,410 by the Maryland Electric Company; painting of the exterior of Beall High School in Frostburg for $6,715.02 by George V. Steele, and laying a water line from Route 40 along Parkside Boulevard to the site of the new elementary school being constructed in LaVale.

Meanwhile, bids are being sought for another phase of the county school construction program. Bids on the construction of a sewage disposal plant at Oldtown High School will be received until 4 p. m. Tuesday, July 27. Bids for supplying cafeteria equipment at the enlarged Oldtown High School will be received until 4 p. m. Thursday, July 29.

Bids on the insurance for the school buses and automobiles used to haul children to school will be received until 2 p. m. Tuesday, August 3.

Four of the five board members were present yesterday. They are Kenneth R. Malcolm, president; Mrs. Stanley Buckley, W. Earle Cobey and Mrs. Albert C. Cook. Edward J. Ryan was unable to attend.

CD Practice Alert Staged In Tri-Towns

The Tri-Towns Civil Defense district held a practice alert last night with Bloomington designated as the imaginary target area, according to David E. Kirk of Barton, coordinator of the district.

Eight volunteer fire companies responded to the alert and 40 men participated in the mock raid. Similar alerts are held periodically by the Tri-Towns district.

Westernport, Piedmont, and Bloomington fire companies all went to the scene. Barton and McCoole companies filled in for Westernport and Piedmont, while Keyser stood by to protect McCoole and Keyser for the duration of the alert.

Beryl and Luke companies also pulled out and stood by until the all clear was sounded.

Kirk reported that the alert was very successful.

City Talent Show To Get TV Showing

The annual talent night contest presented last Friday at Constitution Park will be shown over Cable TV here Thursday from 7 to 8 p. m., according to Robert E. Pence, city recreation director.

Pence said original plans called for presenting only the winners over TV, but that it has been decided to present the entire program.

Picnic Tomorrow

The Cumberland Kiwanis Club will have as its speaker this week Major James Prout, a native of Allegany County, who is now in charge of all Salvation Army activities in Charlotte, N. C. The Kiwanis meets every Thursday at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

The organization also will hold a picnic tomorrow at the Sunshine Camp on MacDonald Terrace. This event will get under way at 6:30 p. m.

Rotary Club's Anniversary Sample Fair Opens Tonight

As its first community service project in conjunction with Rotary's Golden Anniversary celebration, the Cumberland Rotary Club is conducting this city's first Sample Fair today, tomorrow and Friday from 6 until 9 p. m. in the Central YMCA gymnasium.

Each Rotary Club is expected to conduct a distinctive project this year in observance of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the service club in Chicago.

AT HAWAII POST—S/Sgt. Carl F. Hager, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Hager, Frostburg, has been transferred from Andrews Air Force Base, Washington, D. C., to Hickam AF Base, Honolulu, Hawaii. He was graduated from Beall High School at Frostburg in 1947 and enlisted in the Air Force at Cumberland, June 1948. Sgt. Hager served in Korea from July, 1951, to July, 1952.

H. D. Barber, community service chairman of the Rotary Club here who is general chairman of the Sample Fair, said last night that this is the first of several worthwhile programs planned this year. All proceeds from the Sample Fair will be given to Central YMCA.

Barber said that he got the idea for the Sample Fair when he read that the California (Pa.) Rotary had been successful in such a project for several years.

Thousands of samples and souvenirs will be given away during the three-day affair. The list includes bottles of milk, rolls of film, popular records, ice cream, key chains and many others.

Barber reports his minimum goal for the three-night Sample Fair is a total attendance of at least 5,000 persons. Tickets may be obtained from any Rotarian or member of the YMCA Board of Directors.

There will be 24 booths in the Sample Fair, among them several which will be manned by Rotarians for the express purpose of dispensing samples.

Entered in the event are the C&P Telephone Company, C&A Gas Company, Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, Potomac Edison, Ort's Bakery, Curl's Camera Shop, Sears Roebuck and Company, Queen City Dairy, First Federal Savings and Loan Association, Clinebell's Bakery, Cumberland Box Factory, Catherman's Business School, Rosenbaum Brothers, Anton's, Liberty Milk Company, Malamphy's Bottling Works, Radio Station WDYK, Syckes Music Shop, the Cumberland Clearing House and the National Biscuit Company.

Citizens Urged To Cooperate In Oiling Program

A plea for citizen cooperation during the street oiling program which is now under way here was issued yesterday by William H. Buchholtz, commissioner of streets and public property.

The commissioner said barricades placed by the Street Department must be left in place for at least 36 hours if the program is to be successful.

The newly oiled surface, he explained, must be allowed to cure for at least that time so that the asphalt may soak into the roadbed and set.

The surface of several streets oiled during the past few days, Commissioner Buchholtz said, has been damaged after barricades were removed to allow traffic to move into the area.

Street Department crews last week began work in the Bedford-Frederick Street section and are now working in the Lindnerville area.

At least six weeks more will be required to complete the task of oiling the some 32 miles of unpaved streets in Cumberland.

The oiling program is one of the biggest annual jobs done by the department. It consists of providing drainage, shaping and rolling all unpaved streets and then applying a coat of asphalt to stabilize the surface.

The annual picnic for Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Veterans of this area will be held Saturday, July 31, at Terra Alta, W. Va., atop the Allegheny Mountains.

H. W. Bloss, local secretary of the veterans group, and general chairman of arrangements, last night said final plans have been made for the outing scheduled at the City Park in Terra Alta where numerous shaded lawns are provided with tables and refreshment stands.

Meals will be served on the grounds. Baseball will be a highlight of the day's program and other amusements will be sponsored. A speaking program is also being lined up, Bloss pointed out.

A special train will leave Queen City station at 7 a. m., Standard Time. The time of departure from other communities along the route of the B&O will be:

Democrats Set Next Monday As Convention Date

Mahoney Backers Will Fight Byrd Nomination

[By The Associated Press]

The Democratic State Convention today was set for July 26 amid warnings from supporters of George P. Mahoney that they will take legal action to block any move designed to stampede the state convention into giving the party's gubernatorial nomination to Dr. H. C. Byrd.

C. William Hetzer, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, announced the date after conferring with party leaders.

Hetzer said the convention will be held at 2 p.m. at the Emerson Hotel in Baltimore.

His call for the convention to be held July 26 beat by two days the legal requirement which says the party's convention must be held within 30 days of the June 28 primary.

Sees November Victory

Hetzer said delegates to the convention will represent the state and its people as well as the party.

"I am confident we will conduct deliberations with dignity and honor and from the convention will come a solid and united Democratic Party which will march to victory in November," Hetzer said.

Earlier, Mahoney forces said they would go to court if necessary to block such action before Mahoney's recounts are completed.

"We will not be given the bum's rush," declared Hyman A. Pressman, the Baltimore attorney who is doing some of Mahoney's legal skirmishing designed to wrest the nomination from Byrd.

As he laid down this challenge, the second of the recounts instigated by Mahoney got under way in Talbot County.

The Byrd camp lost an initial point at Easton on a demand that magnifying glasses should not be used to examine ballots.

Pressman himself touched off another ruckus at Centreville as the Queen Annes County recount went into its second week. He lost a demand that he be allowed to inspect the vault where the county's 15 ballot boxes are stored.

Three more recounts are scheduled to get underway Wednesday, in Calvert County and the 4th and 5th Baltimore legislative districts.

Only eight ballots of the 3,828 cast in Talbot County were examined in the first hour of that recount today, indicating little hope it can be completed before the deadline for the party's nominating convention.

The law says the convention must be held within 30 days of the primaries, which were on June 28. It is possible, of course, to convene the convention within the legal time limit and then recess it until recounts and other legal actions are completed.

Byrd still had an 80-72 edge over Mahoney in the county unit votes which govern the outcome of the race. He still had a 163,548 to 159,555 state-wide popular vote margin over Mahoney on the basis official returns.

Mahoney At Easton

It was a complicated process because the ballots also were being tallied again at the same time in the contest for attorney general and the five man sheriff's race, in which only six votes separated the winner from the runner-up and fewer than a hundred votes separated the first four men.

This raised the possibility a ballot challenged by one of the gubernatorial candidates could void a vote in the extremely tight sheriff's race, so the counting went ahead at a pace calculated to require 12 weeks.

The general election, on Nov. 2, is only 16 weeks away.

Besides legal action to stall any decision by the state convention before the recounts have been completed, Pressman also has threatened to go to court to have some Queen Annes County votes for Byrd thrown out if the election supervisors don't decide to do it. He has accused the supervisors with disregarding election laws in several of their decisions.

The Queen Annes supervisors completed today the seventh of the county's 15 ballot boxes and started on the eighth.

Rails And Aircrafts Brace Market; Prices Still Mixed

Railroads and aircrafts braced the market with help from the movie issues, farm implements, and cement producers. Not doing so well were the steels, motors, coppers, chemicals, Electrical equipments, and oils.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks remained unchanged at $130.00 for the second straight day. That mark is the peak of the year and the best since Oct. 22, 1929.

Some in Wall Street believe that the strength in the railroads could well stem from the belief that the trip of Secretary of State Dulles to Paris might be the prelude to the movement of more supplies to Indochina with the first stage of course by rail.

The cement companies and the makers of road machinery got the benefit of the Washington administration proposals for an enormous road building program.

The industrial component of the Associated Press average lost 70 cents while the railroads advanced 80 cents to a new high of $97.10, and the utilities remained unchanged.

Loew's headed the most active list up ¼ at 16⅛ on 46,500 shares. It was followed by Curtiss-Wright up ½ at 11, North American Aviation up 2⅜ at 37¼, Pan American World Airways up ⅜ at 13⅛, and Burlington Mills up ¼ at 14½.

Cumberland Stockyards

Livestock prices for July 13:

Heavy hens, 19 to 26 cents lb.; light hens, 14 to 15 cents lb.; shoats and pigs, $8.50 to $12.75 each; dairy cows, $51 to $80 each; stock cattle, $8.75 to $13.35 cwt.; calves (light), $6 to $13.50 cwt.; calves (choice), $18 to $21 cwt.

Lengthen Bird Hunting Season

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The Fish and Wildlife Service has lengthened the seasons and raised bag limits for the shooting of doves, band-tailed pigeons, rails, and gallinules in some states.

The changes were announced in the basic regulations for the 1954-55 season, from Sept. 1 to Jan. 10, 1955. The specific season dates for the various states will be published later.

Secretary of the Interior McKay said most of the detailed regulations for the hunting of migratory water fowl, coots, jacksnipe and woodcock would be issued late in August.

The proposed changes:

Atlantic flyway states—Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida—the length of the season on rails (other than sora) and gallinules will be increased by 10 days providing a 70-day season, and the possession limit is raised to 30 birds and the daily bag remains at 15. Last year the daily bag limit as well as the possession limit was 15 birds.

Held Is First

TRONDHEIM, Norway, July 13 (AP) — Franklin (Bud) Held, the United States' javelin star from San Francisco, placed first in an international track and field meet here with a throw of 243 feet, 3 inches.

Chamber Urges More Data On Crosstown Route

Cite Inadequacy Of Information On Plan

Directors of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce last night urged that the Mayor and Council delay action on the crosstown expressway until adequate information if made available.

The action was taken in a resolution which said "That the Board of Directors of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce opposes any action by the Mayor and City Council at this time with reference to the crosstown expressway because of the inadequacy of information submitted with the proposed contract regarding costs and construction details and this Board further recommends to the Mayor and City Council that no contract be considered until adequate information is made available."

Position Clarified

In an explanatory statement, the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce said, "It appears that there has been presented to the Mayor and Council, and to the people of Cumberland, so little information that it is not at this time possible to take an intelligent position on the subject of the crosstown viaduct.

"The Board believes that before action can be taken, not less than the following essential information should be made public.

Details Needed

"(1) Plans and specifications showing exact locations and types of structures of the entire project.

"(2) Engineering estimates of the cost of the entire project, and of the cost of the items which are expected to be paid for by the City of Cumberland.

"(3) Plans of the City of Cumberland for paying the cost of the items to be charged to it.

"(4) The effect of such costs on the city tax rate and bonded debt.

"(5) The possibility of securing contributions to costs, if the expressway is to be built, from other sources such as the railroads."

Utilities Speed Crosstown Route Cost Estimates

Estimates of costs for moving utilities in the route of the proposed crosstown viaduct are expected to be available by tomorrow.

City officials said maps of the project have been supplied to the Potomac Edison Company, the C & A Gas Company, the C & P Telephone Company and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The firms have been asked to set their engineering staffs to work at once on estimating the cost of the work involved, and to report results to the City of Cumberland by Thursday.

The Potomac Edison Company was asked to include in its estimate the cost of installing and maintaining lights required on the route, and the B & O the cost of installing traffic lights tied in with a crossing signal system.

City Engineering Department workers are estimating the cost to the city of relocating water or sewer lines along the route.

Meanwhile, two members of the City Engineering Department staff expect to complete by noon today a check of the assessments of properties which lie in the path of the proposed crosstown route.

The value of the properties being obtained from the land records at the Court House will be only the assessed valuation, which is about 60 per cent of the current value.

Officials said a similar study will be made on the Industrial Highway portion of the program as soon as the east-west route assessments are known.

Wills of two persons who died recently were admitted to probate yesterday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

Miss Katharine Day, 126 Mt. Pleasant Street, Frostburg, qualified as administratrix c.t.a. of the estate of her sister, Mrs. Sarah Day Kirby, who died July 7.

Mrs. Kirby's brief will, dated September 7, 1951, made no provision for an executor of her estate. Mrs. Kirby left her house and lot at 15 Standish Street, Frostburg, jointly to Miss Day, Mrs. G. O. Crump of Youngstown, Ohio, another sister, and Charles L. Day, also of Mt. Pleasant Street, Frostburg, a brother.

John Nisbet, a 74-year-old retired Baltimore and Ohio Railroad engineer who died June 30, left most of his estate to a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Nisbet Sensabaugh, RFD 4, Oldtown Road. Mrs. Sensabaugh was left household furnishings and two houses and lots on Cedar Street. A stipulation in the will requires Mrs. Sensabaugh to pay $500 each to Mrs. Mary Nisbet Wright, Youngstown, Ohio, another daughter of the deceased, and to Rosemary Nisbet, Ridgeley, W. Va., a granddaughter of the dead man. If Mrs. Sensabaugh refused to make the payment, the property is to be share by all three jointly. The will was dated April 2, 1952.

There is probably little use in reminding Cumberland and area residents that yesterday was a real scorcher as the mercury was officially registered at 100 degrees in Constitution Park, the hottest day of 1954.

And the weatherman promises a similar dose of torrid weather today when the mercury again is expected to near the 100 mark.

Air conditioning, cold beverages, swimming pools and fans were put to use by most everyone in an effort to "beat the heat." One topic of conversation that overshadowed the weather, for a while, was the All-Star baseball game.

No Heat Prostration

The two local hospitals reported no cases of heat prostration although just about everybody felt "on the verge" during the course of the afternoon.

Police received a complaint that some children in one section of the city discarded their clothing in an effort to "play it cool." To them, apparently, it was the best solution to the problem.

A thermometer reading of 112 degrees was reported at Keyser. The instrument was located in the sun on one of the community's street corners. Another section of Keyser reported a high of 96 degrees in the shade.

More On The Way

The low reading yesterday, according to Robert R. Golden, official weather observer here, was 60 degrees, and at 7:30 p. m. the temperature stood at 89 degrees. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 46.5 per cent.

Yesterday's high temperature was five degrees more than a previous 95 degrees last month. Mr. Weatherman apparently plans to show no mercy on local residents as he promises continued sunny and hot temperatures today.

Accident Report Is Compiled By City Police

The accident summary and reports on other police activities during the month of June have been compiled in a report by the City Police Department.

The collision summary, totaling 30 cases was broken down to those involving 11 pedestrians; other motor vehicle, 13; fixed objects, five, and one bicycle accident.

The total number of motor vehicles involved in the mishaps was 43. Chief R. Emmett Flynn said that probable cause of the accidents included one failure to obey traffic control; three improper passing; one person had been drinking.

Four reckless traffic cases; one failure to keep to the right; two equipment violations; four miscellaneous violations; seven pedestrians running in front of motor vehicles; one due to weather conditions; failure to give right of way, five, and one motorist following too closely.

Most of the accidents occurred on Thursdays, with a total of six; five each on Tuesdays and Wednesdays; four on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, and two on Mondays.

Other police activities of the month include 374 parking violations listed on the docket, 19 resulting in suspended fines, and none dismissed. The total number in June of 1953 was 521.

The courtesy meter showed that 229 motorists took advantage of it. There were 28 state cases, four drunken driving; two arrests for speeding, one warning on speeding, two arrests, not using the speedmeter, and one violation of City Ordinance 1530.

Banneker Homes Playlot Activities Now In Full Swing

The playground opened Monday and now has an enrollment of about 50 children, most of them in the 6-to-12 age group. Activities are provided for older children at Pine Avenue Playground.

The children, most of them residents of the public housing development, will have access to the recreation room of the housing unit on rainy days.

The city recreation program, according to Mrs. Eva Hogan, playground supervisor, will include craft work of all kinds, a number of clubs, including sewing and newspaper, and games which can be played on the blacktopped area in front of the homes.

Plans are also being made to hold picnic days, when the children will hike to Pine Avenue Playground for a joint get-together. Swimming excursions will also be arranged at the Pine Avenue swimming pool.

A dramatic club is also being organized, and movies will be shown each Tuesday night at dusk.

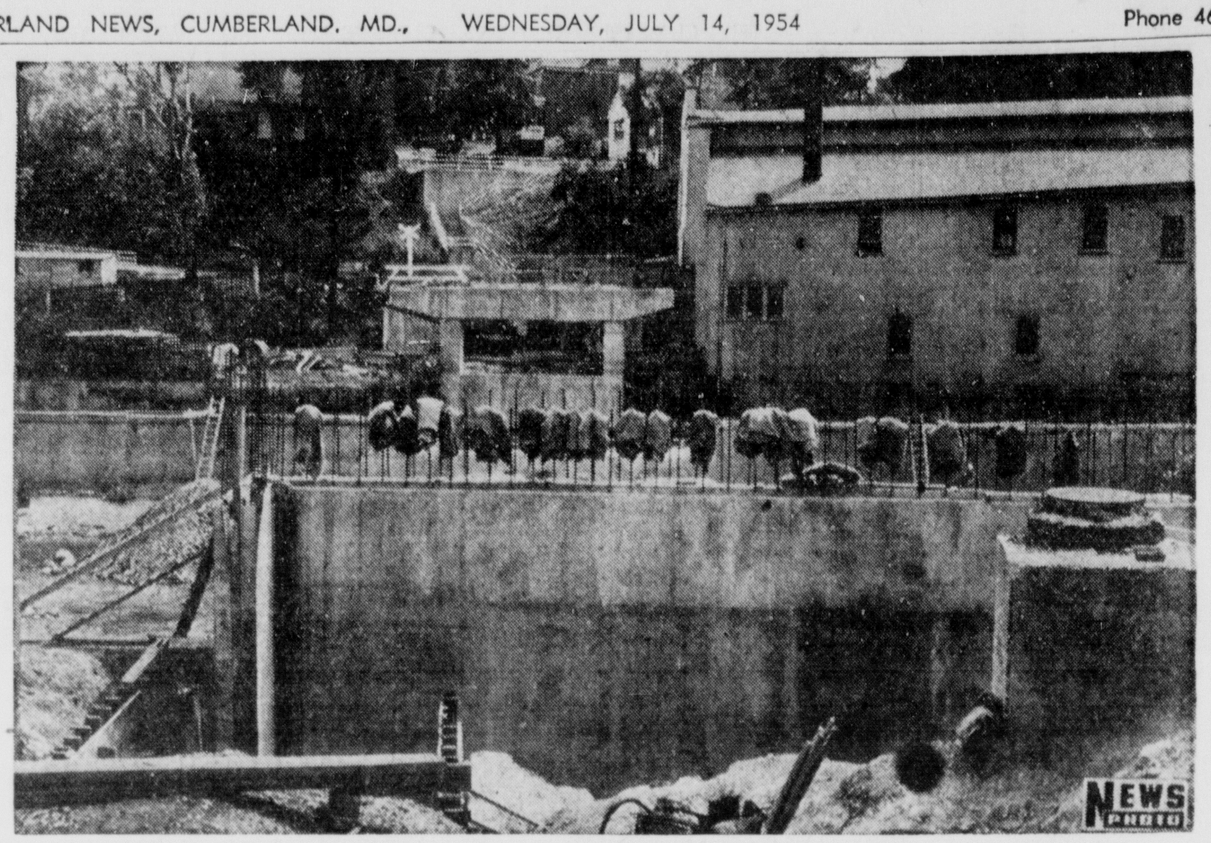
The curtailed program being offered at Banneker Homes is only temporary, officials said, since a full program is being planned next year, when space will be available at Carver High School, where an addition is being constructed.



Bridge Job Moves Ahead

Recent progress on the new Valley Street Bridge can be seen from this photograph, which shows (foreground) the pier at the North Mechanic Street end of the span, and beyond it, the center pier. The bridge, one of three to be rebuilt in connection with the Flood Control Project, will cost $280,777.65. Construction, delayed at the start, has been pushed ahead so rapidly by the S. T. Brotemarkle Company that the span soon will be ready for steelwork. The job is to be finished in November. Also to be rebuilt and streamlined are the Market Street and Baltimore Street bridges. All will be designed to speed the flow of Wills Creek.

Citizens Group Is Briefed On Labor Dispute

Representatives of the city's Labor-Management-Citizens Committee received a briefing last night, at a meeting in City Hall, on the union's position in regard to a labor dispute which resulted in a strike at the National Jet Company plant eight months ago.

No formal action was taken since only five of the 16-member committee were present.

Also present were Louis P. Poulton, attorney of the International Association of Machinists (AFL); H. F. Huff, Warren, Pa., grand lodge representative; Joseph Humbertson, a local IAM official who asked that the conference be held, and a delegation representing the workers, affiliated with Local 489, IAM, the local which represents workers at the Cumberland Steel Company here.

The committee suggested that appointments be made to complete its membership and that later meetings might be arranged with company representatives to get their side of the dispute in order to bring about an amicable settlement of the issues.

It was felt no formal action could be taken since a quorum was not present and members present might not have legal status, since appointments are made for yearly periods.

The union officials reported all issues had been agreed upon on February 6, except for getting rid of four workers hired during the strike. The number has increased now to about 10.

Poulton said the union is still trying to make an amicable settlement and that meetings are being held with management about once a month.

The five board members previously had given their approval to the three contracts in letters sent to Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

These jobs include the rewiring of Pennsylvania Avenue School for $19,410 by the Maryland Electric Company; painting of the exterior of Beall High School in Frostburg for $6,715.02 by George V. Four of the five board members were present yesterday. They are Kenneth R. Malcolm, president; Mrs. Stanley Buckley, W. Earle Cobey and Mrs. Albert C. Cook. Edward J. Ryan was unable to attend.

CD Practice Alert Staged In Tri-Towns

The Tri-Towns Civil Defense district held a practice alert last night with Bloomington designated as the imaginary target area, according to David E. Kirk of Barton, coordinator of the district.

Eight volunteer fire companies responded to the alert and 40 men participated in the mock raid. Similar alerts are held periodically by the Tri-Towns district.

Westernport, Piedmont, and Bloomington fire companies all went to the scene. Barton and McCoole companies filled in for Westernport and Piedmont, while Keyser stood by to protect McCoole and Keyser for the duration of the alert.

Beryl and Luke companies also pulled out and stood by until the all clear was sounded.

Kirk reported that the alert was very successful.

He was graduated from Beall High School at Frostburg in 1947 and enlisted in the Air Force at Cumberland, June 1948. Sgt. Hager served in Korea from July, 1951, to July, 1952.

H. D. Barber, community service chairman of the Rotary Club here who is general chairman of the Sample Fair, said last night that this is the first of several worthwhile programs planned this year. All proceeds from the Sample Fair will be given to Central YMCA.

Barber said that he got the idea for the Sample Fair when he read that the California (Pa.) Rotary had been successful in such a project for several years.

Thousands of samples and souvenirs will be given away during the three-day affair. The list includes bottles of milk, rolls of film, popular records, ice cream, key chains and many others.

Barber reports his minimum goal for the three-night Sample Fair is a total attendance of at least 5,000 persons. Tickets may be obtained from any Rotarian or member of the YMCA Board of Directors.

There will be 24 booths in the Sample Fair, among them several which will be manned by Rotarians for the express purpose of dispensing samples.

Citizens Urged To Cooperate In Oiling Program

A plea for citizen cooperation during the street oiling program which is now under way here was issued yesterday by William H. Buchholtz, commissioner of streets and public property.

The commissioner said barricades placed by the Street Department must be left in place for at least 36 hours if the program is to be successful.

The newly oiled surface, he explained, must be allowed to cure for at least that time so that the asphalt may soak into the roadbed and set.

The surface of several streets oiled during the past few days, Commissioner Buchholtz said, has been damaged after barricades were removed to allow traffic to move into the area.

Street Department crews last week began work in the Bedford-Frederick Street section and are now working in the Lindnerville area.

At least six weeks more will be required to complete the task of oiling the some 32 miles of unpaved streets in Cumberland.

The oiling program is one of the biggest annual jobs done by the department. It consists of providing drainage, shaping and rolling all unpaved streets and then applying a coat of asphalt to stabilize the surface.

Democrats Set Next Monday As Convention Date

Mahoney Backers Will Fight Byrd Nomination

[By The Associated Press]

The Democratic State Convention today was set for July 26 amid warnings from supporters of George P. Mahoney that they will take legal action to block any move designed to stampede the state convention into giving the party's gubernatorial nomination to Dr. H. C. Byrd.

C. William Hetzer, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, announced the date after conferring with party leaders.

Hetzer said the convention will be held at 2 p.m. at the Emerson Hotel in Baltimore.

His call for the convention to be held July 26 beat by two days the legal requirement which says the party's convention must be held within 30 days of the June 28 primary.

Sees November Victory

Hetzer said delegates to the convention will represent the state and its people as well as the party.

"I am confident we will conduct deliberations with dignity and honor and from the convention will come a solid and united Democratic Party which will march to victory in November," Hetzer said.

Earlier, Mahoney forces said they would go to court if necessary to block such action before Mahoney's recounts are completed.

"We will not be given the bum's rush," declared Hyman A. Pressman, the Baltimore attorney who is doing some of Mahoney's legal skirmishing designed to wrest the nomination from Byrd.

As he laid down this challenge, the second of the recounts instigated by Mahoney got under way in Talbot County.

The Byrd camp lost an initial point at Easton on a demand that magnifying glasses should not be used to examine ballots.

Pressman himself touched off another ruckus at Centreville as the Queen Annes County recount went into its second week. He lost a demand that he be allowed to inspect the vault where the county's 15 ballot boxes are stored.

Three more recounts are scheduled to get underway Wednesday, in Calvert County and the 4th and 5th Baltimore legislative districts.

Only eight ballots of the 3,828 cast in Talbot County were examined in the first hour of that recount today, indicating little hope it can be completed before the deadline for the party's nominating convention.

The law says the convention must be held within 30 days of the primaries, which were on June 28. It is possible, of course, to convene the convention within the legal time limit and then recess it until recounts and other legal actions are completed.

Byrd still had an 80-72 edge over Mahoney in the county unit votes which govern the outcome of the race. He still had a 163,548 to 159,555 state-wide popular vote margin over Mahoney on the basis official returns.

Mahoney At Easton

It was a complicated process because the ballots also were being tallied again at the same time in the contest for attorney general and the five man sheriff's race, in which only six votes separated the winner from the runner-up and fewer than a hundred votes separated the first four men.

This raised the possibility a ballot challenged by one of the gubernatorial candidates could void a vote in the extremely tight sheriff's race, so the counting went ahead at a pace calculated to require 12 weeks.

The general election, on Nov. 2, is only 16 weeks away.

Besides legal action to stall any decision by the state convention before the recounts have been completed, Pressman also has threatened to go to court to have some Queen Annes County votes for Byrd thrown out if the election supervisors don't decide to do it. He has accused the supervisors with disregarding election laws in several of their decisions.

The Queen Annes supervisors completed today the seventh of the county's 15 ballot boxes and started on the eighth.

Byrd had a net gain of four votes from the seventh box, completed
